

Watch Night Service Planned at EUB Church

A New Years eve watch night service is scheduled at the Evangelical United Brethren church for Friday evening under sponsorship of the Youth Fellowship of the church.

The group plans to assemble at 8 p.m. for an evening of fun and fellowship which will include games and refreshments up to 11 p.m. At that time, they will hold a devotional service up to midnight and the seeing in of the new year.

While the activity is sponsored by the young people, it is for all ages and everyone is invited to participate.

Location of Office Changes

The Portland office of the Internal Revenue Service has both a new address and a new telephone number, according to A. G. Erickson, district director for Oregon. The correct address is now SW Pine street, rather than 830 NE Holladay, and the telephone number is 226-3361.

Public contact offices are on the mezzanine floor of the new location.

The changes were occasioned by the move December 6 of the headquarters office from the northeast side of the Willamette river to the Multnomah building (formerly the Multnomah hotel), in the downtown area. "The move was made without interruption of service to Oregon taxpayers," Erickson said.

"Another change this year," he said, "will be a special telephone number in Portland for taxpayers who need help in preparing their federal income tax returns." The telephone number 223-3801 will be in operation from January 3 until January 15, 1966, inclusive.

Nazarenes Plan Communion Rite

Rev. Milton B. Gudmundsen, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, will preach the annual New Year's message at the 11 a.m. service Sunday, January 2. At the close of the morning service, the Sacrament of Holy Communion will be observed. Rev. Gudmundsen will officiate, assisted by the Rev. H. L. Russell.

In the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patzhold and family will assist the pastor in presenting an evening of vocal and instrumental music. Mr. Patzhold is well known to the congregation of the church having supplied the pulpit several times in the pastor's absence.

The public is cordially invited to both of these services.

Agent Stresses Plant Quality

Cane berry producers or potential growers who will be interested in obtaining planting stock in the spring, should make arrangements for needed plants now, suggests Don Coin Walrod, county extension agent.

Unlike other seed programs, certified stock of the various cane and trailing berries is not available, but the best stock obtainable goes under the name of "Register of Merit," says Walrod. Under this program, plantings of berries entered in this program are inspected several times during a growing season by various representatives of Oregon State University. Only fields that are thrifty, true to type, and free of disease and insect damage are approved as a source of planting stock for the coming year.

Anyone who will have a need for planting stock should contact owners of "Register of Merit" fields to be sure that sufficient plants have been tipped to provide the needed plants. If this is not done, Walrod points out that growers may find plant supplies inadequate, or they may be forced to plant inferior stock.

Witnesses Plan For Convention

Announcement was made this week that a circuit convention of Jehovah's Witnesses will be held in Longview, Washington January 21 - 23, 1966.

In making the announcement, Ernest L. Anderson, presiding minister of the Longview congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, said the convention, sponsored by the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, will be held in the R. A. Long high school auditorium.

Ministers from 17 congregations will attend the three-day Bible instruction course. The assembly theme will be Increasing Our Praise to Jehovah. The principal speaker will be A. L. Franch, Northwest district supervising minister.

Jehovah's Witnesses hold three conventions each year. Two are circuit assemblies, such as the one scheduled for Longview, Washington in January. The third can be a district assembly, where many circuits gather from the district, or it might be a national or international convention. The purpose of the conventions is to strengthen the unity and faith of the delegates through association with other Christians, and to increase knowledge and make Bible teaching methods more efficient, according to Anderson. He also stated that none of the ministers of Jehovah's Witnesses graduate from any Theological school or seminary. Presiding ministers of each congregation have attended or will attend a special advanced course for the ministry at the world headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses in Brooklyn, New York.

The circuit convention in Longview will aid all members of the congregations represented in a progressive way so they can keep up with current Bible educational methods, thus benefiting their home congregation with the constant flow of new scriptural information.

The event is expected to draw some 1000 delegates from Southwest Washington & Oregon. The keynote lecture, "What Does the Resurrection from the Dead Mean to You and Yours", scheduled for Sunday, January 23, at 3:00 p.m., will be given by district official, A. L. Franch.

Youthpower USA Conference Set

The Oregon Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. through a grant from the Sears Roebuck Foundation, proposes to sponsor a second Youthpower USA Conference. The conference will be held at Pacific University at Forest Grove on Friday, January 14, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. All interested high school seniors of Washington and Columbia counties and other surrounding areas have been asked to participate.

There will be students from the following Columbia county high schools: Rainier, Clatskanie and Vernonia.

Under the guidance of Dr. Donald Jones, head of the department of business and economics, the theme of the conference will be "Automation - The Challenge of the Future." Suggested areas for discussion are: Automation machine demonstration, careers in automation and industrial automation.

Some of the members of the St. Helens Business and Professional Women's club will attend the conference.

Any members who have not contacted the local president for reservations and will be able to attend, please contact Katherine Ballatore as soon as possible.

W.C. Telephone Contract Drawn

A new one-year agreement was reached by West Coast Telephone company and Local 77, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, on December 22. Negotiations on a new contract have been under way since October 27.

According to Federal Mediator Albert Gese, the new contract will be submitted to the union membership for vote ratification. Details of the new agreement were not released, pending their submission to the union membership.

The former contract had expired December 1, but was extended by the mutual agreement of both parties. The federal mediation service was called into the bargaining sessions on December 6.

Upon ratification, the new contract will be retroactive to December 1, 1965.

Vernonia Eagle Mathews Family Meets at Mist

Week end guests at the Charles Hansens for the Christmas holidays were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ford and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Kuluji and Terry all of Portland and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Roeser and children of Astoria. The Norman Hansens joined the family group.

Knowing the rules of highway safety is only half enough—you have to practice them.

A budget today is just an orderly way people have found of living beyond their means.

Cattle Disease Outbreak Noted

A minor outbreak of blackleg, a highly infectious and usually fatal disease of cattle, has resulted in considerable concern among producers in the St. Helens-Yankton-Warren area, reports Don Coin Walrod, county extension agent.

While losses from this disease are rather uncommon, since most livestock producers follow a regular vaccination program, unvaccinated animals always provide a susceptible population.

The blackleg organism is one that develops in the absence of oxygen. The organism may gain entrance into the body through small cuts or punctures in the skin. Large cuts and wounds are not usually a means of infection since oxygen is apt to be present, according to Walrod, who also indicates that abrasions of the mucous membranes of the tongue, mouth or throat may allow the entrance of the organism.

Blackleg is ordinarily a disease of young cattle in that infection occurs between the ages of four and five months up to two years. Only rarely are older animals affected.

The only reliable and effective means known for protecting against blackleg is vaccination. This is actually a preventative measure and may provide immunity for 12 to 18 months or longer. Vaccination for blackleg is a practice that can be handled by the livestock operator, says Walrod. However, the presence of sick animals or unusual conditions warrant consultation with a veterinarian.

Vaccination is an inexpensive operation with the actual handling of the cattle the most difficult job. For this reason many livestock owners make a practice of giving a double or triple vaccine. This simply involves the use of a mixed vaccine providing protection against malignant edema or hemorrhagic septicemia or both at the same time.
