

Senior Citizen News - - -

There were 32 in attendance at our potluck Friday.

There were three visitors who spoke - Mr. Walrod spoke on agency on aged; Dorothy Churchill spoke on Transportation and Linda Radford, RSVP Director, spoke on the RSVP program for Senior Citizens.

Mr. and Mrs. Matt Erickson were also present and Mrs. Erickson gave a report on the county's five area Senior Citizen's Country Store in Rainier. The opening day was August 15. It took many hours of hard work remodeling the building painting, etc. Two of the men who helped are over 80 years old.

Those who donated their time were Norman Davis, Arnold Heffley, Earl Bennett, Walter Thomas, Lewis Siper and Matt Erickson.

Many items are needed to make the Country Store a success, such as children's stuffed toys, chest of drawers, baby clothes, kitchen utensils, and fishing tackle. Any donations will be appreciated.

Our next potluck will be September 21, Friday at 12:30 p.m. All Senior Citizens are welcome.

It was the last big tournament of the year, the Nehalem Valley Open. The 52 contestants represented nine different areas and most came with the hope of putting together a couple good rounds of golf and maybe going home with some of the $175 in prize money. They came from Portland and Beaverton and Rainier and Lake Oswego and still more areas.

And when the first foursome teed off last Sunday morning conditions were right. The sun shone brightly on the dew-covered fairways and greens. The cool westerly breeze fanned the golfers' faces and kept temperatures bearable.

Group after group they marched down the fairways pulling their golf carts or slinging their golf bags over their shoulders. They addressed the ball in their normal fashion and brought the clubhead back. With their eyes on the ball, they started their downswing, first with the body, then the arms and finally the club. Down it came swift and hard, then harder and harder yet until it smashed the white ball and sent it screaming down the fairway closer to the flagstick and, for some, closer to the prize money which lured them there to begin with.

And when the last putt of the last foursome fell to the bottom of the cup, it was over. A Beaverton golfer named Larry Aavik had indeed put together a couple of good rounds of golf. Matching 34's gave Larry, a member of the Tektronix golf team, a four under par 68 and $85 in prize money for winning both the low net and low gross prizes.

Three strokes back, in a tie for second and third place were John Rohrbach and Elmer Schlottmann also of Beaverton. Both John and Elmer were awarded $37.50 gift certificates for their play.

The two remaining prize winners also netted 71 but because of their higher handicaps finished fourth and fifth respectively. Sam Spicher's 13 handicap netted him a $10 gift certificate and Jerry King's 17 handicap netted him a $5 gift certificate.

At last week's Mens Night play Lynn Michener was a double KP winner when he got the KP on number four and on the third shot on number eight. A gift certificate of $8.75 went to Bob Bates and Ralph "Bergenstein" Bergerson for being the top point getters in bingo-bango-bongo.

AARP To Enjoy Musical Treat

Members of Columbia County Chapter 499, American Association of Retired Persons, have a musical treat in store at the September 18th meeting in Shrine Hall, St. Helens. The program opens at 1:30 p.m.

The Vanity Four quartet from the St. Helens Sweet Adelines will furnish the program and will give forth with some of their well-known harmony. A Sweet Adelines group sang to chapter members a couple of years ago and was especially well received.

Incidentally, the Sweet Adelines organization is putting on a membership drive in September and invites any woman interested in singing to contact any member.

Sign-up sheets for the next chapter bus trip set for October 23 will be available. The group will visit Hoquiam's Castle after a noon luncheon in Hoquiam, Washington.
