Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harders and sons, Dickie, Billie and Freddie of Aberdeen, Washington, were overnight guests at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Harders. Other week end callers were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haynes of Oswego.

Home from a ten-day vacation are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eckland who returned Saturday. They visited relatives in North Platte and Scotts Bluff, Nebraska, among whom was a brother-in-law who has been ill for some time. They stopped enroute in Colorado to visit Mrs. Eckland's sister who lives on a beautiful typical Colorado ranch. Another stop was made in Idaho to look after property interests. They report encountering very hot weather on the entire trip after leaving Pendleton. In spite of the heat they had a very enjoyable trip but home looked good when they returned and they can appreciate cool Oregon much more now.

Letter to the Editor - - -

The following letter was received by Mrs. Wm. Pringle from E. E. Hayes, first manager of the Oregon American mill in Vernonia. She has consented to its being printed so that former acquaintances of Mr. Hayes might share it with her.)
Dear Mrs. Pringle:

As an ancient former citizen of Vernonia I always get a particular thrill when I see something in the papers that pinpoints Vernonia as the live, wide awake, upcoming community that I knew when I stepped off the train there in 1923 to build the Oregon-American Lumber Company mills there, and serve as the first manager of that concern.

I have seen lumber towns come and go when timber resources were cut out, but Vernonia seems to be a spot that came to life in 1923 and keeps on being more and more alive as time goes on.

I wish to congratulate you and your Vernonia Arts and Crafts Society, I hope it will grow, and grow and grow. I picked your name because it seems that I once knew a Mr. William Pringle back there in 1923, whom I esteemed highly. I am glad that the Pringles continue to be associated with the bright spots that shine in the charming spot which was once briefly my home.

Sincerely,
E. E. Hayes

Clues Offered For Freezing

You are money ahead if all the foods you preserve are in good condition when you want to serve them weeks or months later. Summer's bounty looks and tastes best in winter meals if foods have been canned and frozen properly.

Margaret Allyn, Columbia county extension agent, offers some clues to better canned and frozen foods:

Start with a good quality product and work quickly. You cannot expect to take better quality food from the jar or freezer than you put into it.

Frozen tomatoes can be satisfactory, not for serving fresh, but all right for cooking, if you wrap them well and use when they have been in the freezer no longer than two months.

Fruits may be frozen without sugar but unsweetened fruits lose quality faster than those packed in syrup or sugar.

A plastic bag is satisfactory wrapping for a whole chicken or turkey. The best way to get the air out of the plastic bag is to submerge the bag containing turkey or chicken in water, except for the open end. When the air is out, twist opening and seal.

Pies baked either before or after freezing are satisfactory, but those baked after freezing are usually better. Fruit pies baked after freezing have more fresh fruit flavor and a crisper crust. It takes a little more time and fuel to bake them than it does to reheat baked pies.

It is important to remove all traces of blossom from cucumbers before you pickle them. The blossom end contains an enzyme that may cause spoilage.

You do not have to add salt when you can vegetables. Salt is for flavor only. If you do add salt add it when the jar is filled with vegetables.

White or cider vinegar can be used for pickle or relish making. White vinegar gives a clearer, brighter-colored pickle. Cider vinegar adds flavor even though it darkens pickles.

Use a pure granulated salt, if available for pickle making. Uniodized table salt can be used but the materials added to the salt to prevent caking may make the brine cloudy. The use of iodized salt is not recommended for it may darken pickles.

Anticipation is the magnifying glass of coming events.
