

Two Pretty Gowns of Voile

ET every woman welcome the printed and striped voiles, gay with wavy patterns, and all other cheerful and unpretentious cottons that may be made up into frocks for summer wear. They add a joy to life with their beautiful colors and furnish inexpensive mediums for every woman's taste. Sometimes humble lawns and ginghams vie with silks and laces and have been known to outshine them on some genius undertook to turn a masterpiece in them. Gradually, inexpensive cottons will return—returning—and this summer will again refreshing afternoon frocks of them. The man who said good looking clothes foster merriment struck at the root of the matter of dress; the desire to look well is an instinct that it is worth while to follow.

The two pretty frocks for afternoon, shown in the illustration above, are samples of fine designing in voile. Although classed among afternoon frocks, such simple and dignified bits of artistry are not inappropriate for morning wear—to church or for visiting. A wide plaited frill and narrow Val lace give the dress with stripes and figures its character. It has a plain blouse with round neck finished with three frills of Val lace and the elbow sleeves have their cuffs edged with this lace. The lace-edged plaited frill extends from the waist line on each side to the bottom of the skirt both front and back. At the sides where the front and back panels of the skirt are separated at the bottom, a glimpse of the under petticoat is revealed having a flounce of narrow Val lace. The girle is of black velvet ribbon.

This dress and its companion reflect the vogue for fuller skirts and widened hips; they are straws showing the direction of fashion's breeze. The model with figured surface has a straight underskirt with overdresses at each side falling to a point at the bottom. The bodice with "V" shaped opening at the front is filled in with dotted Swiss embroidery, and pearl buttons at each side the openings are used as decoration. The three-quarter length sleeves are finished with cuffs of the Swiss embroidery.

Fashion Advises Blouses

NE can go a long way on the road of good dressing with the help of two or three separate skirts and assortment of blouses and smocks, colored and otherwise, with which to give variety. In style they range from the simplest tailored evening affairs, through colorful and smart afternoon types to brilliant and even splendid evening models. A soft satin shirt makes itself very useful for wear with dressier blouses and every wardrobe needs a white shirt of heavy cotton and a tailored skirt of wool. But separate skirts are another story.

The shopper for blouses is sure to be enthusiastic over the display of latest models for summer time and very handsome lingerie blouses for formal wear. The first employ white, dainty, wash silks, voile, dotted Swiss and handkerchief linen, all favorites in fabrics. As there is such latitude in suits, so there is in blouses to be worn with them. Some are severely tailored and others have a hint of severity about them. The dainty tailored blouse has long sleeves and long to tucks, drawn work and narrow edgings for decoration. Under blouses for wear with suits are made of net and lace, or batiste and lace, with considerable needlework and embroidery in their composition. The elbow sleeve finds favor with them.

A handsome smock for afternoon appears in the illustration, made of dark crepe georgette, embroidered in a very original management.

The New Headresses.

Headresses for evening wear grow more and more elaborate. You are likely as not now to have a feather nodding rakishly between you and the center of the stage, at a theater, and though a small feather in the perspective can completely eclipse an actor on the stage—particularly if the feather moves about restlessly—you can hardly ask a lady to remove her headress. It is not done—whatever may be the custom in regard to hats. Some headresses are flat on top, with feathers or bead ornaments over the ears, but a few headresses mount upwards in folds of silver net or tulle and are a real obstacle to enjoyment—if one sits behind them.

Russ Tells of Soviet Horrors

Noted Writer, Just Before Death, Asked U. S. Not to Be Deceived.

LIES ARE SENT BROADCAST

"No Words to Describe Darkness Around Us," Is Assertion of Plea Made by Leonid Andreiev, the Great Novelist.

New York.—"S. O. S." a remarkable literary document by Leonid Andreiev, written by the great Russian novelist and short story writer just before his death recently, has been received in this country by the American Central Committee for Russian Relief, with headquarters in the Hotel Buckingham, New York.

Andreiev's message, like a voice from the dead, describes the blight of bolshevism over his country. Andreiev had been a pacifist, as shown by his play "The Red Laugh," published during the Russo-Japanese war, but he came out strongly for the allies and their cause. His pen was also turned against bolshevism with telling effect.

Appeals to America.

In one paragraph the writer makes a direct appeal to America in these words:

"And you, every individual American—I call to you. You are young and rich, you are broad in spirit and energetic, you desire that the torch of your freedom shall throw its light on distant Europe also—come then and see in what agony we are, in what inhuman servitude our body and our spirit are struggling. If you would but see, I assure you, you would be terrified and you would curse those deceivers and liars who have represented this most evil tyranny to you."

Prisoner Free Too Late to See Dying Brother

New York.—Judge Malone granted permission to Thomas Corcoran, a prisoner in the Tombs, to go to the bedside of his sick brother John, at 259 Park place, Brooklyn. He arrived there in charge of prison guards soon after the death of his brother from pneumonia.

The brothers were arrested March 4 in connection with a safe burglary at the office of James R. Deering, 135 Broadway, in which $95,000 was stolen. Each was committed to the Tombs in default of $10,000 bail. Later John became ill. His bail was reduced to $1,000, which was furnished.

as a break on the part of the whole Russian people for liberty."

Andreiev explains the title of his appeal thus:

"Like a wireless operator on a sinking steamer that through the night and the darkness sends the last call, 'Quickly to our aid. We are sinking. Save our souls,' so also I, moved by my faith in human clemency, throw into the dark space my prayer of perishing human beings. If you but knew how dark the night is around us! There are no words to describe this darkness."

Worse Than Death.

At another point he writes: "It is not assistance for the Russian people that I implore of you. But here are these thousands, 'more or less,' who have but one life, which is but an instant, and who are perishing every hour in unbearable suffering, or who live, but in a way worse than death. It is of no importance that they are called Russians, but it is of importance that these human beings, whose sufferings began so long ago and continue endlessly, continue without a gleam of light, as in

To Fight Under the Fourth Flag

American Airman Ready to Battle With Letts Against Russ Reds.

WINS CITATIONS FROM FRENCH

If Accepted by Letts Twenty-Three-Year-Old Brooklyn Boy Will Have Served Under Four Flags in Four Years.

Warsaw.—Major Joseph C. Stehlin, a twenty-three-year-old aviator of Brooklyn, N. Y., who already has fought in three armies, has gone to Riga to enlist under the Lettish flag in the war against the Russian bolsheviks. If his services are accepted, he will have served under four flags in four years. The colors of France, America, Poland and Lettvia, in turn, have won his allegiance.

Since last fall Major Stehlin has been fighting in the aviation branch of the Polish army, and in that service took part in the Polish drive which threw the bolsheviks out of Dvinsk.

Wins French Citations. Stehlin, who was formerly a life guard at Sheephead bay, Brooklyn, went to France in January, 1917, and joined the French flying corps, where he won two citations and was promoted to be sergeant for aiding fellow

One Child to Family, Professor's Forecast

New York.—The number of children will average less than one to a family two generations hence if the present birth rate decrease continues, according to Dr. Amy Hewes, professor of economics and sociology at Mount Holyoke college.

The cause of the decline was attributed to economic conditions and late marriages. Dr. Hewes suggests as a solution early marriages. She said the obstacle to many marriages might be removed if the woman continued to work after she became a wife.

a real hell, from which malignant, terrible forces rule unchallenged.

"There is still time to shorten their sufferings; there is still time to remove the menace of death from their hands, and it is for the saving of their souls that I send forth my human prayer."

To give assistance to these suffering Russians in non-bolshevik territory the American Central Committee for Russian Relief was formed, with prominent Americans at the head of it. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, is the honorary president; Elmhurst Root, Samuel Gompers, John R. Mott and Cyrus H. McCormick are vice-presidents, Princess Cantacuzene, granddaughter of President Grant, is chairman.

NOISE COST RAILROAD $2,750

Maryland Woman Gets Verdict for Bell Ringing and Car Shifting at Night.

Baltimore.—Mrs. Donald L. Symington of the Green Spring valley received a verdict of $2,750 from a jury in the suit against Walker D. Hine, federal railroad administrator, and the Pennsylvania Railroad company. Mrs. Symington asked for $25,000.

Mrs. Symington charged that the ringing of a big bell, blowing of engine whistles and shifting of cars kept her family awake. Mrs. Symington also contended that a hedge on her property was destroyed and that a portion of her land was used by the company.

DEWS OF EVE

No More Gentle Than "Cascarets" for the Liver, Bowels

It is just as needless as it is dangerous to take violent or nasty cathartics. Nature provides no shock absorbers for your liver and bowels against calomel, harsh pills, sickening oil and salts. Cascarets give quick relief without injury from Constipation, Bileousness, Indigestion, Gases and Sick Headache. Cascarets work while you sleep, removing the toxins, poisons and sour, indigestible waste without griping or inconvenience. Cascarets regulate by strengthening the bowel muscles. They cost so little too.—Adv.

URIC ACID IN MEAT CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a Glass of Salts If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.
