Pickers Help to Harvest Filbert Crop

ROCK CREEK — Rain finally came, but almost too late to be of any benefit to hunters although plenty of them were trying to locate the wary deer.

Mrs. George Martan, new owner of the Bittner home, has been quite ill with bronchial pneumonia. Her twin sister from Salem came to spend a few days with her and act as her nurse.

Kate Coats, May Krieger, and Blanche DeWitt were among those who picked up filberts at the Yost place near Tophill. Blue jays, squirrels and even skunks have taken quite a toll of the nuts. Lack of rain is keeping the nuts on the trees later than usual.

Chuck Cunningham spent the night of the Vernonia-Wyeast game with Roger Brown.

Civilization has advanced a long way, but a great discovery still has to be made—how to get nations to work together, peacefully.

Let's clean up the Milk Business

Here's what milk reform will do:

LOWER PRICES... RICHER MILK

In a recent radio address State Representative E. J. (Bill) Ireland said:

"Under our present Milk Control Law the Administrator has consistently lowered the butterfat content of our milk while increasing the price the consumer pays. In Crook County, for example, the price for milk containing up to 4.2% butterfat was 21½ cents per quart. In August 1952 the Controller raised the price to 23 cents and reduced the butterfat maximum to 3.6%."

"In Baker County the official order of June 1, 1950 fixed a minimum price of 19 cents per quart and a maximum butterfat content of 4%. On December 20, 1950 the price was raised to 21 cents and the butterfat dropped to 3.8%. On July 1, 1952 the price was raised to 22 cents and butterfat lowered to 3.6%."

"The proposed Fair Milk Law will eliminate this kind of retail price fixing and eliminate the power of a Controller to constantly lower quality standards."

FREE ENTERPRISE

The Oregon Statesman says: "The bill... does provide price protection at the producer level, restoring competition at the wholesale and retail levels."

And this from the Oregon Journal: "Let's break the milk monopoly and let free competition control once more at distributor and retail levels."

Under our monopolized milk control the number of licensed milk dealers in Oregon has dropped from 766 to 202 since 1939, a loss of 73%, and the number of dairy farms is down 19% since 1930.

FARM PROTECTION

The Oregon Journal, which has a long record of watchful concern over Oregon's milk supply, says:

"The proposed amendment not only protects the producer's price, it also requires the administrator to review these prices quarterly and to take into consideration the costs of production including those peculiar to Grade A production. It also establishes machinery for appealing the administrator's orders to the courts if they are deemed unfair or do not actually cover the costs of production. Producers, in short, would no longer be at the mercy of a milk administrator who may hold hearings when it suits his pleasure and whose orders are final."
