The cleanest, healthiest, most efficient way of cooking that has been devised.

There are many things to appeal to you about an Electric range that we will explain when you call.

FILIPINOS WANT AMERICA TO GIVE INDEPENDENCE

Maximo M. Kalaw Declares U. S. Cannot Consistently Refuse "Self-Determination."

By MAXIMO M. KALAW, Secretary of the Philippine Mission, Author "The Case for the Filipinos," "Self-Government in the Philippines," etc.

Maximo M. Kalaw.

"When they show sufficient capacity," "When they are able to govern themselves," "When they are educated enough." Thus run the answers of many Americans pressed with the question as to when the Filipinos should be granted their independence. Now, "ability," "capacity" and "suitable education"—What do they mean in black and white?

Senator Shogun may think no people is capable of self-government that does not establish the judicial recall, or that has no Billy Sunday. John Smith of Somerville may think no people is capable of self-government that does not vote his democratic ticket, or go to church on Sundays.

"Capacity for self-government" is as broad and elastic as the world, and if that should be the criterion for the granting of Philippine independence, America might as well say to the Filipinos, "I will give you independence when it pleases me to do so."

Fortunately, the American promise to the Philippines is not based on such obscure and abstract conditions. It is based on a definite, tangible thing. When America, through her Congress, officially told the Filipino people that they would be granted their independence as soon as they could establish a stable government, no abstract or obscure condition was meant. Stable government, according to American usage, means a certain, definite thing.

The United States promised the Cubans the same thing, that "when they have established a stable government, then American troops would be withdrawn." As soon as the Cuban people elected a government suited to themselves, capable of maintaining order and fulfilling all international obligations, there was a stable government in Cuba, and American troops were withdrawn.

When Congress passed the Jones law, it simply borrowed the phrase "stable government" from the Cuban history and applied it to the Philippines. The history of Philippine legislation shows that in black and white. With full knowledge of what it meant, the Filipino people accepted the Jones law and immediately began setting up the stable government required by Congress as a pre-requisite to independence. The stable government is now a fact. It is indeed more than that; it is an undisputed fact.

The official representative of the United States in the Philippine Islands, the Governor General, reported to the American Congress and the administration that "the Filipino people have established the stable government demanded by Congress as a pre-requisite for the granting of independence—namely, a government elected by the suffrage of the people, which is supported by the people, which is capable of maintaining order and of fulfilling its international obligations."

no grudge or grievance against the American people. There is a message of friendship and gratitude. They seek independence as the natural and logical outcome of America's policy in the islands and of America's solemn promise to them. They come willing to give privileges and concessions not incompatible with their national welfare.

The Filipino people are willing to accept independence under any of the following conditions: Under a League of Nations, guaranteeing its territorial integrity; under the protectorateship of the United States for the first few years; under a treaty of neutrality between the United States, England, Japan, France and other powers, or even without any condition whatever—absolute and complete independence. They have no fear of Japan. Philippine independence, in our opinion, is not inimical to Japanese interests. The Japanese are now free to come to the Philippines, but at the present time there are less than 10,000 Japanese in the islands. There are six times as many Japanese in California as there are in the entire Philippine Archipelago.

The Filipinos are willing to take their chance as a nation. Smaller nations beset by graver problems and dangers have taken a more hazardous chance at freedom, and have succeeded.

What Dropped.
The dining room of a very exclusive residential hotel. Dinner in full swing. Clatter of knives and forks and the usual buzz of conversation. Suddenly, a crash at one end of the room, a sound of falling dishes. An abrupt pause in the conversation, attention concentrated on the scene of the calamity. Then, suddenly, soaring above a rising murmur of inquiry, one clear voice with the desired information, "Squash, my dear, of all things!"

City Lighting Modern.
Lighting up a whole city at night is quite a modern invention, although illumination was used in some of the ancient cities. Paris and London dispute the priority in the matter of modern street lighting. London claims to have lighted its streets with lanterns as early as 1414, but this contention is disputed. During the sixteenth century lanterns for street lighting were provided at the public cost in Paris.

Natural Inquiry.
Our little four-year-old girl went with me to feed the chickens. The food was quite hot and the chickens drew their bills out quickly. I said: "They ought not put their noses in that hot food." "Have chickens got noses?" she asked. "I told her they had, and her next inquiry was: "Where do they carry their handkerchiefs?"—Exchange.

From the Earth's Infancy.
The perfect state of preservation of organisms which lived untold millions of years ago is shown by Professor Oliver in an archaic type of seed in the lower coal measures of Lancashire. These are only one-fifth of an inch long, but under the microscope their integument is seen to possess ten ribs, which project like little arms.

To The Public
We have purchased the Nyssa Meat Market and will endeavor to uphold the high standard of quality and service this market is noted for. Your continued patronage will be appreciated.

paint right away with
FULLER PAINT
THE life, the value, the beauty of your home, depend on the care you give it. Weather-beaten and warped siding, cracks and open joints are forerunners of decay. Many property owners neglect to look for such signs, judging their houses and buildings by general appearances only. It is good business to make regular inspection of your property, and to use paint of good quality, which is the surest preventive of decay. Through the varying conditions of weather in all their extremes, FULLER Paint has proved both its preserving and beautifying qualities—a Pacific Coast Product for Pacific Coast requirements. 71 years of paint manufacturing experience are back of every brushful of FULLER Paint.
