DAVID DUBOSE

Student Plans Hebrew Study

David DuBose, 21-year-old son of Reverend L. A. DuBose, pastor of the First Baptist church here, will bring the message at that church this next Sunday evening, March 14, just prior to his departure March 20 for Tel Aviv. He has been speaking at the church at the evening services for several weeks.

David is now a junior at Portland State College and as part of his studies he has taken two and a half years of Hebrew under Rabbi Stampfer in Portland.

He will now go to Kibbutz in Northern Galilee where he will work on a collective farm in order to study the people, their customs and the language.

His reason for making this trip is his deep interest in cultural Zionism, in Middle East politics and the history of the Holy Land and future purposes.

He will fly from the east coast to Tel Aviv, then go to the Tfar Gildadi province.

Local Minister Ordained At Rites Held at Salem

Rev. William Armstrong, pastor of the Vernonia Assembly of God church for the past three years, was one of 16 licensed ministers of the denomination to be ordained last Friday evening at the annual district meeting held at the First Assembly of God church at Salem. Included in the 16 was T. "Texas" Tyler, a former actor, who, after his conversion, became a minister.

Armstrong has been a licensed minister in the church for nine years during which he has served churches at Tygh Valley, Hereford and Fossil. During that time he has completed correspondence courses equivalent to a three-year seminary course in order to qualify for ordination.

Pomona Master Outlines Grange Accomplishments

The Grange was established in 1867 by Oliver Hudson Kelly and his associates shortly after the Civil War, for the purpose of bringing social, economic, and political betterment to farmers.

Wes Kimble, Pomona Master, stated during a recent interview: "Grange is one of the few organizations to give women organizational equality. It is possible for a woman to fill any of the grange offices, including the master's chair."

High on the list of Grange accomplishments during the past 90 years has been rural free postal delivery, the parcel post service, and the postal saving bank system. Grange has supported extension service since 1914. Legislation was initiated by Grange in 1956 which removed the federal fuel tax from "on the farm uses," saving farmers 75 million dollars annually. Grange sponsored legislation which created R.E.A. and the rural telephone program, and was the dominant rural force in bringing Social Security to farm people.

The Grange is a family organization from the Jr. Grange on through the Subordinate, Pomona, State and National organizations. There are twelve Subordinate Granges in Columbia county. Pomona Grange has nearly 1,000 members throughout the country.

Pomona Grange is sponsoring a Booster Night dinner, March 17, 7:00 p.m. at the Rainier elementary school. Proceeds will go to the Columbia County Assoc. for Retarded Children's education fund.

Guest speakers will be Allen P. Wheeler, State Grange Master and James Gould, National Assoc. for Retarded Children northwest regional vice president. The music department from the Rainier elementary school, will play several selections. Robert Stevely, county extension agent, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Kimble stated in conclusion: "Pomona plans to make this program an annual affair. The purpose of this public dinner is to extend the Grange hand of friendship to all clubs, organizations and individuals interested in becoming better neighbors and working together for county and community betterment."

IT'S YOUR LAW

Respect for Law Makes Democracy Live

UNCONSTITUTIONALITY

Sometimes laws enacted by the U. S. Congress or by state legislatures are declared "unconstitutional" by the courts.

When a law is declared unconstitutional by the supreme court of a state, in the case of state laws, or by the supreme court of the United States, in the case of either federal or state laws, the law is, in effect, nullified or wiped out.

Why are some laws declared unconstitutional?

To understand why some laws are stricken down as unconstitutional, or in other words, in violation of the constitution, one must realize that the constitution of the United States is the supreme law of the land and the constitution of a state is the fundamental law for that state. The constitution represents the will of the people, from whom all power springs in our form of government, and only the people have the right to change the constitution.

Sometimes the members of congress or of a legislature enact a law which provides for some procedure prohibited by the constitution. In that case, if the validity of the law is challenged, it is the duty of the court to declare that the law is unconstitutional.

When a law is held void it is not because the courts have or exercise any control over the legislative power, but because the will of the people as expressed in the constitution is paramount to that of their elected representatives expressed in a mere law. It is the duty of the judges under their oaths of office to give effect to the will of the people as expressed in the constitution.

If new laws could ignore fundamental concepts on which our government is founded, a majority of congress or of a state legislature could radically change our form of government simply by passing new laws which do away with constitutional rights, such as freedom of speech, freedom of the press, or freedom of religion.

WHO NEEDS A WILL

A college research project found out recently that only about half of the people who need wills have them.

Many people think of wills as tying their hands. Actually wills free them.

While you live or afterwards through your will, you may hand your property to a trustee - a friend, relative, associate, bank, or other "fiduciary." Under the eye of a court, the trustee will follow your instructions. Trusts can serve almost any need you have.

In principle, trusts are simple: As a "grantor," you choose and turn your property over to a trustee. You tell him what to do. He does it.

Don't tie your trustee's hands. One St. Louis pioneer set up a trust to help people stranded in ox-carts. But now there's no ox-carts! The court had to change the trust to serve a purpose the grantor might have approved.

You can set up trusts to provide for income, funds for education, an annuity, or charitable gift. Many a man has put property in trust to pay his wife an income while she lived, with the rest to go afterwards to their children.

People use "spendthrift" trusts to support someone who, because of poor health, inexperience, or poor judgement, may waste, lose or blow the money in. The grantor can set out in detail how payments may go to the beneficiary.

The point is this: You can call upon the law to do remarkable things during your life and afterwards, things you could not otherwise do.
