Week Ends Take Highway Tolls

If highways could be declared "off limits" during weekends, Oregon's traffic death toll would take an immediate turn for the better this year.

Records of the traffic safety & education division of the Department of Motor Vehicles indicate that nearly half, 47 percent, of the state's traffic deaths to date have occurred between 6 p. m. on Fridays and midnight on Sundays.

The last week in September, the division said, illustrates the point. Seven deaths occurred during the 54-hour weekend; only two others had been reported unofficially Monday through Thursday, a 96-hour period.

The weekends, including the three summer holiday weekends, have accounted for 194 deaths, averaging nearly five per weekend.

Normally, 33 per cent of the state's accidents occur during weekends. If this pattern is prevailing this year, it means weekend crashes are of a highly lethal character this year.

The division urged drivers who take to the open road the remaining weekends of the year to exercise added caution and to pay full attention to the driving job.

Failure to do so, the division added may make it not only your lost weekend but your last weekend as well.

Labor Council Offers Program

In order that the voters in Columbia county can become more familiar with the candidates in the coming election, all leading office seekers on the county level are invited to attend candidate's night Thursday, 7:30 p.m. in the Labor Temple at St. Helens.

Pete Bartlett, secretary-treasurer of the Columbia County Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO, has announced that this is being sponsored by the county labor council. Bartlett added "this will be an opportunity for everyone to get acquainted with the Columbia-county candidates."

In addition to the county office seekers, the labor council endorsed state candidates have also been invited to appear. These include, Alfred H. Corbett, Robert W. Straub, Robert Y. Thornton, Blaine Whipple and Wayne Turner.

This is an important date and a good opportunity for all. Free refreshments will be served.

Speaker Named For CARC Meet

James Gould, NARC Northwest regional vice-president, will be guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Columbia Association for Retarded Children October 15, 8:00 p.m. at the chamber of commerce building, St. Helens.

Gould, a recent participant at the national convention in Oklahoma, will tell highlights of this meeting. Legislation at the federal and state level to benefit the retarded will also be discussed.

Officers and members are asked to come an hour earlier (7:00 p.m.) to vote on a change in the by-laws concerning meeting day and the fiscal year.

Miss Fern Fisher and Mrs. James Hester will be hostesses for the evening, which is open to the general public.
