MYSTERY IN OCEAN CURRENTS

No Scientist Has Been Able to Explain Satisfactorily the Many Vagaries of the Waters.There are as many vagaries in the waters as in the winds. Why, for instance, should great ocean currents send their warm waters across the wide Pacific and Atlantic? Other and equally mysterious currents exist in well-nigh all parts of the world.It is on record that the water has run for weeks out of the Java sea, through the Strait of Suda and thence back again for the like period without any perceptible rise and fall during those times.Then there is the Equatorial current that flows into the Caribbean sea, the ever-flowing current to the eastward around Cape Horn, the cold stream flowing from the icy regions of the north past Newfoundland and Nova Scotia and along the American coast to the extreme end of Florida, the continual current running with a velocity of from four to five knots an hour through the Strait of Gibraltar into the Mediterranean sea, the swift current running across the rocks and shoals off the end of Billiton island, which apparently starts from nowhere and ends nowhere in the vicinity of the same place, and the current which, starting half way up the China sea, runs from two to three knots an hour to the northeast and finally ends abruptly off the north end of Luzon.Then we have those tidal vagaries known the world over as bores.
Those that run up the Hugli and Irawadi rivers, from side to side, till they reach their limit, often tearing the ships from their anchorage. Evidently nobody knows where or why.At Singapore it has been observed for days at a time that there has been but one rise and fall in the 24 hours.

RANK WITH EAST'S WONDERS

Famous Temples at Mandalay, in Upper Burma, a Spectacle That Few Tourists Care to Miss.Of the many strange buildings and temples in the far East, says a writer in Wide World Magazine, there are none more wonderful than the 450 Temples of the Law at Mandalay, in Upper Burma, known as the Rutholdaw, or "Royal Merit." The group consists of a large central pagoda surrounded by hundreds of smaller white temples, or shrines. They were erected by Alinshay-min, who ascended the throne on the death of his brother in 1867. The latter was cruelly murdered by his two nephews, and it appears that this very much affected the new king. Not only did he devote his energies to peace, but erected this strange group of temples, each one of which contains a slab on which is engraved a portion of the Buddhist bible. These slabs are made of soft marble or alabaster, each slab being about the size of a large old-fashioned tombstone. On both sides are engraved chapters from the Buddhist scriptures.
Over every slab is erected a canopy surmounted by a gilded framework of metal with small tinkling bells. The temples are situated in a beautiful wooded valley, and seen from the surrounding hills they present a fascinating picture.

Serving the Commonwealth.

There are many crosses and trials in the life of one who is endeavoring to serve the commonwealth, but there are also two permanent sources of comfort. One is the support and sympathy of honest and reasonable people. The other is the conviction dwelling forever, like a well of living water, in the hearts of all of us who have faith in the country, that all we do in the fear of God and the love of the land, will somehow be overruled to the public good; and that even our errors and failures cannot greatly check the irresistible onward march of this mighty republic, the consummate evolution of ages, called . . . to a destiny grander and brighter than we can conceive, and moving always consciously or unconsciously, along lines of beneficent achievement whose constant aims and ultimate ends are peace and righteousness.—John Hay.

Closing Wild Gas Wells.

Engineering feats, comparable in the magnitude required, if not in expedi-ture of effort with the closing of the Salton sea, have been called for in recent years to close wild gas wells in northwestern Louisiana. An immense amount of natural gas has been lost in wells that have got beyond control in the Caddo and Red river fields, and the loss consists not only in the precious fuel wasted, but in the lowering of pressure on the associated oil, which is rendered thereby more difficult to recover. Indeed, it is asserted by some that the ultimate yield of oil from a pool is considerably less if the gas is allowed to escape than if it is closed in until as much oil as possible is taken out.—Argonaut.

NEW HONOR ACCORDED DAVID

Might with Entire Propriety Be Called the First Bandmaster Recorded in History.David might well be called the first bandmaster mentioned in history, for he was the first orchestral organizer of which we have any record. His band numbered two hundred, fourscore and eight, and he thus led the first body of players. He no doubt possessed a knowledge of instrumentation and tone-color effect, for he assigns his subjects to special instruments.The fourth Psalm, "Hear me when I call, O God of my righteousness," he directs to be played by his chief musician, who was a player of the harp and the sackbut. Psalm fifth, "Give ear to my words, O Lord," he assigns to the chief musician, who was the solo flutist of his band.
Psalm sixth, "O Lord, rebuke me not in thine anger," the chief musician or soloist on the string instrument, who had a virtuoso's regard for expression, is called upon to perform, and so on through the Psalms.David without question had in his band all of the component parts of the modern orchestra—strings, wood-winds, brass and percussion. At the dedication of Solomon's temple, David and all the house of David "played before the Lord with all manner of instruments made of fir wood, and with harps and with psalteries with timbrels, cymbals, and organs, and bells, and the sound of the trumpet was heard in the land even as it is heard today." Popular as a composer and popular as a conductor, David was certainly to be envied.From these Biblical days to the present time the instrumental body has existed in many forms—bands composed entirely of bagpipes, orchestras composed entirely of string instruments, bands of oboe players, bands entirely of brass, bands of brass and wood-wind, bands of trumpets, bands of bugles, bands of drums, and all sorts of combinations have been made by man.

ROUSED HIS ARTISTIC SENSE

After a Little Reflection Mr. Sniggaby Could See Beauty of Ornament He Had Condemned."Here's where patience ceases to be a virtue," said Sniggaby. "Look at this hat I'm wearin'. It's three years old. I can't afford to buy a new one, and yet you go and pay $37 for that brass thing to put on the mantelpiece. Darned if I'm goin' to stand for it.""My dear! What shocking language!
What if the neighbors should hear you?""I want 'em to hear me. I don't care who hears me. I've stood this as long as I'm goin' to stand it. You take that thing back tomorrow and see that it's taken off our bill. I'll never pay for it. Put that down where you won't forget it. The worm has turned. Right here's where I cross the Rubicon. I've stood for a lot of darned foolishness, but I'm through. I've got right up to the limit and—""Henry, feel in your inside pocket." "What do you mean?""I mean what I say. Feel in your inside pocket. Yes! I should think you would look worried. I found a letter there last night. Who is Thomas Bickford, and what does he mean by debts of honor? Where have you been going every Saturday night?
You told me you went to your club, and that gambling wasn't allowed there. Does Mr. Bickford—""Tolly, the artistic qualities of that thing grow on a fellow. I'm beginning to like it. It sort of sets off the room. Please tell the maid to hurry up and serve dinner. I'm as hungry as a bear."—Dayton News.

The One Achievement.

"I do not feel that I have really seen "Hamlet" played," mused Mr. Storm-ington Barnes."But you have played the part yourself.""My dear fellow, I could not watch myself act, could I?"
