We are hearing a number of fish stories—about the big run over in the Malheur river—but there has been no fish "drifting" down to the Journal yet—though they say a number of Nyssa fishermen have made good catches.

John Landingham, the well known drayman in the city of Ontario for many years has answered the last call. Mr. Landingham is one of the boys of Ontario who has always served the public well and a host of friends all up and down the Snake River Valley will mourn his loss.

The Picture Show

"Is the Sunday Show a Real Asset to Nyssa"

Nyssa has many possibilities as a city of homes and on this it must ultimately depend to a large extent for its growth. It must be the kind of a town to which the retired farmer of a prosperous community moves when the children are nearly grown. When desiring to locate and enter business in a growing town must find there a suitable place for their families.

There are also professional men, such as dentists, in our neighboring towns who have seen in Nyssa a profitable field for their work, but when the question of moving here was mentioned the spoke of the homes, the community spirit, but most of the moral tone of the towns and its schools and churches. For on these institutions must depend the education of the younger people and the development of a moral standard.

The school board with the people behind them are doing splendid work to better our school building, faculty and courses of study offered.

A city of fifteen thousand, which we have just visited, is called the beautiful city of homes, and it is true, as there are no factories there and people are flocking in the city because of its schools, churches, general moral and social conditions and its beauty. And we were not at all surprised to find they do not have shows on Sunday. Both Sunday morning and evening you must go early to church if you wish to get a good seat.

In the discussion of the Sunday shows the words "moral and unmoral" have been used. The first definition in the Standard dictionary, of "moral" is: "Of or pertaining to the practices, conduct, and spirit of men toward God, themselves, and their fellow men, with reference to right and wrong and to obligation to duty." Then can we be truly moral and forget God, or neglect to develop the spiritual side of our nature? One day of seven God has set apart for worship and rest and Sunday is recognized generally as the day.

Recently two men, the first considered an immoral man in his town, the second a good, moral man, made the following remarks: "No, I haven't been inside a church for over twenty years—yes I believe in Christ, and think it is His principles which have kept the world from going to ruin—I believe without any church the country would go bad." The second said "Well, I am no church man * * * but you can't raise kids in a town without a church." "The church even with her faults, is an institution which is trying by mere human agencies to teach the principles Christ gave use and help people to think God's thoughts at least once a week. Can we do less than lend her our aid and support her better, that she may be a growing power for God, in the community?"

The commercialized Sunday motion picture show is intended only for amusement. Does it improve the conduct and spirit of men toward God, themselves, and their fellowmen? If it does not, it is not truly "moral" and has no place in the growing life of our city. If it is a hindrance to the development of the church is it better the community?

I believe in the future of Nyssa and the wonderful country around. Let each do his bit to better her schools, her churches and the general moral tone and condition of the town—make Nyssa a splendidly suitable place for homes. And I also believe that the Sunday show is not helping to make a better Nyssa.

PROHIBITION ACT UPHELD

Supreme Court Rules on Points at Issue on Amendment.

Washington.—Both the federal prohibition amendment and the enforcement act passed by congress were held constitutional by the supreme court.

The court dismissed petitions filed by the state of Rhode Island to have federal officials enjoined from enforcing prohibition in that state.

The court also dismissed injunction proceedings brought by the state of New Jersey to prevent enforcement of prohibition within that state.

The court's opinion was very short, setting forth only the court's conclusions.

Chief Justice White rendered a supplemental opinion concurring in the one rendered by Justice Van Devanter, but going more fully into the issues involved.

BRIEF GENERAL NEWS

The treaty of peace with Hungary was signed in the Grand Trianon palace in Paris Friday.

Owing to illness of U. S. Senator Boise Penrose of Pennsylvania, he will not attend the Chicago convention.

Boston's population is 747,923, an increase of 77,388 or 11.5 per cent over 1910 according to the census report.

Premier Nitti of Italy has made to Jugo-Slavia new compromise proposals intended to solve the Adriatic question.

A mass meeting of supporters of the national prohibition amendment was called in Chicago for the first day of the republican convention.

A commission of three members, one each representing the public, the miners and the operators, was appointed by President Wilson to settle a wage controversy in the anthracite fields.

A bureau of education with a budget of $40,000 to get farmers' problems before the people of the country, was authorized in Chicago by the executive committee of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

British Fire on Turks.

Constantinople.—British warships opened fire on nationalist positions near Toulza on the Sea of Marmora, 38 miles west of Ismid, late Friday night.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Be resolutely and faithfully what you are, be humbly what you aspire to be.

Man's noblest gift to man is his sincerity, for it embraces his integrity also.—Henry Thoreau.

SOMETHING TO EAT.

For those who like the old-fashioned buttermilk soup, the following will appeal:

Mulled Buttermilk.—Take five cups of buttermilk. Stir one tablespoonful of flour with a little of the milk.

add to the buttermilk and cook until boiling hot.

Add sugar, cinnamon or nutmeg to season.

Caraway Bread.—Pour two cups of scalded milk on two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, add two tablespoonfuls of shortening; when lukewarm add one yeast cake dissolved in half a cupful of salt water, then add six cupfuls of rye flour, two tablespoonfuls of caraway seed. Knead, using one and one-half cupfuls of whole wheat flour. Rise and shape in loaves.

Brown Nut Bread.—Take two cupfuls of buttermilk, two cupfuls of Graham flour, one cupful of wheat flour, one-half cupful of molasses, one tablespoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of raisins, one and one-half cupfuls of walnut meats. Mix and bake in a moderate oven.

Kidney Beans With Sour Cream.—Cook the beans as usual. Then add the cream to moisten thoroughly. Place over a slow fire and simmer one hour. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Sauce for Fish.—Sour cream, using half as much of sour cream as grated horseradish; add sugar, salt and a dash of pepper. Serve with fish or boiled beef.

Ham Timbale.—Dissolve a tablespoonful of gelatin in half a cupful of hot water, add two cupfuls of cold boiled ham, chopped. Season with mustard, cayenne, then add one-half cupful of heavy cream, beaten stiff. Turn into a mold, chill, and when molded serve with Lucullus Sauce.—Beat one-half cupful of heavy cream until stiff, add three tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise dressing, two tablespoonfuls of grated horseradish, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, one teaspoonful of made mustard, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a dash of cayenne.

There is no friend like an old friend, Who has shared our morning days, No greeting like his welcome, No homage like his praise.

—Oliver W. Holmes.

THE UNEXPECTED GUEST.

We frequently read of the capable and systematic housewife who, having an unexpected group of friends drop in, goes to her ice chest or pantry and greets a cold fowl, a bunch of celery, a jar of mayonnaise, which she quickly prepares into a most delectable salad. With rolls, cake, coffee and preserves she sets before her guests a most dainty luncheon.

This reads well, but the simple fact is this: preaching isn't sanctioned by practice, for most women in such an emergency do not meet a cold cooked fowl face to face, but a bare cupboard and the necessity of beginning with the flour barrel, rather than well-stocked larder, to prepare a meal.

Anybody, efficient or otherwise, with a well-stocked pantry might prepare an acceptable meal, but the woman who finds a dish of cold potatoes, flanked by a tough and world-weary steak, and still looks out on life cheerfully, is both an optimist and a genius.

To fortify this optimism an emergency shelf is indispensable. Even where the corner grocery is near or the telephone at hand one cannot always provide for an emergency. Each housekeeper will stock her shelf with the foods, accessories and relishes especially adapted to her needs.

A few cans of fish such as salmon, tuna, sardines and lobster, which may be served hot, cold or in salads or in combination with vegetables as a main dish, cans of corn, beans, peas, cans of soup, olives, pickles, a jar of salad dressing, a bottle of nutmegs, with jelly, jams and a package or two of crackers and a jar of cheese. When any food is used it is replaced at the earliest opportunity, so that the supply will always be full for the chance guest.

Two or three kinds of cookies stored in air-tight jars will keep for a long time. A few cookies with a dish of fruit, a cup of tea or coffee is a dessert which is sufficiently satisfying for the most exacting.

The fortunate ones who live in the country and have plenty of milk, cream, butter and eggs, find it easy to prepare delicious dishes in short order.

The White Deer of Cozac Forest

In the Cozac forest in Glen Cannieby, Inverness, Scotland, a white fawn has recently made an appearance in a herd of red deer. The animal has been observed closely through a telescope, and is said to be pure white with the exception of a slight bluish mark on the neck.

Just as Good.

Bobby, just home from his first visit to the country, was telling the folks of his wonders. "And say, ma," he said, "out on the farm they get milk from cows, and it's just as good as any."

OREGON NORMAL SCHOOL

Summer School Information

EXTENSION OF THE OREGON

NORMAL SCHOOL TO BE

HELD AT PENDLETON

FOR SIX WEEKS

BEGINNING JUNE 21, 1920.

Arrangements have been made whereby an extension of the Oregon Normal School will be held at Pendleton for six weeks, beginning June 21, 1920. The faculty will be composed of members of the regular Oregon Normal School Faculty and other excellent instructors.

Special methods in the different subjects for all the grades from one to eight inclusive will be given as well as methods for rural schools.

Those wishing to take the elementary teachers' training course may take the six weeks at Pendleton and then six weeks at Monmouth, beginning Aug. 2, or the full twelve weeks may be taken at Monmouth.

The same credits will be given for work taken as is given in the Summer School at Monmouth.

For information regarding places to live in Pendleton, applicants should write to Supt. H. B. Morrow, the director of the Pendleton Summer School.

If the price and service of the Co-op Store Caldwell was not as good as the best with prices lower than the rest mail orders would cease to come daily from all over the west. Write for price list today.

SERVICE FREE TO FARMER AND LABORERS

New hay is being cut in a number of places over the valley and within a week or ten days men for haying will be in great demand. Do you want a job? Do you want help? Leave word at this office and we will try to help both ways—and this will be done without cost to anybody.
