Three New Stores in Nyssa.

Three new stores have opened in Nyssa this week, two general dry goods establishments and one exclusive grocery store.

Caldwell's big dry goods store, which has been conducted in Boise for the past twelve years, has moved to Nyssa, and opened up as the Nyssa Cash Store. It occupies the Emison building temporarily, but has a five year lease on the Boydell block, where it will locate permanently as soon as the rooms are vacated by the present occupants.

C. E. Bean, formerly in the dry goods business in Nyssa, has opened the Golden Rule store in the hotel Western building, and will have a large stock of goods from the east, which will be opened to public about the 1st of September.

The Willson brothers, three of whom are in the grocery business in Ontario, have opened an exclusive grocery business in the building formerly the Himler store, two of Wilson brothers being in charge of the Nyssa store.

Each of the new firms has an announcement in this issue of the Journal, and we hope our readers will investigate these carefully, for we believe Nyssa is now in a position to serve all customers, and to offer prices in every line that will fully repay you for coming here to make all your purchases.

The Journal has worked unceasingly to secure the location of these business houses in Nyssa, so that the people here and in the surrounding country would not have to go elsewhere to trade; now that we have them here, it is hoped they will not be dissapointed in securing a full measure of your patronage.
