HOME TRADE WEEK.

This is HOME TRADE WEEK, and the HOME TOWN is more active than any time before this summer. An appeal has been made to the loyalty of the people for the support and maintenance of the institutions dear to them by every hallowed tradition. They have been asked to be true to the principles upon which society has been built—the Home and the Home Folks. Never has such an appeal sincerely made, been renudiated by true Americans. And no community could be more typically American than is Nyssa.

There may be lapses, when evil times come upon us, and the people listen to the false songs sung by the hidden business siren, but they have never become so entranced, that the earnest call of their true friends at home is not heeded.

Local business men have confidence in the people here, and it is this confidence that carries them through the slack times safely, even though it is sometimes a struggle. For when the crops are harvested, the people will surely remember the men who have stood by them giving them aid and comfort, patiently waiting for the money due them on goods and machinery provided on credit.

Thus Home Trade Week has struck a popular chord, and the farmers remembering the many favors asked and granted during the season, have rallied to the home town invitation and are taking advantage of the bargains provided.

SOUNDS FEASIBLE.

Under the head "Forty Acres Enough" we published two weeks ago an article setting forth the virtue of less land and more people as a crying need for the development of this fertile region into a more compact and productive territory. Our argument, backed by testimon-

Is ours, because we give especial attention to the accounts of the business men. It is not only our desire to see our deposits grow but we are equally desirous of seeing our customers' business grow successfully as well, and we are always ready to extend accommodations and conveniences to our deserving customers. They are welcome to our advice at all times.

ial from experienced farmers, met with widespread approval, and attracted considerable comment from our contemporaries.

In line with this, word has been received recently from an Eastern Company that they are planning to buy and subdivide into small tracts, several ranches adjacent to Nyssa, and they also offer a plan for selling surplus land from all sources, through their company, by exploitation in the middle west.

The letter which is self explanatory is published elsewhere in this issue, and the idea as outlined seems feasible. However it is a matter that should be thoroughly discussed, and everyone should have a voice. There are plenty of people in this vicinity who are carrying the burden of too much land, and they will welcome any avenue that provides a means for disposing of their surplus, if it is legitimate. Mr. Ennis, who writes the letter is well known here, having been in business in Nyssa for several years.

SILOS NECESSARY ON UP-TO-DATE DAIRY FARMS

Modern dairy farms are not completely equipped unless they have silos, according to Professor R. R. Graves, head of the O. A. C. Dairy department. Twelve reasons why this is so are as follows:

1. Every ration needs some successful feed.
2. Corn silage is probably the cheapest succulent feed that can be had.
3. An acre of corn can be placed in the silo at less cost than that of harvesting an acre of roots or kale.
4. A ton of corn silage contains more food nutrients than a ton of roots or kale.
5. Silage can be made in weather that is unfit for making hay, since the crop is never too wet to put into a silo.
6. Many crops will be saved and utilized for feed that would otherwise have been a total loss because of unfavorable weather for handling the crop as hay.
7. More feed can be stored in a given space in the form of silage than in that of hay or fodder.
8. A well filled silo is a guarantee against shrinkage of milk when pastures dry up.
9. Silage can be used for supplementing pastures more economically than soiling crops, because less labor is required and the feed is more palatable.
10. More stock can be kept on a given area of land, when silage is the basis of the ration.
11. Silage has a beneficial effect on the digestive organs.
12. With the silo full a good, palatable feed is always on hand regardless of how bad the weather is or how busy men and teams are at field work.

Real Meaning of Friendship.
 Carlyle and Tennyson sat four hours smoking their pipes before the fire, neither saying a word. When Tennyson arose to go, Carlyle said, "Good night, Alfred, we have had a glorious evening together." Friends need not speak for each others' entertainment. They need only the silent assurance of the illuminating presence.

Valuable Tungsten.
 Two pounds of tungsten will furnish material for filaments for about 50,000 electric bulbs, for each filament is only one twelve-hundredth of an inch in diameter. The current passing through the filament heats it to an incredible degree until it is almost white hot, producing a mellow, clear light of great brilliancy.

Just Surmising.
 "I wonder what was this here 'period of renaissance' the paper speaks of?" said Mr. Farmer. "Reckon it must 'a' been one of them revolutions where they killed the king or sumptin'." reflected his neighbor.—Livingston Lance.

BUSINESS TALKS WITH BUSINESS MEN

It is sometimes a good idea to advertise a little ahead of a season, not too far but in time to inform patrons that their needs will be cared for properly when the season opens. Also give a hint regarding special features that will arouse curiosity, prepare the people for coming events. The fall season is now advancing. It has been a good year for the farmers and there will be a good many wants satisfied when the crop is sold and the purse is full once more. The home merchant should always be first in the field, anticipating distant rivals. Start advertising for fall trade now.

Economic Epigram.
 To speak truthfully, to work faithfully, steadily and conscientiously, to deal fairly, to look upon others' failings compassionately—these give more lasting rewards than political or social prominence, or financial gains through lying, shirking, cheating and defaming.

Something Better.
 "Then you can't get me a government plum?" "No," said Senator Wombat; "but what's one paltry government plum? I have secured for you some plum seeds from the department of agriculture. Go home and start an orchard of your own, my friend."—Judge.

Well Paved.
 It's a good thing the way of the transgressor is hard, or it wouldn't stand the heavy traffic.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Womanly Prudence.
 Women don't risk much as a rule, but the limit in caution was reached the other day when a lady on a bus in Whitehall inquired the fare to Dayswater. She was told it was three-pence-halfpenny. "Only take two-pence," she said to the conductor, as she handed him a shilling; "you may break down." The late Phil May would have given a guinea to see the expression on that conductor's face.—Tit-Bits.

Positive Cine.
 "I don't like to knee," said the French, today, "but when I hear that two of my acquaintances, here at Pest, are sick I am always sure that it can't possibly be brain fever."

Pet Baboons.
 Black baboons are tamed and kept as household pets by many of the natives of the Molucca islands.
