Tree Farm Hosts School Visitors

A group of 35 high school students representing all the high schools in Portland were conducted on a tour of the Columbia Tree Farm Tuesday by Bob Lindsay and Lee Pugsley of the Farm. They saw planting and aerial seeding made here as well as thinnings made in the Mist and Natal areas. Accompanying them were Dr. Dan Stotler, science supervisor for Portland public schools and Art Roberts of the West Coast Lumbermen's association, which organization sponsored the trip.
