

TV to Show 'What's New'

The state department of education is preparing a 90-minute in-service program to be televised on Channels 7 and 10 at 1:00 p.m., PST, on Thursday, August 30, and rebroadcast at 1:00 p.m., PST, on Wednesday, September 5. The program is being developed at the suggestion of the state advisory committee on ETV and radio as a means of reaching all teachers and administrators in the viewing area of the state educational television network and as a means of spreading farther the services of the department staff in the days just prior to the opening of schools.

The program theme is "What's New in '62 for Oregon Schools?" Dr. Minear will lead members of the state department of education professional staff in presenting information on such topics as the leadership role of the state department of education in Oregon education, the Oregon program, certification, curriculum trends, methods of staff utilization, new teaching tools, ways of classroom organization, and possibly school buildings. Content of the program will be directed particularly to elementary and secondary teachers and administrators.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

ADVICE

Advice is like snow; the softer it falls the longer it dwells upon, and the deeper it sinks into the mind.

—Samuel Taylor Coleridge
Harsh counsels have no effect: they are like hammers which are always repulsed by the anvil.

—Helvetius
We give advice by the bucket, but take it by the grain.

—W. R. Alger
Don't follow any advice, no matter how good, until you feel as deeply in your spirit as you think in your mind that the counsel is wise.

—David Seabury

Bulletin Tells About Birds

Oregon upland game bird hunters as well as bird enthusiasts will like a new 44-page bulletin on Oregon's upland game birds, both native and exotic, just off the press.

Prepared by W. V. Masson and Robert U. Mace, upland game bird technicians for the game commission, the bulletin covers the history of upland game birds in Oregon, the information and management program, and a description and life history of each species. Illustrations are by artist Harold C. Smith.

The bulletin is published by the Oregon Game Commission, 1634 S. W. Alder in Portland and may be obtained from this agency free of charge.

Birthday Noted By Study Group

MIST—The Bible study group met at the home of Mrs. Eula Blount Wednesday evening. It was also a party for Mrs. Irene Kyser for her birthday.

Mrs. Maude Rogers entertained with a card party Friday afternoon. Sandra Hansen is visiting an aunt at Marshland for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Devine drove to Rockaway Saturday morning to get Ricky who had spent a week at Camp Magruder.

Capt. Geo. Wusanen of Astoria was a lunch guest at the Charles Hansens Sunday.

Mail Size Stressed

Effective January 1, 1963, the minimum size of cards or letters mailed will be 4 1/2 by 3 inches. This includes all mail addressed to domestic or international addresses, according to the Bureau of Transportation of the Postal Department.

County Stockmen Picnic, Enjoy Beef Barbecue at Fairgrounds

More than 65 adults and an undetermined number of children took part in the eighth annual summer picnic of the Columbia County Livestock association on the fairgrounds Sunday, July 15.

Pit barbecue beef provided by the association was pronounced delicious by most everyone as they returned for second helpings. The pit for barbecuing was dug Saturday morning by Ron Hein, Scappoose, and Elmer Loyd, Deer Island. Wood for the pit was furnished by Jack Crawford, Mist, and Harry Kem, Deer Island. Meat was placed in the pit about 1:00 a.m. Sunday morning and taken out shortly after noon. Carving was done by Jess Lewis, Clatskanie.

Following the picnic, Ivan Jones of KGW-TV, acted as master of ceremonies for the program. Mrs. Harry Kem showed a purebred Quarterhorse, explaining some of the features of horses in general and pointing out the strong points of the breed, as well as the history of its development.

Dick Magruder, Clatskanie, told of the origin of Shropshire sheep and used one of his registered lambs to illustrate the features of the breed. Dick also showed a Duroc pig and related some of the recent developments in hog breeding.

J. F. Lewis, vice president of Oregon's Cattlemen's association, explained the work of the Oregon Beef Council and the ten cents per head on cattle going to slaughter used to finance this program. Lewis urged all cattle owners to leave such deductions with the Beef Council rather than asking for refunds.

Details of the picnic were carried out by Kay Van Natta, association president, and the board of directors, with wives of board members assisting in serving.

State Team to Seek Win in Annual Shrine All-Star Game

This could be the year that the State team regains its winning ways in the annual Shriners' hospital all-star football game.

At least that's the opinion of the coaches and other so-called experts who have gone over the State and Metro 27-man rosters with a fine tooth comb, seeking to forecast a winner in the 15th renewal of the colorful classic August 11 in Multnomah stadium.

It is generally agreed that the Staters, under Head Coach Roy Thompson of Roseburg, will be able to move on the ground or in the air and that their defense will be tough to dent.

There's little doubt that a big factor in the State ground attack will be big Mike Flury from Thompson's championship Roseburg eleven. A six footer weighing well over 200 pounds, Flury could very well be the key to the State attack and a real problem for Metro defenders.

With Flury grinding out yards up the middle and scatback John Ripper from North Bend ready to sweep wide, Metro's defense appears to have its work cut out. In addition to this pair, there are several others capable of keeping the defense honest.

Thompson also has made certain that he won't find himself short of quarterbacks. He has three on his roster—Tom Eaton of Medford, Tom Finucane of Springfield and John Buller of McMinnville. Buller can also fill in at fullback or halfback.

Up front the Staters also promise to be rugged, boasting such stalwarts as Wayne Looney, 225-pound tackle from North Salem; Gary Schmidt, a 5-foot, 7-inch, 195-pounder from Grants Pass, and Don Causey, a 200-plus end and linebacker from North Salem. State hasn't been in the win column since its 7 to 6 victory in 1956, although it did snap Metro's winning streak with last year's thrilling 19 to 19 tie.

The rival squad will report here July 29 for two weeks of intensive drills. Metro will again live and work at Lewis and Clark college while the Staters will be quartered in a downtown hotel and will practice at Woodrow Wilson high school.

Game officials report a brisk sale of mail orders at $3 and $2 for reserved seats. Uniform bodies of the Shrine are in charge of selling the $1 general admission seats. Mail orders are accepted at game headquarters, 1119 S.W. Park Ave. All proceeds from the contest go to the Shriners' hospital for crippled children.

Class Use of TV to Be Topic

The state television network, stations KOAC and KOAP, and the State Department of Education are presenting a 60-minute television program on the use of educational television in the classroom August 1 at 7:30 p.m. PST.

The program will be viewed by participants in the Oregon Workshop on Channels 7 and 10. It should be of much interest to local teaching personnel and interested parents.

Men give counsel but they give not the wisdom to profit by it.

Hillsbery Plans For Convention

Claude Hillsbery, shingle sawyer and longtime resident of Vernonia will be among the 20 delegates from here to one of the largest Christian conventions scheduled for the Pacific Northwest this summer. "As poor cedar makes poor shingles and a faulty roof, false teachings make leaky doctrine and a faulty faith," said the local minister, "certainly no place of protection."

The gathering is the "Courageous Ministers District Assembly" of Jehovah's Witnesses, expected to attract upwards of 6000 delegates to Longview for three days of intense ministerial instruction August 3-5.

Mr. Hillsbery, an ordained minister of Jehovah's Witnesses since 1942, currently serves as assistant to the presiding minister of the local congregation. The local delegate will be accompanied by his wife Doris.

The climax of the Longview assembly will be the public talk on Sunday, August 5, by a representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society's Headquarters office in Brooklyn, New York, Vernon C. Wisegarver.
