

WORK

I never did anything worth doing by accident, nor did any of my inventions come by accident.

—Thomas A. Edison

To love life through labor is to be intimate with life's inmost secret.

—Kahlil Gibran

I like work; it fascinates me. I can sit and look at it for hours. I love to keep it by me, and the idea of getting rid of it nearly breaks my heart.

—Jerome K. Jerome

Folks who never do any more than they get paid for, never get paid for any more than they do.

—Elbert Hubbard

All successful individuals have become such by hard work; by improving moments before they pass into hours, and hours that other people may occupy in the pursuit of pleasure.

—Mary Baker Eddy

The man who does not work for the love of work, but only for money is not likely to make money nor to find much fun in life.

Local Teacher On Committee

Kenneth Erickson, Vernonia teacher, has agreed to serve on the Columbia County Colleges for Oregon's Future committee which was organized recently at a meeting in St. Helens.

Purpose of the committee is to alert citizens of Oregon to the crisis facing higher education between now and 1970, according to Walter Erickson, St. Helens, county chairman.

Enrollment in the state-supported schools is expected to almost double by 1970, Robert Knoll, Oregon State college alumni director, told the committee. At present there are 22,500 students enrolled in schools of the state system of higher education. By 1970, it is estimated that this number will climb to 41,000.

Increased enrollments mean that additional housing, teachers and classrooms will have to be provided if there is to be room for all students, Knoll stated.

For over 30 years, dormitories in the state system of higher education have paid for themselves out of student fees without cost to the taxpayers of the state. Now, the state system is asking the voters in November to approve a constitutional amendment which will allow the state system to increase its bonding capacity to build self-liquidating buildings faster.

Top County Dairy Herds Named In DHIA Reports

The herd of Vern Kohstrand, McNulty, topped the Columbia County Dairy Herd Improvement association in production of butterfat during March. The Kohstrand herd averaged 49.6 pounds butterfat per cow—with 1143 pounds of milk.

Hickey Farms, Warren, was second with 36.3 pounds of butterfat in 992 pounds of milk. Following in third place was Burnet Dairy with 34.4 pounds butterfat in 890 pounds of milk, according to the report received in the county extension office from the DHIA tester, Barry Nash.

International Paper Company Clears Snags from Tree Farms

International Paper company is continuing to remove snags from its woods in an important fire prevention phase of its intensive tree farm program. IP's tree farms, covering 375,000 acres in the Pacific Northwest and northern California, are today nearly cleared of snags.

Some 23,000 snags are scheduled for felling in 1960 through special projects. More will be downed during regular logging operations.

All of International's Long-Bell division tree farms reduce forest fire hazards by felling the unsightly potential torches, as well as by slash disposal and progressively cleaner logging. The snag elimination program is carried on by the branches at Longview, Washington, Vaughn and Gardiner, Oregon and Weed, California.

Because forest fire control lines lie on ridge tops, snag-free ridge corridors are necessary. Much of this year's IP snag felling is scattered through ridge tops areas plus a few concentrated snag patches.

Standing snags in higher elevations are prone to attract lightning strikes. The snags can start fires because quick accessibility to the ridge tops cannot be achieved.

Most felling by IP is in older cut-over lands and some fire-killed timber areas. There are two methods of felling—saw and axe, or pushing the snags down by cat with an extended pole.

Snag-free corridors are maintained to break up large areas into smaller compartments for easier fire control. Forest fires burn uphill quickly and flames swiftly climb anything vertical. Fired snags on ridge tops become "chimneys" cascading embers, sparks, and burning debris into adjoining canyon sectors, starting many additional spot fires. Standing snags can return several times as evidenced by the disastrous Tillamook Burn. This flame-ravaged western Oregon region burned 250,000 acres originally in 1933. Since then, there have been three subsequent fires in the area at six-year intervals in 1939, 1945, and 1951. Portions of IP's Vernonia, Oregon tree farm are in the old burned area. Approximately 16,000 snags were eliminated at Vernonia last year, virtually completing this program on this tree farm.

One of International's largest snag projects was finished in 1959 on its Ryderwood, Washington tree farm where approximately 40,000 snags have been felled since 1950.

Snag felling is an essential part of maximum fire prevention and good housekeeping on managed tree farms.

Guiding International's snag clearing are IP resident foresters in each branch under the direction of Western Timber Department Manager A. J. Sandoz.
