Danes Re-Export Surplus to U. S.

ra Nelson Morris Tells of Inner Phase of Post-War Commerce.

ARE GREATLY OVERSTOCKED

Ship Goods Back to United States, Add Double Cost of Transportation and Make Hand-some Profit.

New York.—Ira Nelson Morris, United States minister to Sweden, who has returned to the United States for a vacation, is authority for information concerning an odd phase of post-war commerce between this and European countries, and bearing on the high cost of necessities here. He pointed out that after the armistice Denmark had imported from America in such tremendous volume that the country became greatly overstocked.

"Until within the last three or four months," Mr. Morris said, "Denmark was shipping back to the United States the very goods that had been sent from here to Copenhagen and reselling them in America at a profit after having added twice the cost of transatlantic carriage over the original costs.

Lower Freights to Westward. "One reason why it has been profitable to reship to the United States the surplus stores of goods and materials, such as cotton originally received from this country, is that ships arriving in Europe laden with American goods would have had to return with empty holds. The fact that Europe had not enough else to export to America to fill outgoing bottoms caused a reduction in the freight rates to the west. Danish merchants thus engaged reaped a harvest even with the rate of exchange against them.

"Copenhagen, the ambassador said, is ambitious to become the great port of entry for Europe, and to that end is seeking to handle permanently the tonnage that used to go through Bremen and Hamburg. A vast amount of that business is now done in the Danish port."

Scandinavian countries are keen to do business with the United States, said Mr. Morris, and he added that it was advantageous to them and to us too.

"These northern countries need coal and look to America since England placed a ban on coal shipments to Scandinavian countries," he said parenthetically.

Much Pulp Wood in Sweden. "Sweden and England should be able to solve the problem of America's newsprint shortage, for there is an unlimited supply of pulp wood, and only the uncertainty as to the future of the paper market seems to stand in the way of building new mills which would take care of the world's needs," Mr. Morris suggested. Reverting to the British coal situation, he commented: "England has not enough coal for herself and the big liners sailing under the British flag are forced to take two or three days longer to make transatlantic trips because they can cross with less fuel while not running at high speed."

Avalanche of Gold Coin Ruining Switzerland.

Geneva.—Switzerland is being buried in a golden avalanche, according to President Sarasin of the Swiss bank. He says the gold stored in banks has no outlet in Europe, that many industries are at a standstill and the situation is becoming worse. The hotel industry is nearly ruined. M. Sarasin says, because adverse exchange is keeping away tourists. He adds the country lost more than six billion francs by the war.

U-Boat Warfare Was Last Card

Secret Records Just Made Public Show Germany's Bad Plight.

URGED BY PEOPLE AND ARMY

"Things Cannot Get Worse," Declared Von Hindenburg, "The War Must Be Shortened by Every Possible Means."

Berlin.—Secret protocols on the submarine war now made public include an account of the conference held at Pless on January 8 and 9, 1917, between Field Marshal von Hindenburg, General Ludendorff and Admiral von Holtzendorff, and other naval officers. Admiral von Holtzendorff advocated unrestricted U-boat war toward which, he asserted, the German emperor and Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg seemed to be lukewarm. He added that Von Bethmann wanted to make diplomatic preparations in order to keep the United States out of the war and that the foreign office believed that if the United States came in South America was bound to follow.

During the course of the conversation Von Holtzendorff urged that Von Hindenburg become chancellor, the latter repeatedly refusing, saying he could not talk in the reichstag.

War Must Be Shortened. The field marshal finally declared for the U-boat campaign on the basis of war with the United States.

"Things cannot get worse," he said. "The war must be shortened by every possible means."

General Ludendorff agreed with this and Von Holtzendorff continued: "The people and army are crying out for unrestricted U-boat war."

Another document gives an account of the conversation between Field Marshal von Hindenburg, General Ludendorff, and Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg at Pless on January 9, 1917, at which Von Bethmann said: "U-boat war is the last card. It is a very grave decision. If the military authorities regard it as indispensable I am not in a position to deny it."

Armed Against All. Field Marshal von Hindenburg replied: "We are armed against all eventualities; against the United States, Denmark, Holland and Switzerland. We need the most ruthless and energetic action, and therefore unrestricted U-boat war from February 1. The war must end quickly. We could hold on, but our allies could not."

General Ludendorff then further explained how unrestricted U-boat warfare would benefit the army, which, he added, "must be spared another Somme battle." Von Bethmann-Hollweg declared America's aid, if she comes in, "will consist of foodstuffs for England, financial assistance, flying machines and a volunteer army," adding, "We will fix them all right."

Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, in agreeing to adopt the course advocated, said: "And if Switzerland comes in, and the French come through there?" "That would not be favorable from a military point of view," said Von Hindenburg.

Ghost in Cell

Chester, Pa.—Police officers of Ridley Park had their hands full early one morning trying to quiet the nerves of the three negro prisoners charged with burglary. Henry Brooks and his two pals from Richmond, Va., Walter Moore and Joseph Ford. The negroes claimed their slumber was disturbed by the appearance of a ghost in their cell. It set them howling at the top of their voices and so deafening was the noise that the police were compelled to go to their aid and pacify them.

GERMANY IS HIT HARD

Loses Many Millions Through Band of Forgers.

Importers Also Victims of False Trade Permits—Numerous Arrests Made.

Berlin.—Hundreds of millions of marks in revenue have been lost to the German government during the last few months through the wholesale forgery and sale of import permits by gangs of swindlers operating along the western border, says a report printed in Koelnische Zeitung. Among the victims of the forgers are South and Middle German municipalities, industrial concerns and importers of foodstuffs. Although these operations had been going on for some time it was only a few weeks ago that attention was drawn to the swindle and the police began to get on the trail of the crooks. A lively trade in forged export permits has also been unearthed by the police of Berlin and the customs guards at Hamburg and other ports. Most of the false export papers were for the sale of tools and airplane motors to the Scandinavian countries. The principals in this lucrative "business" were largely responsible for their own undoing, as they led such a wild life in the all-night cafes of Berlin, often spending as much as 30,000 marks in an evening, as to attract the attention of the public, and an investigation and their arrest followed.

The false permits were stamped with a clumsy seal resembling that of the national import commissioner, and carried the initials M. R., presumably meant for Meissinger, the former commissioner. The band operating from Duesseldorf sold permits to members of the popular German circle known as the "Schieberbund," i. e., those engaged in underground illicit trade, so it was a case of no honor among thieves. Many of the deals put through by the Duesseldorf forgers amounted to 100,000 marks or more. Other gangs made their headquarters in Mayence and Flensburg. A lively trade in forged export per-

KEEP TROUBLES TO YOURSELF

The World, as a General Thing, Has Little Use for the Man Ad-dicted to Self-Pity.

The trouble with the man in a little trouble is that he is inclined to pity himself and imagine that he is the only man who ever had a trouble. All he can see in the moment of his irritation in his own burden. It seems not to occur to him that at the very moment he is wrestling with his difficulty thousands of people around him are fighting against far greater odds and in much greater danger.

Trouble, anyhow, is a part of the game of life. Nobody ever went anywhere or did anything worth while without meeting it in one form or another. Let others pity you if they will, but don't waste any time pitying yourself. The chances are that your next door neighbor would be tickled to death if such troubles as you have were all he had to worry about.—Exchange.

Mint Coining Gold Again.

For the first time in four years the coining of gold was resumed during May at the Philadelphia mint, the output having been 15,000 double eagles with a value of $300,000. Though working on one shift of eight hours, instead of two, the mint also turned out 8,800,000 pieces of minor coins of the value of $1,427,900. This included 340,000 half-dollars, 2,180,000 quarters, 4,000,000 dimes and 3,330,000 pennies. In addition 11,040,000 pieces of silver and nickel were turned out for the republic of Cuba.

"Well, big folks have to mind just God. I think it's pretty hard on us little ones; we have to mind big folks and God, too."
