On Monday evening the Idaho Canning company completed the run for this year on peas and shut down. However, this does not mean that activities at that hive of industry have ceased for the season. It will be but a short time until tomatoes, pears and other fruits will be ready and then it will be "on agin."—Payette Enterprise.

O. S. L. officials made a tour of inspection over the Payette Valley road the latter part of last week and it has been determined the P. V. is to be standardized. Eighteen thousand new ties have been ordered and 60 pound rails are to replace the light rails now in use. The road bed is to be widened and straightened, and the entire right of way of thirty miles between Payette and Emmett will be fenced. Depots will be enlarged and improved and telegraph service installed. The work will be commenced this month,—Enterprise.

Whitney,—Baker county's first lynching in years occurred between here and Audrey July 16, when masked men took from J. B. Hardman, a man who had confessed to an assault on Hardman's eight-year-old daughter Grace, and hung him to a tree in a canyon. The lynchers then fled and when Deputy Sheriff Ed Jackson and Charles Nibley of Whitney reached the scene the body was cold and dangled lifelesely from the branch of the tallest tree there. There is no trace of the men who did the work and so covered were their tracks that there is little hope of a clew.

Halfway — George Gillette, postmaster of Halfway, was instantly killed by the accidental discharge of his revolver while fishing at Clear creek about six miles from this place at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The bullet entered the neck just under the chin and passed out at the base of the brain. The gun is believed to have fallen on a rock from its holster, while Mr. Gillette was leaning over to cut fern with which to cover fish he had caught. His brother Fred, who was only a few feet away, at once took him out of the water into which he had fallen, and medical aid was at once summoned, but without avail. —Baker Herald.

August Broderson came down Friday from his camp in the upper country on business and will return in a few days. He reported the loss of several valuable sheep dogs and in a manner has put an end to the discussion concerning the mad coyote question. An animal of this specie suffering with the rabbies was the cause of Mr Broderson's loss. He said the coyote came down to camp and mixed up with all the dogs there, biting them in dozens of places. The herder went into the bunch and killed it with a club. The dogs were locked up and in nine days one of them went mad and the rest of the dogs were all shot.—Weiser Signal.

A stockholder's meeting, called by the committee on permanent organization of a proposed cheese factory company, was held at the library rooms, Parma, Saturday afternoon. About 50 were present. The meeting was called to order at 3 p. m., with Committee Chairman F. E. Baxter in the chair, and the committee call read. The call made plain the purpose of the meeting, which was to take steps making legal the business of the proposed Parma Dairy Products Company, the adoption of articles of incorporation and by-laws, the election of directors, and the consideration of such other business as should properly be brought before the stockholders. F. T. Kice of Roswell was elected chairman, and under his direction the articles of incorporation previously prepared by Attorney Anderson at the direction of the committee were read by Mr. Anderson—Parma Herald.

Poison Bran Mash Stops Grasshoppers.

Oregon Agricultural College—Poisoned bran mash is the most satisfactory remedy under Central Oregon conditions, for grasshoppers, according to Prof. H. F. Wilson, who has just returned from a successful campaign against the grasshoppers in Klamath county. Its materials are cheap, easily put together, easily applied and the poison is quite effective. The only exceptions to the success of the treatment is with the hoppers that are in the moulting stage and refuse to eat much of anything.

As most successfully used in the recent raid, the mash was prepared as follows: Bran, 50 pounds; paris green or white arsenic, 2 pounds; salt, 1 pound; syrup, 1 quart; lemon extract, 1 ounce; water to make a thoroughly soaked mixture.

The mixture is best applied by broadcasting, walking in the center of a 20 or 30 foot strip and sowing both to the right and to the left. This should be done early in the morning, since the bran retains the moisture longer then and the young hoppers on beginning to feed eat the poisoned bait greedily. After the bran loses its moisture and after the young insects have eaten well of plant food, the bran has less attraction for the insects. It takes several hours for the poison to complete its work, but within a day or two after it has been eaten the grasshoppers are dead. Only a flake or two is required to kill the young hopper when hungry.

Speed Mania.

"I am not finicky," said the Watchful Waiter, "but I can't think of any business that is so urgent that a man has to blow his soup in order to save time."

Fortunate Provision.

"Nature's works are marvelous." "Yes. Isn't it fortunate that she provided every woman with some real hair to pin braids and switches to."
