

ALFALFA HAY A BIG PRODUCER

Reaches Its Greatest Perfection in this Section, and once set keeps on Producing Year after Year, Requiring only to be Watered During Growing Season.

One of the best paying crops of the crops in the least. The alfalfa blossom is the delight of the honey bee, and the apiary is a natural adjunct of the alfalfa farm. Honey finds a ready market and brings a top price.

It is frequently said that alfalfa is the lazy man's crop, but the fact that it requires so little time makes it all the more valuable to the enterprising rancher, who may have an abundance of time for the care of cattle, hogs, bees or any other of the industries that fit in so snugly alongside of the alfalfa field.

Hogs fatten readily upon the alfalfa meadows and do not harm

Laundry at Nyssa.

Frank Tagn, from Brogan, has leased the building opposite the depot on the east side of the track, from W. B. Hoxie, and will establish a laundry as soon as he can move his paraphernalia from Brogan.

He expects to have everything ready to commence business June 1st.

Kingman Kolony Kolumn.

A. G. Kingman and A. E. Wade were Boise visitors Saturday.

Mrs. Maxwell and daughter, Miss Corinne, visited relatives at New Plymouth last week.

H. F. LaBrecque and his force of surveyors have returned to Boise. They have been making a survey of the land to be irrigated under the proposed pumping project.

Helen Peek returned Monday from a week's visit with Mrs. Phoebe Sheldon at Caldwell.

E. M. Blodgett is recovering from an attack of measles. He doesn't wish to hear "joys of childhood" mentioned just now.

The Kolony school closed May 5. A charming cantata was given by the children, which was largely attended by the parents and friends. After the program Miss St Clair served frappe and wafers.

PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY

This is Becoming the Slogan of the Forethoughted in Every Industry and with Every Tradesman.

The multiplicity and diversity of products made in Oregon are not as well known to the average resident, or business man, for that matter, as they should be. Here in Oregon we manufacture perhaps ninety per cent of the average requirements of our citizens, but comparatively few realize the fact, "Made in Oregon" should be the slogan of every citizen. Every dollar spent on home goods remains at home, and the spender gets back at least a portion of his money in one way or another every time he buys a "Made in Oregon" product.

Oregon is destined to be one of the great manufacturing states in the Union, but the time it will require for her to be in the foremost rank of manufacturing states would be greatly shortened if our people would make it a portion of their daily duties first to inquire if the goods they are buying are "Made in Oregon."

We have factories in this state which today are struggling for existence, and which would be running along smoothly, employing many more men and women if each man, woman and child in the state would insist on having the home product. It is not asked that our people buy "Made in Oregon" goods in preference to goods made elsewhere, unless the home product is equal in quality, appearance and price to the same goods made elsewhere. But even the casual investigation of our citizens will show that our manufactures in most lines are turning out goods today the equal of any in the country, and the Manufacturers' Association only asks that when such goods are offered that they be given the preference.

The support of home industry is the duty of every citizen. We live by the interchange of trade. There is small need indeed for the people of Oregon to go outside their state for the everyday requirements of life, and if the Oregon people would insist on "Made in Oregon" goods being sold them, retail dealers everywhere would keep up their stock to meet the demands of their trade.

Cities and states are built up by the payrolls within the state. Property values are kept up by the payrolls of the factories. Farm values are kept up by the demands for farm products from the cities, the manufacturing center. The whole problem is one which casually studied will prove to any citizen and to every man, woman and child within the state that his support of "Made in Oregon" goods means that his own prosperity

Graduation Presents.....

At no other time in the life of a Boy or young Woman is a substantial gift so appropriate, and no occasion merits a token of approval and encouragement more. The proud day of graduation for a Boy offers a suitable time for the gift of a Watch, a Fob, a Chain or Ring. For a young Woman, a Watch, a Bracelet, a Beltpin or Locket and Chain, but whatever the amount you can afford to invest, some selection of jewelry will please best and carry the most enduring remembrance.

LOCAL NOTES

M. A. Bates of the Parma Herald made the Journal a fraternal visit Saturday.

Niel Morehead, one of our old time acquaintances of fifteen years ago, made the Journal a visit Saturday.

Miss Emma Schweitzer, who has been in the Bell telephone services at the Vale office the past five months, arrived home Sunday for a visit.

The New Plymouth school nine played a game of base ball with the Nyssa team Sunday, tearing the scalp off the local team in a score of 8 to 10. This is hoss and hoss, the Nyssa boys skinning New Plymouth in the previous encounter. The next session will be for blood.

A. B. Macpherson was in to see us Monday, advancing his subscription to 1912. Mac. stated that his youngest daughter, Miss Gladys, was married at home Sunday, the 7th to Bernard Young. Rev. Meyers of the Baptist Church officiating, and that a reception and dinner was tendered the young couple at the MacPherson home last Sunday.

C. V. Mitchell, Worthy Master of the Nyssa Grange, made the Journal a pleasant call Saturday, and acquainted us with much of the splendid work that is being accomplished by the local farmers' organization. We arranged to secure complete reports of the work of the Grange in the future.

SELECTS NEW SECRETARY.

The newly elected directors of the Commercial Club, at their first regular meeting, selected Homer E. Bush as secretary of the organization for the ensuing term.

Mr. Bush is a live wire and a wide awake Nyssa booster. We believe that his ennoblement as secretary of the club will bring good results, and that there will be something doing all the time.

WASHED ONE MAN I

Jersey Executive's Determined Victory and Was C Evidence of His Purpose to Quarter When His Conv ght Met Opposition.

Woodrow Wilson, governor of Jersey, has come very the political limelight in months by reason of his effective advocacy of the people to govern the out interference from the corruptions and vested interests. Wilson is a native son, having been born at Chester, N. J., Sept. 28, 1856. He is the son of a Presbyterian minister of Scotch descent. As a boy he lived in and at the age of nine he graduated from Princeton university, from which he received his degree in 1879. He was in law at the University of Virginia and was admitted to practice law in Atlanta.

and then took a postgraduate course in political economy, jurisprudence at Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore. His political subjects while in college attracted much attention. He was offered the presidentship of Bryn Mawr, Penn. college for three years.
Wilson went to Westchester, N. Y., at Middletown, Conn., where he was a member of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity. In 1880 he joined the Princeton university as a graduate student in political economy and law. The title of his thesis was "The Theory of the State." He changed to professor of political economy and law. In 1892 Wilson was chosen president of Princeton university and position for eight years.
Wilson's office was fight against special interests. He made an effort to make the government more democratic than it had been. In 1910 President McKinley was elected as the Democratic candidate for governor of New Jersey and was elected by a narrow margin after a campaign in which he was remarkable for his energy and his thousands of people disappointed with the management of the party.

Governor Wilson has made his pledges. He people of New Jersey to be their representative in the capitol and would stand for the whole people in his ability. Among the things which he made Wilson do all in his power to enactment of the public law for the control of railroad public service corporations and primary law that would give absolute control of the state to the people for the selection of candidates for the offices of the state. Wilson's policy was that would make the use of money of elections difficult, if not impossible, for the control of cities by the citizens and including the initiative and referendum recall; as employers, instead of protecting the workmen automatically making it necessary for them to obtain their rights while at work and a few of great local importance.

Though the legislature of New Jersey was Democratic on June 1st, it seemed to every one that Wilson had undertaken a task of endeavoring to reform through an unwilling people. People declared that a practical politician
