We see by the London papers that of Germany's original 30 Zeppelins, she has now lost 67.

Disarming merchantmen would make it impossible for supmarines to put up a plea of self-defense.

When a married man goes home hungry late at night, he always gets a piece of tongue and roast.

Evidently nobody is going to suggest Mr. William Howard Taft of New Haven, Conn., as the republican nominee.

Care is still being taken by Germany to avoid fear that anything hasty may be done in settling the Lusitania case.

There is an Ohio woman who trimmed her hat with fifty $1 bills and doubtless prides herself on her economy and efficiency.

With independence only four years distant our advice to the Philippines is to get busy on a first-class navy without delay.

If, as a St. Louis clergyman says, the secret of longevity is the job collar, may not a ball gown be looked upon as a ticket to great age?

Reopening the Mexican schools is the greatest victory yet announced for the watchful waiting policy of this nation's foremost school master.

If it were not for the international crises, the good things that are being said about Mr. Brandeis would be extremely interesting to the public.

If Villa's hatred of Americans has become a mania, as is reported, there ought to be a nice opening for him on the editorial staff of the "Fatherland."

According to the pasteur institute of Paris, milk is a powerful stimulant, yet it may be a long time before the gentle cow is classified with the demon rum.

They say it takes seventy-five tons of missiles to put one German soldier out of commission. The figures on Frenchmen, Brittons, and Russians are lacking.

It is natural to suppose that no Americans are going abroad except for adequate reasons and it is not for either war maniacs or a spineless congress to forbid their going.

This country has received and welcomed aliens more rapidly than it could assimilate them, but the unassimilated should not undertake to rule the country to suit themselves.

Laws we'll soon be smaking our lips over early peas and string beans.

In the game of war, Germany evidently believes that whoever hesitates is lost.

Speaking of reprisals, Villa is said to have looted the Hearst properties in Mexico.

As for Democracy "losing the German vote," it doesn't go hard to lose what one never had.

And where is the old-fashioned woman who used to worry over whether her hat is on straight?

Probably when their constituents quit demanding bacon congressmen will cease to work for pork.

The true course of a love brain-storm apparently begins at the heart and ends at the pocket-book.

The responsibility for the recent New Haven wreck has finally been put on the engineer. He's dead.

Von Bernstorff is said to be fond of the movies, and the indications are that he'll soon be one himself.

If there is ever a time when silence is golden it is when a man is mad.

"Aunt, did you marry an Indian?" asked little Johnny.

"Why do you ask such silly questions Johnny?"

"Well, I saw some scalps on your dressing table."

"I wish to be taken standing in my hat," said the lady who had called at the gallery to have her picture taken.

"You can be taken sitting in it if you like. I am sure there is plenty of room," returned the attendant.

Some people often wonder why it is that editors generally wear long tailed coats. We don't think it will be telling tales when we state that the skylights that our wives often put into our pants do not always match color with the other goods, and a long tailed coat is the most appropriate under the circumstances—or over it either, for that matter.

A little city chap was offered a chance to spend a week in the country but refused. Coaxing, pleading, arguing, promises of untold wonders alike brought from him nothing but the stubborn ultimatum, "no country for mine!"

"Because," he responded, "they have thrashin' machines out there, an' t's bad enough here, where it's done by hand."

"What earthly objection can you have to that man?" asked Mr. Brown of his daughter concerning the man of wealth whom he wished her to marry.

"He has habits which I detest," was the reply. "When I marry I want a husband who does not smoke, chew, swear, belong to a club or stay out late at night."

After regarding his daughter sorrowfully for a few minutes in silence he said, "my child you are but a stranger here, heaven is your home."

The lesson was from the "Prodigal Son," and the S. S. teacher was dwelling on the character of the elder brother. "But amidst all the rejoicing," he said, "there was one to whom the prodigal's return gave no pleasure, but only bitterness; one who did not approve of the feast being held and had no wish to attend it; now can anyone of your tell who this was? There was a short silence, followed by the vigorous snapping of fingers and then from a dozen little mouths came the chorus: "Please sir, it was the fatted calf."

NYSSA, OREGON

The Gate City as It Is Described in a Pamphlet Issued by the Farmers and Business Men's League

The object of this little folder is to give tersely and honestly general facts about NYSSA and that part of the great Snake River Valley of which NYSSA is the center. This thriving town is located on the main line of the Oregon Short Line railroad and junction of branch line to Homedale, Idaho. Some of the advantages which its citizens enjoy are:

A population of over 600.

Electric lighting system, privately owned.

Municipal waterworks system furnishing a bountiful supply of pure deep well water.

Magnificent school buildings, high and graded schools, with free transportation for pupils within a radius of five miles from NYSSA. The only schools with this system in the State.

Steel wagon bridge across Snake River connects NYSSA with the Apple Valley bench, Idaho.

Two banks, capital and surplus $64,000. Carry deposits aggregating $125,000.

One general store, lumber and coal yard, four grocery stores, one hardware store, one men's and boys' store, two dry goods stores, two butcher shops, one drug store, two restaurants, one confectionery store, two blacksmith shops, two pool and cigar stores, one auto garage, a first class hotel, housed in a modern brick building; modernly equipped motion picture theatre; an up-to-the minute cheese factory—the only one in the county.

The center of a 100,000-acre irrigation project.

Methodist Episcopal, Presbyterian, Episcopal and Mormon churches.

Masons, I. O. O. F. and Women of Woodcraft lodges.

A live weekly paper.

FARMING

The farmer finds his paradise in the Snake River Valley. The advantages are:

SOIL—The soil is composed of decomposed lava rock, volcanic ash, sand and loam, the richest soil known. The soil is of great depth, often 50 feet or more. It contains the fertilizer itself, making it unnecessary to manure land to give it life.

CLIMATE—The climatic conditions are ideal. Short mild winters; seldom below zero. Summers of continual sunshine. June, July, August, September and October contain 135 days of clear sunshine.

WATER—The best and cheapest water rights in the state are found here; shortage of irrigation water is unknown.

ELEVATION—The lands of the valley lie at an elevation of from 2200 to 2300 feet.

Seldom does the farmer find the concomitants of all the essential conditions for successful farming so beautifully blended in harmony of climate, soil, elevation and cheap water.

The principal crops grown are:

ALFALFA is the great forage crop. The long dry summers of continual sunshine make the curing of alfalfa easy possible without loss. No other forage crop equals this alfalfa in production of fat and growth of stock. Three cuttings every season, yield from 6 to 10 tons per acre. It sells for from $5 to $8 per ton in the stack. Alfalfa seed makes returns of as high as $100 per acre. Malheur county ranks first in alfalfa in Oregon.

GRAINS yield abundantly. Wheat from 40 to 80 bushels per acre; oats from 75 to 125 bushels per acre, weight 40 to 45 pounds to the bushel. Barley does equally as well, yielding from 50 to 85 bushels per acre.

POTATOES are easily grown and yield from 8 to 20 tons per acre. They sell at from 65c to $2 per hundred. The potato bug is unknown.

ONIONS, cabbage, tomatoes, peas, sweet corn, melons, and in fact all truck farming products are successfully grown.

CORN AND HOGS—This valley is peculiarly adapted to successful corn growing. Last year was the first that the farmers grew corn as a principal crop. The yields were enormous, ranging from 60 to 123 bushels of shelled corn per acre.

NYSSA took first prize for corn exhibited at the Malheur County Fair, State Land Products Show, and the Walla Walla Corn Show, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana competing. Malheur county ranks first in the state for corn production, quality and yield. Hogs are very profitable and are easily raised. Cholera is unknown. The wonderful opportunities for corn and barley production, coupled with the high grade alfalfa grown, promises to make this the premier hog section of the state.

FRUIT—Apples, prunes, peaches, apricots, and cherries are grown in abundance. Prunes and apples especially do well. The largest prune orchard in Oregon is at NYSSA. This orchard of 100 acres ships annually from 40 to 60 cars of prunes. NYSSA prunes dry 8 per cent more fruit than prunes grown west of the Cascades. Within a radius of five miles of NYSSA are 4000 acres of apple orchards. The principal varieties are Jonathan, Rome Beauty and Winesap. Owing to the continuous sunshine, this fruit reaches a size, flavor and rich coloring that excels that grown in the rainfall sections.

FACTS FOR THE DAIRYMAN

SHORT WINTERS—Spring work begins in February.

NO DISEASE—Dry climate.

CHEAP FEED—The kind you want. As an illustration, 22 head of cattle and horses were pastured on 64 acres of bluegrass pasture without other feed from April 15 to November 1.

ALFALFA—Three and four cuttings, 6 to 10 tons.

CORN ENSILAGE—Twenty tons per acre easily grown.

CREAM STATIONS AND A CO-OPERATIVE CHEESE FACTORY—Cheese easy sale at good prices. Conditions are ideal for this business.
