Most Districts in County Due for Tax Reduction

in taxes come this October because of a decrease in millages throughout the county, according to O. A. Ridenour, Columbia county assessor.

However, St. Helens and Scappoose are scheduled for slight

The reason for the drop in most areas is due to the increased valuation of the county, Ridenour said. As of January 1, the valuation of the county has increased $2,541,975, bringing the total to $26,779,840.

Throughout the county some 59 taxing districts will have a drop in millages. However, Ridenour added, this doesn't mean that all property owners will have a decrease in taxes because many will have an increased valuation this year. This will be due to new construction, additional personal property and such items.

According to the tax summary which is now being prepared by the assessors office, St. Helens' millage for the coming year will be 76.7 as compared to 74.2 last year. Scappoose will have a millage this year of 101.7 as compared to 99.1 last year, despite a drop in the high school levy.

Both Rainier and Vernonia will show big drops in millages this year according to the summary. Rainier's millage will be 96.1 as compared to 130.5 last year, and Vernonia's will be 104.4 as compared to 123.2 last year.

Clatskanie millage will be 98.3 as compared to 101.7; Columbia City's will be 67.7 as compared to 71.1; Prescott's will be 82.6 as compared to 114.8, and Goble's will be 95.3 as compared to 102 last year.

Ridenour also said that out of the 25 districts in the county last year that had millages over 100 there were only three this year.

He said that the increase in the valuation of the county came load of the public utilities, the readjustment of land and timber bia county will be due for a drop | construction and increased valuation of real property, the picking up of personal property and school tax off-set money.

He also said that most the budgets presented were within reason this year and due to that and increased valuation, most of the districts recorded a decrease

Ridenour said that this year the county will publish a revised tax summary book which will give the complete break-down of the tax millages of the county as well as other tax information. The book should be ready about October 1 and there will be an ample supply for taxpayers, he

The taxpayer should study the book for by using it and studying t, he will get a better understanding of the county's tax picture, Ridenour said.

The rural districts will also enjoy the relief due to the decrease in millages excepting Apiary, which increased due to a considerably larger school levy over last year. The districts to feel the relief most are those that carried an extra heavy burden last year.

Rainier district that had millages averaging 107 is now 75; Neer City, 133 to 117; Delena, 105 to 70; Warren, 105 to 90; Hudson, 104 to 75; Mayger, 90 to 65; Quincy, 100 to 85; and Vernonia, 95
