BETTER BABIES CONTEST

To Be Held at Vale Sept. 3, 4, 5, 1914, by the Women's Civic Improvement Club for All Malheur County Babies.

Prizes for best physical development. Directions for care of babies. A general system for instruction from the world's greatest authorities. County will be divided into districts. Special prize for each district. Grand sweepstakes prize for the best county baby. Watch this paper for complete instructions. Address the committee.

All Malheur county babies between the ages of six and forty-eight months are eligible for entry. Application blanks will be mailed to mothers upon request and should be filed with chairman by Sept. 1.

Fill out the blank received from the chairman upon your request and return same to the committee on entries as soon as possible. In order that appointment cards may be sent out. You may use the application blank found in this issue if you wish.

There will be no expense attached to the examination by skilled physicians and each mother will receive a certificate of examination and a folder giving practical suggestions which will materially assist in the care of little ones.

The county will be divided into several districts. Each district will receive a prize for its best baby, with a sweepstakes prize for the best county baby.

At the state show the best baby will be sent to the San Francisco exposition and the world's best baby will get a $25,000 prize.

For detailed information address Emily U. Rigby, Vale, Ore., Chairman of Registration committee. Watch the papers.

FRUIT MARKET IN SOUTH AMERICA

For the first time in the history of the Northwestern fruit industry, the South American markets are being canvassed by the personal representative of an agency representing the Northwestern growers. George C. Gaede, attached to the New York Office of the Northwestern Fruit Exchange of Portland, sailed from New York on May 30th for Buenos Ayres, and is still in South America, where he is meeting with most encouraging success. Deals involving over 30,000 boxes of Northwestern apples have been closed, with other deals pending, which cables received by the Portland headquarters of the exchange from Gaede, state will be closed in another day or so.

The most important feature of the whole business is that for the first time Northwestern fruit growers will get the full benefit of the sale in these markets. Buenos Ayres and Rio are both notoriously high-priced markets, and for years New York and London middlemen have monopolized this trade, buying at the cheapest possible prices from growers in the Northwest, and turning the deals at a very handsome profit for themselves. While this is perfectly legitimate business, the Exchange regards this business in exactly the same light it does the European business; namely, that the straightest lines between producers and consumers, consistent with practical methods, promise maximum results for producers and the best service and protection for consumers. In both Rio and Buenos Ayres boxed apples have in the past been selling as high as $16.00 per box gold, while the same fruit has netted the growers out here only ordinary prices. This condition is not conducive to the good of either the consumer or the Northwestern farmer, and members of the Exchange are therefore congratulating themselves on the opening of these valuable markets that have been closed them, except indirect, heretofore.

In the Pride of Their Youth.
You remember this. In the three greatest decisions to be taken in life—the fundamental view of life, one's life work, and love—each soul must be its own counsel. Children must perform their duty to themselves and to life by sooner or later going their own way.—From "Young Wisdom."

The Parrot's Reason.
Why do parrots stay in the tropical forests instead of migrating northward like the robins? Undoubtedly because they realize that they are not good in pies—as some barbarians serve robins.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

In the Day.
Never morning wore to evening but some heart did break.—Tennyson.
