OWYHEE NEWS

E. F. Pratt has been quite ill for the past week or more.

R. L. Harris went to Vale Monday to attend court.

Mr. Claywood has rented the Mery ranch for the coming year.

Preparations are in progress for a first-class entertainment to be given at the Owyhee schoolhouse in the near future. Announcement will be made later.

A. D. Morey went to Vale with a load of apples last week.

Work has been resumed on the Owyhee canal, greatly to the satisfaction of everybody in these parts.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cleary, living near the postoffice, died last Monday evening. The funeral was conducted Rev. F. J. Bradley on Wednesday afternoon. They have the sincere sympathy of the entire neighborhood.

A. L. Lafrenz and wife returned last Saturday evening from Spokane where they were married last week. They went through to Boise on Thursday and expected to slip in on the Nyssa folks, but the charivari bunch caught them.

The mail order business is booked for a boom if the parcel post bill that is pending at the present gets before the national body of lawmakers, and is passed. At first sight the bill sounds good and no doubt is just what the mail order houses are working for. Commercial clubs in all sections of the United States are fighting it on the grounds that it will encourage the greatest evil that the local merchants have to contend with, who is creating the demand for parcel post, and fighting for its enactment. Anyone can readily see that it is not the people that are "to be benefited by it" but the mail order trust. Upon the passing of the parcel post order bill the catalogs of the cities' large department stores will have covers explaining how to shop by mail and that there is no package too heavy for Uncle Sam to carry and for the trust to profit by. In a great many instances it would be handy to have a parcel post—especially at Christmas time, but in this case it is pretty good to let well enough alone.

The first basket ball game of the season as well as the first for the N. H. S. boys as an aggregation was played yesterday afternoon on the school grounds. The boys played a snappy clean game from start to finish. The final score was Parma 7 N.H.S. 23

PRICE AND QUALITY

Are the first things that one thinks of when buying the necessities of shelter and food for oneself. Those are the things that you must take into consideration when buying the supplies for the carrying on of your work on the ranch or any where else you might be working. There is nothing that tells the quality quicker than harness and so you should be certain of the quality before you buy. You can buy harness at very low figures but it will not be long until you will have to buy again. Study the price in conjunction with the quality and come to a shop that you can feel sure will sell you the best and the best only. A stitch in time will save you money so let us repair your old harness as well as your old shoes. A new machine is to do all kinds of sewing.

Prominent Shippers

Gives Figures.

Replying to the request of the Gem State Rural and Live Stock Journal for data showing car lot shipments of fruit from Southern Idaho during 1910, Charles J. Sinsel, of Boise, well known as one of the leading shippers of the State writes as follows:

"A. E. Gipson, Gem State Rural, Caldwell, Idaho,

Dear Sir—I wish to acknowledge receipt of yours of the 25th inst. same being a request for an estimate of the fruit yield of Idaho for the present year. You, of course, are aware that I am familiar with the prune and apple output only, and as yet have not, received an exact report on car loads of apples shipped from Southern Idaho. However a close estimate shows about thirteen hundred car loads. The apples that I handled in and about Parma and Roswell sold at actual sales, F. O. B. Parma, as follows: Johathans, $1.50 per box; Rome Beauty, Winesap, Ark. Black, $1.35 for firsts and $1.25 for seconds, while the choice of the various varieties sold for $1.00 per box. These were the small apples that were off color, uneven size, yet clean and sound. I learned to my regret that Southern Idaho as yet has not orchards sufficient to care for the orders that are being placed for standard varieties, as for instance, I had orders for thirty-eight cars of Winesaps, and was disappointed to learn that there was not nearly this number of car loads of this variety to be had in this section. This same condition prevails with Roman Beauties and Johathans. The demand was especially good for Arkansas Blacks and Gano. On my recent trip through Oregon and Washington, I found that in the districts where they have the Shippers Organizations, and can advertise to the world that they have hundreds of cars of fruit for the market, they have no trouble in having buyers on the ground fighting for the products.

The prune industry was very satisfactory. The eastern market keeping up in exceptional shape for the season of 1910. However I had cash sales for all my cars F. O. B. shipping point and I did not ship anything to the open market. I learn that there were ten thousand and fifty-three cars of prunes shipped out of Southern Idaho this season, and that the fruit generally averaged the grower from twenty to thirty-five dollars per ton for the prunes at the packing house. The indications for next season's work, so far as the market is concerned, were never more favorable. This is especially true with prunes and our leading varieties of red apples. Since we have passed the thousand car load mark with our shipments it gives us a standing with the wholesale people where they feel they can send their people into our territory and secure car loads sufficient to justify the expense of a man on the ground. I would therefore certainly advocate, in the strongest terms, organized efforts in the marketing of our products, since an organization that can offer to the world train loads of fancy fruit and will let the world know of it in time, will command the highest prices for their fruits.

Respectfully,

C. J. SINSEL"
