Game Secretary To Quit Work

Frank B. Wire, Oregon game commission secretary, is retiring after serving more than 21 years with the organization.

Mr. Wire started as supervisor of the commission on April 11, 1932 and served in that capacity until 1947 when because of poor health, he transferred to his present job as secretary. Prior to the time he was supervisor, no man had served for more than two years in the nerve-racking position.

The secretary has been a visitor here several times in past years and is well known by sportsmen of this area.

Many of the present-day activities being carried on by the game commission staff can be credited to the foresight and understanding of wildlife problems exercised by the amiable supervisor.

Mr. Wire in addition to being well-known as a conservationist is noted for the excellent hand-made fly rods he makes and his proficiency in using them. He has written many fine articles for various publications regarding wildlife and other phases of outdoor life of interest to sportsmen.

Three Awards Won By Friends Magazine

Jim Davies, manager of the Vernonia Auto Company, has been notified that Friends Magazine, the magazine distributed by Chevrolet dealers to their friends and customers, won three awards in the annual photographic contest held by the American Association of Industrial Editors. In the field of features, Friends won an award for a very dramatic and absorbing picture of a card player which appeared in the October 1952 issue in an article entitled "The Thinkers."

In the field of human interest, under the classification Children and Pets, Friends was awarded a prize for a picture of several boys having fun in a playground shower in New York's Central Park.

Again in the field of human interest, under the classification of Adults, Friends received an award for a picture of a young couple "courting." It appeared in the September 1952 issue as one of the pictures in a story on apple-peeling parties held in the rural areas of the south each fall.

OUT OF THE WOODS . . .

Cushing Eells

Cushing Eells started with his bride for Old Oregon in 1838. He was 28, and a graduate of Williams College and Harvard Theological Institute.

The Eells wintered with Marcos and Narcissa Whitman. In the spring they moved with the Rev. Elkanah and Mary Walker into the beautiful bunchgrass country of the Spokanes. There the four lived, labored and preached until the spring of 1848, when Indian uprisings forced them to retire to the Willamette Valley.

Start of Whitman

Cushing Eells returned to the Upper Columbia country in 1859, after the pacification of the Indians and the reopening of the interior country to settlement.

At Walla Walla he pursued a dream of purchasing the old Whitman Mission property from the American Board of Missions and of establishing a school as a memorial to the martyred Whitmans.

Five years later he had completed payments on the farm property and had built a home there. In 1866 he was ready to start the memorial school. The first building was dedicated in October of that year, on a site in the new town of Walla Walla.

For two years it was called Whitman Seminary, with Eells the principal. He also served at the time as superintendent of schools for Walla Walla County, and he worked his farm, six miles from the seminary.

For several years Eells rode the wild country of both Western and Eastern Washington, founding churches. Then he fared East to raise money for the Whitman school, which had a touch and go existence until 1883, when it was given a charter as Whitman College by the territorial legislature. Cushing Eells continued to travel, teaching and preaching, starting churches, "raising money." He was active until 1888, then lived five more years in retirement at Tacoma.

Le Blond

On his circuit Cushing Eells rode a big sorrel named Le Blond from 1872 until 1888. Le Blond carried the preacher for thousands of miles and then retired with him.

On those rides through wild, tough country Eells brought 16 Congregational churches to life. He started some schools and saved others. As the first school superintendent of Whitman County in 1877, Eells commonly slept with a blanket on a board supported by two nail kegs, using his saddlebags for a pillow. On the trail the food he carried in the saddlebags was seldom more than plain bread. Le Blond, of course, feasted on the richest bunchgrass on earth.

There were 50 years of such riding and service for Cushing Eells, beginning with his trip over the Oregon Trail of 1838. He was a person of exceptional education and culture, a successful farmer whenever he turned to the soil, a money raiser whose accumulations were enough to yield gifts of nearly $25,000 to Whitman College, to churches and other good causes, and he was a creative teacher to the end.

He was a great builder of pioneer churches and schools.

Rub baby oil thoroughly into your hands before beginning that painting job, and the paint will wash off easily when you finish. It eliminates the skin drying effect of washing in turpentine.

Part of Week Spent Away

TREHARNE—Mrs. Chas. Uhlin and son, Don, visited her mother, Mrs. A. R. Stanton, Tuesday. Visiting this week with Mrs. Whitmire and Mrs. Davenport are Barbara Jo and Milburn Whitmire.

Mrs. Flora Whitmire, Mrs. Zella Davenport, Mrs. Nancy Daniel and Carolyn were in Portland on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Tisdale spent from Thursday until Sunday at Prospect with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Beck and daughters. The girls came home with them to stay until Friday when their folks will be up to spend the fourth.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Wienecke were Mrs. E. M. Bledsoe and Mrs. D. L. Britton of Estacada, Mrs. E. M. Tolke and son, Bob, of Manning. Mrs. Bledsoe is the mother of Mrs. Wienecke, Mrs. Tolke and Mrs. Britton.

Calling on the Wieneckes and Grandma Rogers Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Riggle of Buxton; Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Leslie of Lebanon; Mrs. Wilbur McKenney and daughters, Carole and Connie, of Vernonia and Mrs. Jake Van Domlin of Mountaindale.

Mrs. Rilla Snyder visited friends and relatives here this week.
