THE HORSE BITE

One of Farmer Brown's horses bit Susie as she was standing in the school yard. The horse was in a fenced-in pasture which adjoined the school grounds.

Susie had been standing next to the fence, along with several other children, some of whom had been teasing the horse. Suddenly the horse reached over the fence and bit Susie on the ear.

Susie and her parents sued Farmer Brown for the medical expenses incurred due to the injury to her ear.

Farmer Brown said he should not have to pay.

"How was I to know that the horse would bite one of those kids? It never bit anyone before," he said.

Can he be held liable for the injury done by his horses?

No, said the court. The owner is only required to anticipate injuries that may result from the natural traits and habits of the animals, or from those unnatural habits and traits of the individual animal of which he had knowledge. The horse in this case had never shown any vicious tendencies before it bit Susie's ear. Nor is it the natural trait of horses to bite people.

The law does not require Farmer Brown to anticipate that children would tease a normally gentle horse to the point where it would reach over the fence and bite somebody. The court concluded that there was no evidence establishing any negligence on the part of Farmer Brown.

Susie was not entitled to collect damages.

THE CONTINGENT INHERITANCE

Regular church attendance had always been an important factor in the life of Mrs. Jones. Her son, John, although a church member, did not share his mother's enthusiasm. In fact he seldom, if ever, attended.

When Mrs. Jones died, she provided in her will that John would get a sum of money, payable in 15 annual installments, on the condition that he attend the regular meetings of the church. The will further provided that if John did not try in good faith to carry out the condition, the sum so bequeathed should go to charity.

John, upon learning of the provision in his mother's will, petitioned the court to give him the money free and clear. He claimed that such a condition was contrary to the constitution which declares that the right of every man to worship according to the dictates of his own conscience shall never be infringed, and that no one shall be compelled to attend any place of worship against his consent.

Is such a provision in a will valid? Yes, said the Wisconsin Supreme Court in a recent case. A provision in a will making the payment of a legacy conditioned upon the beneficiary regularly attending a named church is not contrary to public policy, nor does it infringe the provisions of the Constitution.

The court said, in effect, that it was Mrs. Jones' property to dispose of as she saw fit. John did not have to accept the money. He had the option of accepting or rejecting the gift voluntarily without any restrictions upon his will or coercion of his conscience.

The power to dispose of your property includes the right to fix the terms of the gift, no matter how whimsical or capricious they may be, only provided that they do not in any way violate the law.

If John wants the money, he must attend church. (Oregon lawyers offer this column as a public service. No person should apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is completely advised of the facts involved. Even a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Larson Family Holds Reunion

BIRKENFELD - The Larson families had their annual reunion picnic at the Hillsboro park Sunday with a large attendance. The Larson family consists of six girls and six boys, with all present except two girls. A pink and blue shower was given for a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larson.

Among the many visitors at the Vick Bergs over the week end were the Ralph Bergs, the Phil Laymans, the David Morgans and Mr. and Mrs. George Mathews. Mr. and Mrs. David Morgan came after their two children who had been staying here.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Wanstrom Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Swanson, Mr. Axel Swanson, Mrs. Esther Stonefret, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hansen, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hansen and Randy.

Debra Larson returned home Friday evening from her trip to Alaska. She flew to Portland and her folks met her there. She enjoyed herself very much while there and wants to go back again next summer.

The families of Francis Larson were all home Friday evening, coming to help him celebrate his birthday. Al Berg also was present.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Spain and family have moved to Washington.

Mrs. Art Bellingham's aunts, Mrs. Julia Vadnais and Mrs. Mary Williams, visited with her for a couple days. They went to Portland Sunday on their way home to Madras.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Udey, along with another couple left late in the week for a fishing trip in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lonquist spent the week end at Eugene with relatives. They also attended the Scandinavian festival which was at Junction City.

Watsons Entertain Friends and Relatives

BIRKENFELD - Mrs. E. J. Black of Portland spent last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Watson. Mr. and Mrs. John Karasti and his brother-in-law, Ray Kelly of Oakland, California visited them on Saturday evening. Other recent visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mooseberg of Des Moines, Iowa, who is chief dietitian for the state of Iowa, and a former service buddy of Mr. Watson, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atha of Marshalltown, Iowa, who is dietitian at the Iowa soldiers home at Marshalltown. They came out to attend a dietitians convention in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown and family of Portland spent several days at their home here, the former Eddie Pye place.

Trip Started Friday To Lubbock Reunion

RIVERVIEW - Mrs. E. L. Lloyd left Friday for Lubbock, Texas to attend the Jenkins' family reunion. Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Snook were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Snook and five children of Portland and Rev. and Mrs. Fred Holt of Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Eckland and two sons visited Mr. and Mrs. Bob Poole and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Trucke at Seaside Saturday.

Week end visitors at the home of Mrs. Glenn Mitchell were Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Barlow and son of San Leandro, California and on Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Louis McCoy and family of Portland and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Darby and family of Oak Grove. For Sunday dinner, guests were Mrs. Emmett Smith and two daughters of Portland.

Mrs. Bob Dorton and son Stephen of Santa Ana, California are visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Magoff, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parker accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harve Christensen attended the Banks barbecue Sunday.

Summer Care Avoids Mud

Mud-free winter livestock lots can be developed by summer stockpiling of wood shavings, hog fuel, and similar forest by-products. Two to three foot deep shavings will keep both sheep and cattle out of mud for most of the rainy season.

County Extension Agent Don Coin Walrod suggests that concrete yards and walkways are necessary where there is a very heavy concentration of animals. Wood waste, piled high, for sleeping and resting areas works well when adjoining concrete walks.

Couple Attends Two Picnics for SP People

TIMBER - Mr. and Mrs. L. McCarty and granddaughter, Kristi, just returned from a vacation trip which included the SP picnic at Roseburg, Medford, Crater Lake and Diamond Lake, Eugene for two days, then to Honeyman Park at Florence with Dick and Bonnie McCarty, Sunday, August 2, they attended the SP picnic at Oaks Park in Portland and met several former Timber families, among them Mr. and Mrs. M. Alf, Geo. and Sadie Astell, Bud and Lavern Ribbers, Mr. and Mrs. George Long and Bill and Eileen Noah. Food and rides were provided by the SP.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Dean Sponsel and baby arrived Friday from Illinois for an indefinite visit at the Sponsel home. Larry is recently out of the service.

Mr. and Mrs. John Alviso and Grant drove to meet Marian, who came in on a train from Ione where she had been visiting her friend Sandy Bryson. The Brysons are former Timber residents.

Mrs. Alva Williams and Mardell Hickman went to Albany Saturday to hear a granddaughter and sister sing in the concert given by the campus chorals. Marsha Hickman has solo parts in this chorus.
