TOPICS OF THE TOWN

Mrs. Harrison Wilder, niece of Lee Rogers, and two of her sons came for him the day before Christmas and took him to their home in Newberg. On Christmas day they all went to Salem to join other family members at the home of Mrs. Nelson Rogers. The Wilders brought him home Sunday, the day after Christmas. Another holiday visitor at his home just prior to Christmas was a nephew, Wilton Rogers, of Beaverton.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hazen braved the storms last Tuesday to drive to the home of their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hazen at Reedsport. The next day, they accompanied them to Coos Bay to see their son-in-law, Robert Morris and grandchildren who were at the home of Mr. Morris's parents for a short visit. They returned home Thursday and encountered heavy snow storms near Eugene.

Guests at the home of Mrs. Blanche Pickering Christmas were her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Foreman from Hermiston and her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. George Harvey from Warrenton.

Dr. and Mrs. T. M. Hobart, accompanied by their son Mike, arrived home from Mexico December 22. Mike had spent the fall term in Mexico City on an extended study program with Lewis and Clark College in Portland. Dr. and Mrs. Hobart left here November 29 and drove to San Diego, then flew to Mexico City to join their son. He was able to show them a great many of the interesting places in the area, including visits in homes where he had been associated through his studies. While he was busy with classes they did sightseeing on their own, seeing much of Mexico City, Tasco and Pueblo. They left there December 16 to return by train to San Diego to pick up their car for the drive home. En route they were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Anderson at Burbank where he teaches and coaches. They also visited Dick Christensen and his family. After spending the holidays at home, Mike returned to the Lewis and Clark College campus in Portland.

From there they went to Reno, then to Santa Barbara where they spent Christmas with friends. Enroute home they visited a cousin at Greenfield and were in the Oakland area when heavy storms and winds struck there. They were fortunate in getting through mountain passes without difficulty.

Mrs. Grosche saw another brother, Melvin Beck at Christmas at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Beck at Port Orchard, Washington. He had just returned from Viet Nam.

Maybe we should be thankful that we aren't getting as much government as we're paying for.

Examiners Get New Uniforms

Oregon driver license examiners started wearing new blue uniforms this week, the first uniform change for the examiners in 11 years.

The old uniforms, which were brown, were due for normal wear-out replacement, according to Vern L. Hill, director of the department of motor vehicles. They are being replaced by a blue lightweight dacon polyester - wool blend uniform with a light blue stripe on the coat sleeves and up the side of the trousers. The emblem has been moved from the shoulder to the breast pocket.

The uniforms will be worn with a police-blue short-sleeved shirt with a combination collar, black tie, black shoes and socks, and a uniform cap.

The new uniforms will serve for both summer and winter wear. During the summer, examiners will wear the blue trousers and the shirt without the tie.

If you don't know where you're going, but getting there fast, you're on a new interstate highway.

Clearance Aids Passage of Fish

More than 27 miles of spawning area were made available to steelhead this winter on the Wilson, Trask, Kilchis and Miami rivers through a crash program of stream clearance by the game commission.

George Kernan, chief engineer for the commission, reported completion of the project recently following three months' work on ten tributaries of the four streams, plus the removal of one logjam on the main Wilson river. The streams were cleared of barriers in time for winter steelhead now moving upstream to spawn.

Tributary streams cleared of barriers include the South Fork Trask river, Edwards creek, Cruiser creek, South Fork Kilchis river, Little North Fork Wilson river, Kansas creek, Fall creek, Elliot creek, Devils Lake fork, and Moss creek. All streams cleared are used by steelhead as well as chinook and coho salmon.

The logjams formed in the streams during the floods of last winter. Removal was financed by Disaster Act flood relief funds.

There is a 20-foot tall cedar tree growing out of a limb of a Chinaberry tree starting ten feet above the ground, near St. Petersburg, Florida.
