A banker at Bend, believing the hog is a great source of wealth, has arranged for the purchase, through the Portland Union Stockyards Co., of two or three cars of sows of good blood in the Middle West and will sell them to the farmers around Bend, taking their notes for them for one year. This shows the confidence the bankers have in the hog as a mortgage lifter and the plan promises to aid very materially in building up a greater hog industry in the interior.

The clean-up process is in full swing about the residences on north First street, but is seriously lacking in downtown districts. It would be well for the city dads to take a hand, and make a general clean-up order, before the vegetation dries and becomes a serious menace to property.

The annual convention of the Oregon Wool growers' Association will be held in Baker November 14 and 15. Problems that confront the woolmen will be taken up and discussed and the tariff will be one of the leading features of general interest.
