IT'S YOUR LAW

Respect For Law Makes Democracy Live

ENDORSE THIS CHECK, PLEASE

Most people today have checking accounts. As negotiable instruments, checks allow you to transfer money easily.

Two main ways to negotiate checks: by delivery or by endorsement and, now and then, by assigning them.

For checks made out to "cash" or "bearer," delivery alone negotiates them. It's not a good idea to make out checks this way. Any holder can cash the check without endorsement—a thief, a finder or some other unauthorized person. A merchant cashing it may still have you sign the check for identification.

You negotiate checks made out to named payees by endorsement. There are several kinds:

1. A blank endorsement: The endorser just signs his name, usually a poor idea. Anyone getting hold of it can negotiate it by delivery. As the endorser, you may have to pay if it bounces.

2. Special endorsements say who gets the money. On the check's back, you may write "pay to the order of John Jones," followed by your name. If Jones cashes it, he must sign it, a way to show that he got the check.

3. Some endorsements cut off further negotiations: You sign a check, "for deposit only," "for collection only," "Pay to Joe White only." This means no further negotiation.

4. Qualified endorsements remove endorser's liability if the check bounces. Here you write "without recourse" on the check's back and sign your name.

When would you use such a check? Suppose you are collecting funds for your club, a debt for a friend, or a business associate. The debtor makes out the check to you. You have no stake in the check; you just want to pass it on to its rightful owner. But you may have to endorse it, though you don't want to guarantee it. Should the check bounce after negotiation to other people you don't want to hold the bag as an endorser. The qualified endorsement solves this problem.

5. A conditional endorsement limits the rights of the person getting the check. "Pay to the order of John Jones, upon completion of my home." It calls upon John Jones to honor this condition. But such an endorsement does not alleviate work. Jones can still negotiate it or cash it at a store or bank. Only he is subject to the condition, not the store or bank. Such an endorsement may at least fix your rights between you and Jones.

When you endorse a check (except "without recourse"), you guarantee that it is good, even though the first maker may make a stop payment or deny that the reasons for making the check exist.

LESTER M. DUGAN, left and R. E. Collier, newly appointed district and circuit ministers of Jehovah's Witnesses. Dugan will supervise the activities of some 18,000 Witnesses in the northwest. One of his first duties will be to act as chairman of the fall circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses to be held in the Portland Public Auditorium September 7-9. Collier will direct the work of some 20 congregations of the Witnesses in Portland and surrounding areas. He will assume his duties about October 1.

Witnesses Set Fall Circuit

The Vernonia congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will join 21 other Portland area congregations of the faith in their regular fall circuit convention this week end. The meet will be held in Portland at the public auditorium.

It is expected that there will be some 20 delegates from the local congregation attending according to LaMoine Todd presiding minister of the group.

The theme of the gathering will be "Spread the Word of Life" and will stress the individual's Biblical obligation to bear witness to God and the approach of "Armageddon."

The seminar will have as its featured speaker Lester Dugan, newly appointed Northwest supervisor of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Highlight of the convention will be a free address Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Dugan entitled "The Bible's Answer to Our Problem of Survival." The public is invited.

The young mother was obviously shaken as she described the epic day to her husband. "Junior cut his first tooth," she reported. "Then he took his first step—and fell and knocked out the tooth. And...and then—he said his first word!"

CASH FOR CONES DOUGLAS FIR

We are now buying Douglas fir seed cones.

1. Be selective in cones harvested and make field tests of cones before picking. Cones meeting specifications will be purchased on basis of a measured bushel at posted prices. Inspection made at time of delivery.
2. Only mature, green-colored, unopened cones accepted. Brown, wormy, discolored or open cones not wanted.
3. Test cones by cutting lengthwise down the center of cone. Top prices paid for cones showing minimum of 5 good seeds per half-section.
4. Pick from trees; gather only fresh squirrel-cut cones.
5. Secure permission from, and make arrangements with landowners for collecting cones on their property; do not cut limbs or trees to get cones.
6. Know location of your cone collection by areas, and report elevations to our buyer at time of delivery.
7. Do not collect in the high elevations a this time. Crop conditions best at low elevations this year — under 1500'.
8. Low elevation cones are ready now—act now for maximum harvest. Season appears to be of short duration this year, but we will accept cones as long as they are tight and of good quality.
9. Bonus payment schedule available to steady pickers.
10. Buying restricted to scheduled hours.
