

Oregon Youths To Go Abroad

Two young Oregon men, Gayle Gilmour of Jefferson and Roger Detering of Harrisburg, have been selected for foreign visits this year under the International Farm Youth Exchange program.

Detering will go to Turkey this summer and Gilmour to Brazil next fall. Donna Lingle of Boring was previously picked for a summer trip to Greece. She and Detering will leave for their assignments in June, according to Winnifred Gillen, state 4-H club agent who heads the Oregon program.

Both of the newly-named IFYE delegates are OSC students. Gilmour is a senior in agriculture engineering and Detering a junior in agriculture.

In the foreign countries, IFYE delegates live with farm families to learn their way of life. The exchange is privately financed by contributions. Its sponsors are the National 4-H Club Foundation and the U. S. Department of Agriculture extension service.

Broiler Feeding Methods Studied

Additional information on research concerning methods of feeding for broiler production may be of help to producers in deciding whether to feed all mash, mash and pellets or pellets alone.

Research work at the Maine Experiment Station indicates that pellet fed broilers grown to 12 weeks of age weighed more and their percentage of gain was higher. Their feed consumption and performance efficiency was better than other birds fed on a combination of pellets and mash or mash alone.

At ten weeks the average weights for the broilers on test were 3.01 pounds for the pellet fed birds, 2.90 pounds for the ones fed pellets and mash, and 2.87 pounds for those fed mash alone. Twelve week average weights were 3.61 pounds for the pellet fed, 3.42 for the pellet and mash fed, and 3.22 pounds for those fed mash alone.

Cafeteria Successful at Grade School

BOYS BEING served by Vicky Nanson.

Teachers monitor the lines as children come in and are on duty to assist if a child has difficulty with spilling something, or to see that children are eating rather than playing and wasting food. By 12:30, the cafeteria is cleared and the children are out at play. Children who bring their lunch also eat in the lunch room at a table reserved for them.

MEAL COST LOW

Equipment in the cafeteria is provided by the district and the stainless steel construction of the counters, etc., gives the best possible sanitation as well as making it attractive. For food storage they have both a deep freezer and a walk in cooler so that foods may be bought in quantity and stored.

The cafeteria is operated on a non-profit basis with meals served at the lowest possible cost to the children. This year, weekly meal tickets are 90 cents per week, payable at the beginning of each week. Single meals are 20 cents. However, if the meals were sold at actual cost of materials, they would have to be 35 or 40 cents each. The reason for the low price is that the government reimburses the school 3½ cents for each meal with which milk is served and also gives the school such surplus foods as butter, peanut butter, shortening, canned fruits, vegetables and meats, dry milk, dried eggs, beans and cheese. Also, the district pays the salary of one cook and furnishes all equipment.

PROGRAM IS LARGE

To show the overall magnitude of the operation, in November a total of 6905 meals were served to children and 299 to adults. 8314½ pints of milk were used. For last year, the cash sales of lunches totaled $10,189.80. The government subsidy for milk amounted to $1,821 and meals served to the Columbia County

O.E.A., School Masters' club and a benefit dinner brought in $689. Surplus foods supplied by the government were valued at between $2500 and $3000.

Accurate accounts of all cafeteria expense and outlay is kept in the office and the books are audited with the other school records at the close of the year. Also, the books are open at any time to the inspection of Mrs. Laura P. Wells, Director of the Oregon School Lunch Program.

Sometimes a question is raised as to why when a child misses a day a refund is not made. The cost is so low that the added expense and trouble in bookkeeping and office work just does not warrant it and in view of the value of the meals served, he really does not lose.

PARENTS INVITED TO VISIT

Parents are invited to visit the cafeteria, especially if children have complained about food or service. Sometimes the problem is in his not complying with rules or not wishing to sit long enough to eat. A talk with Mr. Proehl or Mrs. Richards can usually iron-out the difficulty and a sample of the food will quickly rout any suggestion that it isn't excellent.
