Jimmie Knew.

A teacher was instructing a class in English and called on a small boy named Jimmy Brown.

"James," she said, "write on the board 'Richard can ride the mule if he wants to.'"

"Now," continued the teacher when Jimmy had finished writing, "can you find a better form for that sentence?"

"Yes, ma'am, I think I can," was the prompt answer. "Richard can ride the mule if the mule wants him to."—"Boys' Life.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect ItApplicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

BIG REDUCTION IN CHOLERA
Decrease in Swine Loss of 72 Per Cent Noted in Six Counties in North Carolina.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

An example of the benefit which may come to a community from the well-directed efforts of state and federal agencies, coupled with the cooperation of farmers, for the control of hog cholera is shown in a recent report of a veterinary inspector of the Bureau of Animal Industry.

Hog cholera control work was inaugurated in six counties in the northeastern section of North Carolina August 1, 1916. An intensive campaign was carried on for a period of 14 months. It included investigation of reported outbreaks, demonstrations in the use of serum and virus, and the disinfection of premises. As the services of practicing veterinarians were not available, a number of laymen were trained in the administration of the serum treatment for cholera. After that period of intensive activities the work was withdrawn to another section of the state, only general supervision being given to the original area.

During October a survey was made of the counties comprising the district in question, and a questionnaire was submitted to as many of the farmers as could be reached. Answers received and tabulated indicate that there has been a reduction in losses from cholera of over 72 per cent, and an increase of over 100 per cent in swine production, due to the protection offered by the immunization of the animals. There has also been a marked improvement in the type of this class of animals, due to the knowledge that it is possible to raise more and better hogs without danger of having them destroyed by cholera.

BRONCHITIS IN LITTLE PIGS

Not Much Can Be Done in Way of Treatment—Damp, Cold Pans Are Cause of Trouble.

Bronchitis most commonly occurs in young pigs. Matured hogs are seldom troubled with it. If it attacks very young pigs it often proves fatal, but pigs two or three months old will generally survive, though their growth may be seriously interfered with. The disease is accompanied by a distressing cough, which usually disappears with the advent of warm weather and outdoor exercise. Little can be done in the way of treatment. Dry pens free from drafts, nourishing feed and as much exercise as possible are the principal points to be observed. Damp, cold pens are the most common cause of this trouble.

MORE HOGS ARE NEEDED NOW

Every Farmer Must Put Forth Best
Endeavors to Produce More
Pork This Season.

If we expect to continue to provide meat to foreign peoples as well as our own people, every farmer must put forth his best effort to produce more hogs. Hogs can be kept profitably upon many farms where they are not found today. Farmers who already produce hogs can produce more, for there is not much chance of producing meat this year in excess of the requirements.

He Can Feed Well.

Make it a golden rule to keep no more stock on the farm than you have enough feed to supply liberally. Sell off the others, even though it seems a sacrifice. For there is no sacrifice equal to that which comes from stunted live stock.

DADDY'S EVENING
FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham

THE REQUESTS.

Sometimes when the great store was dark and when the people had gone home the things in the store had story-telling hours and games and trolleys and all sorts of nice times.

Sometimes they talked and sometimes they played and sometimes they would sing to themselves and to each other.

There were times, too, when they would tell what had gone on during the long day when people had been shopping and when children had come and gone and come back again.

Many a long talk did they all have and they had so much to tell of what had happened in the daytime. They had so many children they wanted to describe to each other, children some had missed seeing. So this is what happened one evening, and perhaps we may hear of some more things that happened too, later on. But to go on with what happened on this evening, just after the people had left the store.

It was after six o'clock. The great children's store which sold everything anyone could think of—from canary birds to party frocks—was silent and still. All the counters were covered with dark-blue linen covers. Everything, in short, was put away for the night.

Suddenly there came a laughing. All the dresses and gloves and pocket-books and sashes peeped out from their blue coverings and began to laugh too. Just then, flying down the aisles of the store, between the counters, came a fairy.

"It's such a joke, such a joke," she said. "They all think we've gone to rest. Of course I am not a dress, nor am I a sash, but I play with all of you and so I say 'we' in a most friendly manner. To be sure you all do have a rest, later on, for you need it after the day you've had. But for a time we play."

"Oh," said a blue apron, "I had the most awful time today. I just couldn't stretch out. No one seemed to like me much so first I was thrown one way and then another. I thought my poor callous legs and arms would never be smoothed out properly. It was most uncomfortable."

"You have nothing to grumble about," said a party dress from nearby. "You weren't tried on and criticized and tried on again. Oh, my feelings were hurt! Just because some one may want a party dress there is no reason why they should expect the whole world and what every one else ever had on a party dress to go on me, or be on me—whatever you say, I'm not much of a talker."

Feelings Were Hurt.

"My dear party dress," said a gingham dress, peeping from its counter. "You can't talk well for talk comes from the mouth or the throat or both. I've heard that at times it comes from the brain too—where creatures think. But dresses can't make conversation well. No, it's impossible. You haven't a mouth, and you can't work by yourself for you haven't any hands."

"Well," said the fairy, as she hopped upon a counter, "what are we going to play tonight?"

"I don't know," said the gingham dress. "I don't feel much like playing."

"It was at the top of a pile of gingham dresses. Most of the others were sound asleep.

"Neither do I," said the party dress at the top of its pile.

"I don't feel like playing either," said a toy. And from far down the aisle came a splashing sound.

"If I'm to be in the children's department," said one of the goldfishes, "I must play at night too as they do—the dresses, and toys and games and books. But just tonight I don't feel like playing. I wish I were something else."

"That's what I wish," called the gingham dress.

"So do I," said the party dress. "So do we," said a set of dishes. "So do I," said a doll's house.

"I'm angry that things should be unfair," said the gingham dress.

"Yes," said the blue apron. "I know just what the gingham dress means. We haven't given any chances at all. We have to be so plain and we have to be worn for dull things such as dusting or playing in the gardens or something like that. Why can't we go to parties and hear music and see dancing and be danced around ourselves?"

"Do you all request to be something else?" asked the fairy. "Well, I will call the wishing fairy at once and all your wishes will be granted. Yes, they will be high—"

MONKS MADE FIRST PANCAKES

Delicious Comestibles Once Formed
Supper of Holy Men on Eve of Ash Wednesday.

Perhaps you admit ignorance as to knowing how pancakes first came to be produced? Well, the story is very interesting, and worth telling, London Answers says.

Monks were the originators of pancakes. They and are told that on Shrove Tuesday their supper consisted of thin cakes, made in a pan with flour, milk, eggs, fat, lard, etc.—hence pancakes. The idea was to use up all the food-stuffs remaining, which were prohibited on the following day—Ash Wednesday, the commencement of Lent. In the olden days the poor people would gather round various monastery gates, it being the custom for the monks to distribute what pancakes they had left after supper among the hungry slum dwellers.

Shrove-tide, and Shrove Tuesday by the way, were, in the first place, called shrive days. They were so called from the fact that in the Roman Catholic church confessions are then made and received preparatory to the fast of Lent. Shrive, which meant confession, later came to be called Shrove—thus we now get Shrove Sunday and Shrove Tuesday.
