Back again after an absence of several weeks due to space limitations, this column is still wondering what progress has been made towards finding out who caused the recent poisoning of several dogs in the southwest part of town. Not much comment has been heard about the act in recent days, but as long as the person who distributed the poison is not apprehended there remains the danger that there may be another attempt to eliminate more animals.

When poison is placed in the manner recently employed, there is always the danger a small child may be a victim. Dog lovers have an incentive to help find the guilty person because of a reward offered by "Dog World", a magazine published in Chicago.

The magazine offers a reward of $50 to a person who identifies the poisoner, makes a complaint in court and is the principal witness to secure conviction. The person accused must be convicted in open court. A statement from the judge, justice of peace or prosecuting attorney identifying the person making the charge is required over the official signature. Inquiries about the reward should be addressed to Dog World magazine Reward Fund, 3323 Michigan Blvd., Chicago 16.

Most people here probably give little thought to the work of the Oregon state civil defense agency but this word received a week ago from Robert Sandstrom, acting director, should be remembered because it will make possible the distribution of immediate information to the public in case of an air raid alert or enemy attack.

During an alert or attack, radio stations will give immediate information to the public on two civil defense frequencies: 640 and 1240 on the dial. All other frequencies will be off the air.

This system of notifying the public during an emergency has been designed to prevent enemy aircraft from using stations as a navigational aid, his release pointed out and been operative since May 15. Forty-three AM radio stations in 27 cities in the state are prepared to broadcast

UNPLEASANT FUTURE?

IF YOU KNEW for certain that trouble was coming your way, you'd safeguard yourself against it.

Unfortunately, nobody knows what will happen next. So, we suggest a well-balanced insurance program... a program that will not cost too much, yet will give you the help you need if trouble strikes.
