Milwaukee may yet be more famous for its mayors than for its breweries.

Climatic experts agree that it is likely to be a fine summer when it finally arrives.

Kansas is a little discouraged because none of the commencement addresses advise young men to get a practical knowledge of agriculture by helping out as farm hands.

While Col. Roosevelt's voice almost faded him during his Oxford speech, a careful reading of that oration shows that his dictionary held out to the last line of the last paragraph.

Many college graduates are found in New York's "bread line." Something besides a college education is needed, nowadays. Good habits and a willingness to work will do to start with.

In this day and age it is not a matter of a man being well known in a community or known as a man worthy of a prominent position, but a great deal seems to be resting on this "political plum" proposition, as the people of Malheur County know.

This week we received an announcement for Congressional Candidate and platform from A. W. Lafferty, of Portland. His platform and statements are good and all things else being equal we say Lafferty for congress from the 2d congressional district.

But not every men can be Caesar, as someone has stated, alas! and in the due course of the matter someone must lie in the grass. It's hard on a strenuous nation, afflicting us all in a way, but we'll look on the brighter side of it, and conclude it is good for the hay.

The fat occupant of the White House Will lie on his back in the grass Beneath the green Beverly maples Observing the aeroplanes pass.
The chauffeurs will keep right on chauffing.
With seeing it's no one but Bill.
And they'll sigh just to think what had happened
Had they flown over Sagamore Hill.

Congress Adjourned.
Congress adjourned last Saturday night at 11 o'clock. The senator and congressman went home to meet their constituents and to answer face to face for their acts while in Washington to the people whom they serve.
Some must feel as if they would rather go away than return while others come with the halo of glory for doing their duty.

An exchange says: "Newspaper men, as a rule, have but two things to sell—space and subscription—and it would be just as consistent to ask your grocer for a dozen oranges 'just to fill up' as to ask the editor for a dozen lines in his paper just to boost your business, with the idea you are doing a kindness in helping to 'fill up' space.
Try getting a free dinner at the hotel just to make a show of business for the house."

How Far Will a Dollar Go?
This is in part an advertisement of a progressive merchant in an exchange:

"It is said that Washington once threw a dollar across the Delaware.
This is a feat which no one in the present age can accomplish, but the reason is given that a dollar went farther then than it will now. This state-

Trade With Home Merchants.
Do you trade with your home merchant? Ten to one he has the article you want and at the same price that the catalog house quotes and the quality is as good, if not better, every time and you are saved the express charges.
Furthermore, you are shown the goods and you pass on them. From the catalog or mail order houses you take what you get. You are stung and are ashamed to acknowledge it.

Help the News Column.
Did you fail to read that personal local of yourself? It wasn't in the paper because we didn't know it. We would appreciate it very much if you would tell us about your trips, etc.
Those are the things that makes a paper newsworthy and breezy. Don't be conscientious or timid about this because you must remember that your friends want to see your name in the paper. Send in every item or call or phone No. 29 and tell us.
ment is a fallacy."

Near Beer.
We have several soft drink places in our town and others preparing to be opened. It this a credit to our town or not? Nyssa people are dry and evidently make good customers. Every-man has a right to do as he pleases as long as he keeps within the pale of the law, but is he doing himself justice or is he setting the true character of a man before the boys if he attends these places?

If these places are selling soft drinks it is alright, but from the drunk men we find in the town we feel and believe that there is more than soft drinks being sold and that whatever it is, it is intoxicating. Near beer, 2 per cent, may be intoxicating but still come up to the requirements of the law. And it will not be unlawful to sell it. If this is truly the case why not get together and legislate a law like Idaho's? Anything producing the intoxicating condition is unlawful. Some argue that it produces illness, not intoxication, but what is the difference on the physical condition of the body?

Our Primary.
The other states of the Union are enjoying this glorious state for her primary laws. Following is a clipping from the Donnybrook (N. D.) Cour-rier. It is as follows:
"Our primary election law has proven too expensive to the man of moderate means. I believe that the Oregon Primary Election Law is far superior and the best law of its kind on the statute books today, and that our primary election law should be amended to conform as nearly as possible thereto."

It is the first plank in the platform of a candidate for the legislature of that state. Oregon is the ideal state politically as well as a land of opportunity. But does the outside world know that there is a certain set of politicians in this state that is trying to get around the law by holding as-semblies? It is not possible for the people to prevent this but it is hoped that all who have their own as well as their neighbor's interests at heart will not assist them in any way or accept the dictates of a selected few.

THE GUIDING HAND.

In old days there were angels who came and took men by the hand and led them away from the city of destruction. We see no white winged angels now. But yet men are led away from threatening destruction. A hand is put in theirs which leads them forth gently toward a calm and bright land, so that they look no more backward, and the hand may be a little child's.
—George Eliot.

A Call For Cough Drops.
"I tell you I must have some money!" roared the king of Maritania, who was in sore financial straits.
"Somebody will have to cough up."
"Alas," sighed the guardian of the treasury, who was formerly the court jester, "all our coffers are empty!"

Evening Up.
"Were you ever in a holdup?"
"No, but I've taken part in a showdown."—New York Journal.

Always New.
"But, little girl, love is a subject on which everything has been said."
"Not to me."—Fliegende Blätter.

Hard Luck.
"What is 'hard luck?'"
"A combination of laziness and bad judgment."—Cleveland Leader.

A Friendly Dig.
Ethel (confidentially)—Do you know, Clara, that I had two offers of marriage last week?

Clara (with enthusiasm)—Oh, I am delighted, dear! Then the report is really true that your uncle left you his money?—London Pick-Me-Up.

A Proverb Reversed.
Friend (to interesting invalid)—Never mind, dear, you'll soon be better. Remember, it's only the good that die young. Interesting Invalid—You've got it the wrong way. You mean it's only the young who die good.—London

THE STRENGTH OF A BANK

is its capital stock, combined with good management. capital stock is the actual money put up by the stockholders to insure the depositor that his money will be returned him when he calls for it. This capital cannot be drawn as long as the bank remains in business.

The board of directors are elected by the stockholders and upon them, rests the responsibility of conducting affairs of the bank.
