Poisoning Toll High in State

A total of 610 cases of accidental poisoning were reported to the Oregon Poison Control Registry for the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1964, according to the state board of health. Twenty-seven deaths due to poisoning were recorded for the same period, Dr. Richard H. Wilcox, state health officer, pointed out.

This represents a 17 percent increase over the previous fiscal year when 519 poisoning cases were reported. Deaths increased even more markedly, up nearly 60 percent from the 17 reported for the previous year. Children under five years of age were the victims in 427 of the reported poisoning cases. Two year olds alone accounted for 175 of the cases. Relatively few cases were reported for other age groups with the next largest being 28 cases for the 15 to 19 year olds.

A breakdown of the poisoning cases by substance ingested shows medicines were named most frequently, 435 times or 71 percent of the cases. Aspirin alone was the offending substance in 216 of the cases. Other substances which were ingested included household preparations, 37 cases; pesticides, 29 cases; petroleum products, 21 cases; cosmetics, 17 cases; plants, 17 cases; gasses, 12 cases; paints, 22 cases; and miscellaneous substances including fertilizers, 20 cases.

Parents of children under five years of age are urged to exercise special care in the storage and use of the above named groups of substances, Dr. Wilcox emphasized.

When possible, a locked storage cabinet should be used. Never tell a child that medicine is candy and never take or give medicine in a dark room. Always read the label to assure that the proper medicine and dosage is being given.

Poison victims should be taken immediately to a physician or a hospital emergency clinic. If the poison container is available, take it to the physician as it may carry vital information such as the recommended antidote or treatment, Dr. Wilcox concluded.

QUESTION: Will there be many youths trained under the Manpower Development and Training Act of 1962 during the coming season?

ANSWER: During 1963, 24 percent of trainees attending regular classes were youths under 22 years of age. Courses approved for this fall are two special youth programs — 250 trainees in logger training at North Bend and a multiple occupation program at Eugene. The North Bend course for logging entry workers will draw 250 trainees from various parts of the state. The training will be given at Southwestern Oregon College.

A multiple occupation program at Eugene will train up to 350 trainees in occupations in short supply in Lane county. The latter training will be at Eugene Technical school. More than 900 persons in Oregon are expected to be in training this fall under MDTA.

Factors Told Union Groups

Factors to be found in Ballot Measure No. 3 facing the voters on November 3 were explained to two union groups meeting here September 12. The meeting of Lumber and Sawmill Workers Local 2961 is scheduled for 10 a.m. Local 2522, LSW, will meet at 2 p.m. Both sessions will be in the Labor Temple in St. Helens.

Don Cadwell, special representative of the Oregon AFL-CIO will emphasize the necessity of a maximum registration of voters prior to October 3 so that they may take part in this decision, November 3 when voters will consider proposed amendments to the state's workmen's compensation (job-injury) law.

Ballot Measure 3 would bring under coverage for sustained income, full medical and hospital services, & rehabilitative measures almost all employed persons in the state. This means, in effect, that more than 200,000 workers not now covered by state job-injury insurance would be eligible for the same benefits in case of an on-the-job injury as the more than 400,000 whose employers now insure them with the State Industrial Accident commission.

Letter to the Editor - - -

In an effort to place Columbia county in the forefront so far as voter registration is concerned, the county court is urging all eligible voters who are not registered to do so between now and October 3, which is the last possible date to register in order to vote in November. Special emphasis is being placed on the week of September 13-19 when it is hoped that those eligible but not registered voters will perform this civic duty.

America can remain strong just as long as we keep our government close to the people and the only way that can be done is for every citizen to prize his franchise to vote enough to register and at every opportunity vote. We urge the heads of all governing bodies in the county to lend every aid possible to accomplish this fact.

Respectfully,
Columbia County Court
