

Rebekah Lodge Names Officers

Mrs. Jackie Atkins was elected as noble grand for Mt. Heart Rebekah lodge at the meeting held Thursday of last week. Other elective officers named were Lesta Garner, vice-grand; Irma Chance, recording secretary; Faye Davis, financial secretary and Arlie Emmons, treasurer.

Appointive officers will be named by the noble grand-elect at a later date and installation will be held early in January.

The lodge voted to send in $95 collected over the past several months to the Eye Bank fund. This is well on the way to being a second one hundred percent participation for this lodge. Each certificate is issued for an average of one dollar per member in contributions.

Several more members gave their secret work in the contest being carried on to encourage memorization of the work by members.

Mrs. Mary Markham, chairman of the Mt. Heart Social committee, reported a very small attendance at the last meeting which forced cancellation of the party planned for after the business session. The next meeting will be December 2, Friday, at the home of Mrs. Otto Goertzen and will be the annual Christmas party with exchange of gifts.

This Saturday, the 16 member drill team and their leader, Mrs. Ella Cline, will go to Corvallis to present their drill at a state-wide meeting at the special request of the president of the Rebekah Assembly of Oregon, E. Mae Kafer. Final practice will be held at 7 o'clock this evening, Thursday.

Following last Thursday's meeting, refreshments of orange jello and assorted crackers were served with coffee and tea by Mrs. Goertzen, Mrs. Albert Schalock and Mrs. Jackie Atkins. Mrs. Atkins was acting for Mrs. Geneva Killenburg who was hospitalized earlier in the week for an appendectomy.

The next meeting of the lodge will be December 8.

Temples Unite For Initiation

Members of Ava Temple No. 19, Pythian Sisters, from St. Helens joined with Vernonia Temple No. 61 Wednesday evening of last week for initiation of candidates at the Vernonia IOOF hall. Officers of Vernonia Temple filled the chairs and the Ava Temple staff did the drill work in cooperation with Vernonia staff leaders, Irma Chance and Faye Davis.

Candidates initiated were Mrs. Mary Brown for Vernonia Temple and Mrs. Betty Clark for Ava. The ceremony was very impressively done and an excellent turn-out of Vernonia members augmented by the 14 from St. Helens and four from Hillsboro added to the pleasure of the evening.

Among members from St. Helens was Virginia Patton, most excellent chief of Ava Temple and among those from Hillsboro was Clarissa Fox, most excellent chief of Phoenicia Temple.

All Vernonia officers were present except Amelia Zamarripa, excellent senior, who has been quite ill for the past two weeks. The group was very happy to have Marie Shafer present since she had missed several meetings due to illness which necessitated her being out of town.

A report from the rummage sale showed a good amount raised for the temple treasury and plans were made for other fund raising events in the near future.

Following the meeting, refreshments of assorted sandwiches, cookies and jello were served by Murel Folken and Rose Miller with the assistance of other members. The hostess prize, a potted chrysanthemum, was awarded to Mrs. Vina Vahl of St. Helens.

The temple will not meet again until December 14 when election of officers for the 1967 term will be held. This meeting will be followed by the Christmas party with an exchange of gifts by secret pals. Those who do not have secret pals will bring packages for exchange. New pals for 1967 will be drawn at that time, also.

Junior-varsity cheerleaders were chosen at Vernonia high school Tuesday of last week after some 15 aspirants had presented routines and demonstrated their ability in the field of cheerleading. Those given the nod by vote of the students were Zenda Ellis, Debbie Larson, Shari Nightwine, sophomores; Debbie Curl and Susan Floeter, freshmen.

Varsity basketball cheerleaders were chosen last spring at the close of the school year. They are Carol Floeter and Sally Knowlton, seniors; Jeanette Aultman, Allison Hall and Kristen Landers, juniors.

Slope, which gives classes of instruction, as well as seasonal demonstrations and displays of decorations. A staff member of The Twig will show how to make a number of the Christmas decorations which were created at their shop and displayed at their recent open house. The society has made these arrangements in order to bring the opportunity of attending such an event to those who are interested but find it difficult or impossible to attend out-of-town meetings.

The Twig is noted for its beautiful and novel creations. It is hoped there will be an excellent attendance at this event, which promises to be an outstanding one for this community, in order to encourage more such occasions in the future. There will be no admittance charge. A silver donation may be made to the society to help defray the expense of bringing this showing to Vernonia, with any excess to go into the fund for the School Art Festival, to be held later in the year.

It was also decided at the society's meeting to hold a Christmas show sometime during the first two weeks of December. The show will offer for sale hand-crafted Christmas decorations and items suitable for gifts. Details will be given later.

The meeting was followed by an interesting demonstration by Gail Olive of throwing pottery on the pottery wheel recently acquired by the local school district. The demonstration gave a hint of what a fascinating hobby pottery making could be.

Auto Show to Open Tuesday

Portland's biggest automobile show on record will open next Tuesday in Memorial Coliseum for a six day display of all that's new and stylish on wheels.

Thirty-five new car dealers of the Automobile Association of Portland, backed by their factories with special displays and exhibits, participate in the showing.

Miss America, Jane Anne Jayroe, of Laverne, Okla., will cut the ribbon that opens the show Tuesday, November 22, at 6 p.m. She'll be a first night guest at the show courtesy of Oldsmobile dealer members of the association.

Nearly 300 different 1967 model automobiles—from a $19,000 Silver Shadow Rolls Royce to 30 mile-to-the-gallon economy imports—will be in polished, bannered array throughout the Coliseum's arena area, exhibit halls and concourse.

The gadget-cluttered Batmobile, the custom car specially designed for Batman and Robin of the Batman television series, tops an expensive list of specialty cars to be on display. Among others are American Motors AMX experimental car, the Corvette powered Excalibur SS, replica of the dashing Mercedes-SSK of 1929, and the $12,500 500 hp Valkyrie sports car.

An hour long stage show nightly and also at 4 p.m. on Friday, Saturday and Sunday will feature the Supremes, top female vocal trio of all time in record sales volume. The comic Geenzinlaw Brothers and old favorite Johnny Matson complete the bill.

Rainbow Girls Plan Projects

The meeting of Nehalem Assembly, Rainbow Girls was opened in the usual way by Worthy Advisor Nancy Hammett. The minutes were read and approved.

Under old business Gwen Persyn gave a report on the Halloween party. She said a lot of the girls got wet when bobbing for apples, and got a little scared when spooky stories were told but everyone had a nice time.

Also under old business, Mrs. Walter Linn thanked the girls who helped serve the Masons last Thursday night. She stated that they worked hard and the Eastern Star ladies really appreciated it.

Under new business, the girls set Sunday, November 20, to visit their adopted grandparents at the Masonic Home at Forest Grove. They will take baskets of goodies to them. They will meet at the Masonic Temple and leave at 2 p.m.

Plans were made to go ice skating in December and for a food sale Saturday, December 17.

Under good of the order, Nancy thanked Gwen Persyn, Patti Fisher, Kathy Bergerson, Jerri Rundle, and Belinda Brewer for selling the Rainbow Candy. Patti Fisher herself sold 97 boxes. These girls sold all 132 boxes in 3 days.

Also, Nancy thanked the problems for filling in: Kathy Bergerson served as worthy associate advisor; Vicki Hemeon, outer observer; Margaret Tovey, chaplain; Lawayne Leffler, service, and Gwen Persyn, musician.

The girls were reminded to write to their adopted grandparents at the Masonic home. They are Mr. W. T. Lily, or Mrs. Roarke, and letters should be sent in care of the Masonic Home, Forest Grove, Oregon. They love to get mail, so the members are urged to write or send cards.

Unit Given Tips On Buffet Meals

Nov. 9, the members of the Timber Route Extension Unit learned time and step saving suggestions from the lesson, buffet meals, presented by Mrs. G. L. Smith and Mrs. F. M. Bergerson. A buffet table was set and some recipes were prepared from the lesson and served along with other dishes brought by members. Mrs. R. E. Bergerson was luncheon hostess.

Safety and health chairmen, Mrs. Zola Christensen and Mrs. O. W. Weed reminded members to keep detergents, cleaning liquids and medicines out of reach of children and to dispose of outdated and old medicines and never put medicines in different containers where they can be taken by mistake.

Small gifts are to be brought to the December meeting, where members will wrap them for distribution at Christmas.
