Artesian water has been discovered in Crook county and it is believed much land, until recently considered worthless, will be reclaimed.

The subject of the ownership of land in California by Japanese is again an issue at Washington. A law making citizenship a requisite to the ownership of land would solve the problem quickly.

Sixty-three revolvers were taken from 80 odd persons who attended a mass meeting at Copperfield during the recent rule of martial law. The governor's act in ruthlessly invading that peaceful, Arcadian village is receiving severe censure from the newspapers of similar communities all over the state.

The Juntura Times is unnecessarily caustic in its comments on Governor West's recent house-cleaning at Copperfield. Possibly the time-honored adage, "People who live in glass houses shouldn't shy dornics," would apply to the ambitious young city at the present terminus of the Oregon-Eastern.

The wide-awake people of Whitley Bottom held a mass meeting Friday to agitate for a better road system out of that fertile section. Nyssa should be interested in this matter, as a good road from here to the Bottom would make this the trading point of the people of that important community, which is capable of almost unlimited development.

At Gooding, Idaho, where rabbits are a serious pest and a menace to successful farming, a rabbit killing contest has been inaugurated and is proving a successful means of diminishing the tribe of long-ears. The section of the Snake river basin immediately surrounding Nyssa seems to be especially favored of providence, as the pests have almost entirely disappeared from their usual haunts and Bre'r Rabbit of late has become almost a curiosity. May his tribe decrease.

Editor Mark Bates of the Parma Herald, is a candidate for congress, and if the rank and file of the democratic party of his district are wise enough to nominate a man who will represent the common people and work for the interests of the common people, he will probably be elected. With one or two exceptions, Idaho has, since being admitted as a state, been misrepresented principally by peanut politicians and mountebanks and the election of a man of common sense and a first hand knowledge of the needs of his constituents to a position where he can be of service is a change devoutly to be wished. Mr. Bates measures up to the size of the office and should be elected.

Railroads in the Northwest are beginning to advertise the spring colonist rates which will be in effect for 32 days, beginning with March 15. The rates will be the same as in former seasons, $33 from Chicago, $30 from Missouri river points and $25 from the Colorado region. Although the reduced rates will be advertised to a considerable extent, the roads state they will make no special effort to induce organized parties of homeseekers to come west. They state that heretofore the low rates have been taken advantage of by wage-earners, principally, and that but few bona fide homeseekers are generally included in the large parties that come out each spring and fall. Genuine would-be settlers will come at any time of the year without waiting for special rates.

Dr. C. J. Smith of Portland has announced his candidacy for the nomination for governor on the democratic ticket. Dr. Smith is an able man with a clean record, and the democratic party could look further and do worse. His public career extends back over 20 years, he having held among other offices the mayorship of Pendleton and later served two terms in the state senate, being elected in a district that was heavily republican. A long acquaintance with Dr. Smith leads the writer to believe he would fill the office of governor with distinction to himself and in the interests of the people of the whole state.

Outlook Good for Government Aid

Will R. King, chief counsel of the United States reclamation service, in an address to a business men's club of Portland recently, predicted vast activities for the reclamation service in the next few years. He gave it as his opinion that the government will expend $200,000,000 in the next 10 years in reclaiming the arid lands of the West. He called attention to the highly important recommendations made to congress by the secretary of the interior for the extension and improvement of the reclamation service, such as the proposal to loan the service $100,000,000; to change the method of paying for reclamation lands from 10 annual installments to 20 annual installments, and the plan to have the government and the individual states cooperate in reclamation work, each party to the agreement furnishing an equal amount.

"Oregon has as many good irrigation projects, not yet undertaken, as any state in the Union," said Judge King. "So far Oregon has not received its just proportion of the available reclamation fund, but this injustice will be righted in time. Oregon has contributed more money to the reclamation fund than any other state except Oklahoma—and Idaho has received more money than any other state. The people of Oregon have not been as diligent in demanding that the government undertake irrigation in this state as they should have been, while in Idaho they lose no opportunity to impress upon the department the needs of their state along the line of irrigation."

Trees on Waste Grounds

Besides the extensive plans for sowing broadcast the seed of native forest trees on the bare patches of the mountains in Colorado, Wyoming and South Dakota, government foresters are taking steps to introduce a number of forest trees which it is expected will add appreciably to the verdure of the mountains and will eventually become an asset in the form of timber. As in the case of human immigrants only those foreigners or "exotics" that will make good citizens are to be encouraged. The species involved are Austrian pine, Corsican pine, Scotch pine, Norway spruce and European larch.

THE GENTLE CYNIC

Always do your best, but never your best friend.

The one particular brand of love that isn't blind is self-love.

The penalty of a stolen kiss is frequently a life sentence at hard labor.

All locksmiths are not bachelors, in spite of the fact that love laughs at them.

Ever notice that the wolf generally comes to the door disguised as a bill collector?

A man seldom knows who his friends are, but his enemies are more considerate.

It requires almost as much force of character to be a book agent as to turn one down.

Many a girl would promise to marry a man if she thought he wouldn't be so silly as to expect her to live up to her promise.

No woman is competent to advise a young girl in her love affairs unless the aforesaid woman has been married at least four times.

A DIFFERENT KIND.

Mr. Boose—I never saw so many snakes in my life as there is in the woods back of the barn.

Mrs. Boose—Well, I don't know, but you often said that you have seen them all over the room, while at home.

Using Time.

It is always easier to wish that we had more time than to use the time that we have. So, by wasting time in wishing, we still further reduce the precious asset of the actual and only time that is really ours. The person who is not capitalizing all the time he has at the rate of sixty seconds to the minute would not be much better off with forty-eight hours in his day. Those who turn out what is, to the rest of us, a discouragingly large amount of work, have simply learned the art of using all their time—particularly the nooks and corners, the odds and ends, or their time. They utilize a five or ten-minute scrap of time as eagerly as they do a half-day. And so things get done, and their year's output seems stupendous. With the average man, unless he can see several hours clear for a piece of work, he will attempt little out of the ordinary; and that is why he remains an average man.—Sunday School Times.

Moth Balls and Moles.

Our new lawn was completely ruined by ground moles, and many dollars' worth of bulbs which we set out were eaten. After trying traps and other devices, we were about to give up in despair when a forist told us to push moth balls down into the tracks. These drove them away completely—the odor of the balls permeating the ground.—Woman's Home Companion.

Uses for Milk.

Milk will clean piano keys satisfactorily. It will take out ink spots of long standing. Used in starch, it will give a satisfactory gloss. It will remove discolorations from gilt mirrors and picture frames. Used with bluing for lace curtains it will make them look like new.
