

CONROY-DEINER WED

Lavender and White Chosen For September 22 Wedding

Lavender and white were the colors chosen by the bride, Debra C. Conroy, for her Saturday, September 22 wedding which united her in marriage with Mike Deiner of Portland.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Keasey and Mr. and Mrs. John Conroy, Pendleton, the ceremony took place in the home of the bride's father with Daniel R. Thompson, minister of the Episcopal Church in Klamath Falls, officiating.

Baskets of lavender and white gladioli, mums and stock, flanked by lavender candles were on the buffet in back of the minister while bouquets of white, lavender and pink mums, reflecting the bride's choice, decorated the room.

For the wedding, the bride, given in marriage by her father, John Conroy, chose a formal length gown of lined white dotted Swiss with empire waist and short puffed sleeves. It was styled with medallion lace trim at the low scooped neck and empire waist. Lace also trimmed the top of the ruffle that banded the hem of the long skirt.

She wore a head piece of a large white net bow accented with white streamers trimmed with white mums, the bow worn across the back of the head. The bride carried a nosegay of lavender and white mums centered with lavender orchid and accented by baby's breath and streamers.

Her maid of honor, Susan Floeter, wore a floor length gown of lavender and white gingham with white eyelet pinafore. It was fashioned with short puff sleeves, high neckline and a ruffle at the hem line. Her headpiece was of white and lavender mums accented by lavender ribbon and she carried a nosegay of white and lavender mums trimmed with lavender streamers.

Best man was Steve Hanson of Portland with Marcie Keasey, sister of the bride, serving as candlelighter.

Approximately 40 friends and relatives gathered at the home for a reception following the services where a two-tiered wedding cake was the highlight of the decor. Made with a large square base, it was topped by a heart-shaped cake resting on white Greek columns and decorated with lavender and pink icing flowers that cascaded down from the top onto the square below. The heart-shaped layer held a replica of the bride and groom.

Cake was served by the bride's mother, Mrs. Ralph Keasey while coffee and punch was poured by her step-mother, Mrs. John Conroy.

Following the reception a buffet supper was given for the couple at the Tappadaro in Pendleton where a birthday cake was served in honor of the bride's sister, Marcie Keasey.

The bride, a 1970 graduate of Vernonia High School, is presently employed by the Portland School District. Her husband, graduate of Newberg High School, is manager of a Shell Station. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F.G. Deiner, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Following a short wedding trip to Hood River the new Mr. and Mrs. Mike Deiner are at home in Portland.

Class Holds Final Meet

The final meeting of the Food Drying class, which has been meeting during the fall term at the high school, was a field trip on the afternoon of October 14 to the farm of Glenn and Kathleen Simmons who had presented the previous class lesson.

Thirty-three class members with husbands and wives made the trip to the farm of thirty-five acres located on Strassel Road, five miles from Staley's Junction, to study the farm operation and system of food storage of dried foods. The farm is planted and managed to be self-sustaining with methods developed over a period of years by the owners. The food chain relation to the self-sustaining management was of such interest and challenge to class members that a number, at the invitation of the Simmons', plan to return to the farm for further study of the principals and practice in use.

Vernonia Eagle THURSDAY, OCT. 25, 1973 3 New 4-H Clubs To Start In Vernonia

"Parents, are you tired of your children watching so much TV or tired of hearing them say 'There is nothing to do in Vernonia? Let them join a 4-H Club," urges Mrs. Faye Sword, 4-H coordinator for the Vernonia area.

The leaders are very special people, who really enjoy working with children and children will have a great time under their leadership. New 4-H clubs are being started in Vernonia, and the boys and girls are really excited about the clubs. Their parents must provide transportation to and from the meetings and a car pool is suggested. Parents are asked to attend the first meeting with their child.

No uniforms or dues are needed for 4-H clubs, but there will be a $1 to $1.50 charge for insurance coverage. The written material is free to the children. Age of 4-H Club membership is 9 to 19 years.

Those wishing to join a 4-H Club may call the following:

Dog Obedience Club (Dogs of any age or breeds) - Mrs. W.A. Andrus 429-7933 or Mrs. R.D. Stevens 429-7632.

Leathercraft Club - (Grade and High) John Black 429-6825 (first meeting at West Oregon Elec. Bld. on October 30 at 7:30 p.m.)

DIANE ROADY

Summer Wedding Is Planned By Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Roady of Vernonia, are pleased to announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Diane Bernadette Roady, to Volane Robbins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robbins, also of Vernonia.

Diane, a senior at Vernonia High School, is presently employed at Mario's Pizzeria, as is the future bridegroom.

The engagement was formally announced at a surprise birthday party given in her honor at the home of the Lynn Michener's on Saturday, October 20. A summer wedding is planned.

Loggerettes Beaten By Tough Warrenton

The GAA Volleyball teams went down to a tough defeat last Thursday against Warrenton.

The JV team played a good game, losing by a few points. The first match was Warrenton over Vernonia 15 to 11, with Dawn Beamish making 5 points. The second match was even closer with the Vernonia team losing 16 to 14. Stephanie Gwin was high scorer making four points.

The varsity game didn't turn out any better. The first match was very close with Vernonia losing 15 to 13, with Michelle Borst chalking up 6 of the 13 points. The second match, however, went badly for Vernonia with the Loggerettes getting beat 15 to 5. Sandra Tupper made 3 points.

JV's Win In 12-0 Shutout

The JV football squad hosted the Warrenton Warriors October 18 and sent them home with a 12-0 shutout.

Excitement was absent much of the game. The ball exchanged hands repetitiously, and after three quarters of play both teams had failed to score.

The fourth period saw most of the action, and with about four minutes remaining, quarterback Jeff Bellingham threw a perfect pass across the middle to end Bob Brooks that resulted in a 70-yard scoring play. The extra point attempt was unsuccessful. Vernonia kicked off and three plays later their tough defense forced the Warriors to punt the football.

With 1:40 remaining in the game, Randy Parrow ran 50 yards for a Logger touchdown, and again the point after was no good, making the score Vernonia 12 and Warrenton 0.

Terry Ellison intercepted a Warrenton aerial with 1:07 remaining, ending Warrenton's last threat.

Memolog Contracts With Bruce Luzader

Senior portraits were taken October 16, by Bruce Luzader.

From 1947 until this year, Bruno Studio has taken the class pictures, and activity pictures for the yearbook.

This year in order to get black and white pictures the students will have to order from a different studio, since Luzader used all colored film.

The prices for the colored portraits, are as follows:

Package A - $68.95 contains 2-8x10, 6-5x7, 12-3x5, 63-2x3.

Package B - $48.95 contains 2-8x10, 2-5x7, 8-3x5, 45-2x3.

Package C - $38.95 contains 1-8x10, 6-5x7, 27-2x3.

Package D - $28.95 contains 2-5x7, 4-3x5, 18-2x3.

Luzader said that pictures will arrive at the home of the students in two to three weeks.

Girls Business Class Goes On Field Trip

Mrs. Juanita Arrant's first period office practice class went on a field trip to Beaverton and Portland last Wednesday.

The class toured the Beaverton Telephone Office, went to Northwestern School of Business, Brymans (a nursing school) and the Ondine, a residence for girls. They ate at the Chuck Wagon and then went to 31 Flavor Ice Cream for an added treat.

A few unusual things happened: Mrs. Arrant had car trouble in the middle of Beaverton, and three of the girls got lost.

The class consists of only eight people, including Mrs. Arrant. They are Connie Kyser, Betty Miller, Renee Reck, Chris Sauer, Vicki Serby, Karen Tovey, and Donna Willard.

Flood Disables Seven Floors Of Hospital

Look up on the eighth floor. It's the Johnstown flood. No, it's the Christmas flood of '66. No, it's an overflowing commode.

To hear Carmella Dennis or Rick Jensen tell the story, one would think an overflowing toilet could completely disable seven floors of a major hospital. Well, it can.

Last Monday, October 15, one of Carmellas' ambulatory patients flushed the toilet and found that the water wouldn't stop running. After trying to stop the gushing H2O, Carmella, in student training as a nurse's aide in the PCC program, closed the door in panic. In just a few minutes, the water was running from under the door and leaking through the hinges. In half an hour, the entire west hall of the hospital was under four-inches of water.

If panic is contagious, there must have been an epidemic that wet night. Nurses and orderlies were running back and forth unplugging all the electrical appliances in sight. The quickest means of escape was down the elevator, but to no avail. The water had leaked down the elevator shaft and shorted out the system. An emergency crew was quickly formed and sheets, pillow cases, towels, and sand bags were stuffed into cracks to keep the water from leaking to the lower floors. Plastic garbage cans were used to scoop up the water left standing in the hall. In the time between the start of the fiasco and the end, water leaked down to the second floor and disrupted the hospital for two and a half hours.

The only way to stop the water was to turn it off at the source. When the janitor opened the bathroom door, he somewhat resembled a salmon going upstream. The water, that had backed up to the ceiling of the cubicle, turned into a miniature Niagara Falls and totally drenched the surprised custodian. Carmella and Rick are just a little bit apprehensive about going back to the hospital next Monday for their regularly scheduled classes. Even though they weren't directly responsible for the disaster, they still can't help feeling that something will be done about that night. Any means of punishment would be all right, all except the Chinese Water Torture of course.

Pep Assembly Is Very Suspenseful

Friday afternoon the Vernonia Loggers held their pep assembly in the gym just before the Warrenton game.

This was a very suspenseful assembly because the JV cheerleaders, for the basketball season were to be announced after the fight song.

Three of the coaches gave very interesting pep talks and gave the guys just a little more confidence before the game. As usual Melvin Nice told his little joke (usually about a player or another coach) which added a little humor to the assembly. The Sophomore class yelled the loudest in class competition so the "Loudest" sign which the cheerleaders award during each assembly was presented to them.

Spirit is already building up for our next week's game which is the homecoming game.

Homecoming Spirits Creates a Problem

Every year the cheerleaders sponsor a skit, sign and hall decorations contest for each individual class for Homecoming week.

Spirits run high at this time and competition keen. Unfortunately this year the spirits ran away with themselves. The Senior sign was damaged by using black spray paint and painting in one corner of the sign.

The Seniors were naturally quite upset and took the issue to student council. A committee of Seniors and members of the class involved and their advisors met last Monday to decide what should be done. They came to the conclusion that the students involved should pay for paint needed to repair the sign.
