VERNONIA GOLF CLUB

NEWS & VIEWS

By John Knowlton It seems like every time you want to play golf during the summer, a tournament of some kind is going on or the play is just too slow to suit you. Not so this weekend. On the last major holiday of the year, Labor Day Weekend, the Vernonia Golf Course will be wide open to all players of all abilities. The tournament-free three-day weekend will give golfers ample time to play lots of golf and visit with some golfing buddies they haven't seen for awhile.

The following weekend will feature the last big all-comers tournament of the year. The September 9 Nehalem Valley Open will offer $165 in prize money for the top five finishers determined under the Callaway Handicap system and an additional $10 gift certificate to the golfer with the lowest gross

Practice up this weekend and get ready for the Nehalem

Valley Open. The sponsors of the Nehalem Valley Open, the Vernonia Mens Golf Association, had a good turn out at last Tuesday's Men's night. Twenty-one members showed up and contributed to the Joe Magoff retirement fund as Joltin' Joe shot the best round of the night, a 37, and won the prize for having the least putts, 12. Other winners that night were Bill Nelson and Dan Fletcher. Bill got the KP on the fourth hole and Dan saved the most for the last when he slammed out the
