Final Phase of Workshop Due

The third and final phase of the Ornamental Workshop will be presented Thursday, March 4 at the McBride grade school, reports Columbia County Agent Tom Zinn.

The topic to be covered at this session will be lawn care and maintenance .This will include such subjects as insect and disease control, weed control, fertilizing, renovating, proper soil and seed recommendations for planting new lawns.

Dr. Norm Goetze, Oregon State University turf specialist, will present the program. Dr. Goetze is considered one of the best turf specialists on the West Coast

Approximately 460 home gardeners have attended the first two sessions, says Zinn. Twenty-one door prizes were awarded to the lucky ticket holders attending the first two phases of the workshop. Feed and seed stores, flower shops and nurseries will have some more prizes available at this session

There is no fee charged for this session. If the first two were missed, the final phase can still be attended.

The time is fast approaching for work to begin on the home lawn. Home owners that take particular pride in their lawns will not want to miss this final session, points out

The program is aimed at encouraging and promoting better management practices in the farm forestry section of the forest industry. Awards and recognition on a county level will be given by the chamber of commerce and the farm forestry committee. The county award winner may then compete with winners of other counties for a state-wide award spon- of myself and my classmates in one sored by the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

The farm forestry committee awards a large rotating trophy for the county winner and the chamber of commerce is sponsoring an individual trophy.

Details of the program and candidate's application forms are being mailed to many of the known woodland owners in the county. Skeans said they have also been provided certain organizations such as granges and farm bureau centers, hoping these groups will sponsor an individual known to them or encourage woodland owners to fill out and return the applications.

Deadline for return of the application forms has been set for March 5, Skeans said. Forest owners who have not less than five acres and not more than 5000 may compete in the Application forms may also be secured from Don Coin Walrod, county extension agent and forestry committee secretary.

THE PEOPLE SPEAK ---

(Editor's note: The following is a copy of a letter sent to Representative Wendell Wyatt by a Vernonia high school history class.)

The Honorable Wendell Wyatt 1030 House Office Building Washington, D.C. 20515 Dear Mr. Wyatt:

I am writing this letter in behalf of the American History Classes of Vernonia High School.

We have been following the crisis in Vietnam with interest, and we would like to put a few questions to you as we can not seem to find the answers elsewhere. As future voters of America, we think that we deserve to have our questions answered.

First, has the crisis been so serious that neither the President nor anyone else in authority is willing to make a definite statement as to the position of the United States in the Vietnam situation? We are beginning to wonder whether our government

Second, are the policy makers hoping that if nothing is said or printed, we will assume that there is a policy without questioning? The White Paper just issued has a ring of justification to it rather than a reasonable or well-thought out policy in our estimation.

Third, all we hear about on television or read in the papers is about what the other countries are going to do or what they have to say about the events in Vietnam. We would like to know what our President has to say about the situation. After all, under our form of government the people should have the right to hear directly from the President what the United States is going to do, or at least to know the true conditions.

We realize these are critical years, and we are trying to know and understand our world now, so we can be better citizens when our time comes to vote. We feel that our elected representatives should inform the voters of their districts about a situation such as Vietnam even though the President apparently does not choose to do so.

Sincerely yours, Letitia Biddle, Vicki Strong and Members of the American History Class Vernonia High School

Pomona Plans Booster Event

The Columbia County Pomona Grange is holding a booster night dinner, March 17, at 7:00 in the Rainier elementary school cafeteria. Columbia Association for Retarded Children is serving the dinner and all the proceeds go to the C. A. R. C. education fund.

The program for the evening will include two speakers, Oregon State Grange Master Allen P. Wheeler, and James Gould, northwest regional vice-president of the National Association for Retarded Children. Also, musical numbers will be presented by the music department of Rainier elementary school.

The master of ceremonies will be Robert H. Stevely, county 4-H extension agent.

The committee for the arrangements for the Grange includes W. W. Kimble, Rainier, Pomona master; James H. Smith, chairman and Mrs. Smith, Columbia City; Mr. and Mrs. Matt Erickson, Clatskanie; and Mr. and Mrs. William Reed, Marshland and for C.A.R.C., Mrs. Ruth Briggs, St. Helens; Mrs. R. H. Robinson and Mrs. Elsie Pantano of Scappoose.

This will be a ham dinner with homemade pies furnished by ladies of the Granges.

The price will be $2.00 and there will only be 200 tickets sold.

For anyone interested in either of these organizations, this should be a most interesting and informative evening, with time and money well spent in helping further the training of the mentally retarded children of the area.

For tickets contact Jim Smith, St. Helens 397-3372, or Lawton Waddell, 755-2455 Jewell exchange.
