"CAVEMAN" STUFF ALL RIGHT

At Least One Indiana Man is Satisfied With the Way It Worked in His Particular Case.

Now, she is a very sarcastic young woman, and the man who wishes to marry her is often much tormented by her ability to say things which make him distinctly uncomfortable. One night one of his friends and he decided to go to a picture house and there they saw a play in which the caveman stuff was exceedingly strong. Evidently that gave the young man an inspiration, for the next cutting remark the young woman made he resented.

He had come to take her for a drive. After getting her safely settled in his car and having placed a large box of candy in her lap he settled down for a pleasant evening. But not long. The young woman could not stand his ease. She deliberately opened her box, took out a bonbon, nibbled at it a minute and then said in icy tones: "Why, this candy is stale."

At first the young man felt inclined to write, but the next minute the caveman stuff of the movie darted into his mind. He did what he thought was a real rough act. He seized that beautiful box of candy and threw it as far as he could.

For a long time there was silence. Then the girl began the conversation. And this time she spoke meekly and in "honed" tones. She is still speaking in the same way whenever she is with him.—Indianapolis News.

MUSHROOMS OF ALL SORTS

Edible and Poisonous, While One Species, Grown in Africa, is Worshipped as a God.

In or about the edges of woods one occasionally comes across an unpleasant-looking umbrella-shaped mushroom with a red or orange-colored top that is covered with a slimy exudation. Now and then, strange to say, people eat it. They die.

Its slime is very attractive to flies. They gather upon it, and they die. In Europe this species of mushroom is used as a substitute for fly-paper.

The horrible-smelling "clathrus" mushroom is believed in France to cause cancer. French people call it the "cancer mushroom." Another species, which grows on olive trees, is so luminous at night that one can see to read by it.

Other kinds of mushrooms are used for making ink, for stanching the flow of blood and (in Lapland) for killing bedbugs. A European species is employed to stupefy bees, and certain "puffballs" are said to have anesthetic properties. Tribes of semi-civilized in northeastern Asia utilize a mushroom for snuff. But most curious of all is the Polyporus sacer, which in Africa is worshipped as a god.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Double Affection.

Elsie was proud and much excited over a pair of new shoes and while talking to a friend could think and talk of nothing else. To get her interested in something else, the woman at whose home she was visiting tried to take her up to an elephant made of teakwood, about a foot high, looking rather real. Baby was much afraid at first, but went nearer trembling as she went along. Finally she put her little hand on his head and, finding him harmless, put both arms around him and gazed out in astonishment and joy: "He loves me—he loves my shoes!"

Such a Good Speller.

A friend called to see me one afternoon and, among other things, asked how my little girl was getting along in school. I was proud to be able to tell her she had just skipped a grade on account of being good in arithmetic and spelling. In the next room Alice was writing a letter to her uncle to tell him of her promotion and just as I finished about her being such a good speller she called: "Mother, I want to say to uncle that you used to call me dumb, but I don't know how to spell yousta."—Chicago Tribune.

LEGION PAYS OFF BIG DEBTS

Organization Disposes of Claims and Interest Amounting to $44,768.60 During Month of April.

Long-standing debts aggregating $33,000 and accrued interest amounting to $11,768.60 were paid off by the American Legion during the month of April, according to a financial statement recently issued by Robert H. Tyndall, national treasurer of the organization.

R. H. TYNDALL.

The statement, which sets forth the financial status of the Legion as of April 30, 1920, marks an important step in the history of the 15-month-old body. It stands as conclusive evidence that the initial expenditure of some $257,000 which the Legion borrowed prior to the Minneapolis convention for use in building up a solid, permanent organization on a firm basis, was wisely made.

"When the idea of a Legion was first conceived and its founders began putting into execution their plans for making it the vast reality it now is," said Mr. Tyndall, "they found they needed money, just as in the case of any new association or enterprise. All business men know that every new enterprise must sustain an initial loss to be liquidated later over a period of time after the body becomes a success.

"To initiate the organization plan, some 200 friends of the Legion individually guaranteed 92 separate loans, aggregating $257,000, secured by their personal notes. The money was borrowed on these notes throughout the country on a basis of apportionment according to federal reserve bank districts. The loan is a legal debt, acknowledged by the Legion at its national convention, and constitutes an ordinary, normal business transaction. The notes bear interest and every penny of interest and principal will be paid off just as fast as our present stable resources warrant.

"Today, the best evidence that the money was wisely expended is found in the fact that the American Legion is definitely established as a completely organized body. That active management of its affairs is in the hands of a national executive committee composed of representatives from every state in the Union shows that the organization is a sound one.

"It is due entirely to the able efforts of those in charge of the early organization work, who raised the money and expended it in a business-like way, that the Legion is now able to pay off these debts in substantial sums.

"National headquarters of the Legion receives no financial support except from dues and sale of emblems, excluding, of course, the $400,000 trust fund given to the Legion by the Y. M. C. A. This money, which probably will be increased to $500,000 after the final audit of the Y. M. C. A. canteen account, will be invested in safe securities pending the formal appointment of the Fletcher American National Bank of Indianapolis as trustee, the executive committee of the Legion having decided that the sum be held in trust for a period of five years. The principal, under this plan, is to be invested and re-invested, the income to be used for the benefit of disabled ex-service men or for work in connection with the National Americanism Commission of the American Legion, the donors having expressed this preference."

NEW HAMPSHIRE IS IN LEAD

Department Shows Gain of 6,000 Members During American Legion Week; Nebraska Second.

In a letter forwarded to all departments of the American Legion recently, Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant, announces that standings of states in the Legion "membership push" will be determined on the basis of returns at national headquarters up to the close of business June 15.

Incomplete reports from various parts of the country indicate that the New Hampshire department with a gain of 6,000 new members during the American Legion week, having so far enrolled the largest percentage of eligibles in its state, is leading all others. Nebraska is second, Massachusetts third and California fourth in the race at present. It is estimated that the grand total of new members gathered in during the entire campaign will be nearly half a million.

Telegrams arriving at national headquarters during the last few days show that in comparatively few instances have all posts in any state reported their totals of new members gained, and it is believed the winning department will not be definitely known until after June 15.

PAID-UP MEMBERSHIP COUNTS

Delegates to Conventions Are Chosen on the Basis of Number in Good Standing.

Figures at National headquarters of the American Legion show a vast number of posts throughout the country have enrolled considerably in excess of their present actual paid-up membership. Delegates from posts to the state conventions, and from states to the national convention are chosen on the basis of paid-up membership, without regard to enrollment.

The state legislature of Massachusetts has enacted a law prohibiting the wearing of the Legion insignia by any save actual bona fide members of the organization, which is construed as barring those whose membership has been allowed to lapse, from enjoying this privilege. Individual Legionnaires are being urged to assist in preventing the wearing of the Legion button by persons who are not paid-up Legion members.

A few state conventions already have been held. The dates of the others, and places where held, are given in the following list:

- Indiana, at Vincennes, June 28 and 29.
- Montana, at Livingston, June 28 and 29.

HAD RUSH OF ORDERS IN MAY

Demand for Memorial Day Supplies Taxed Legion Department; Fourth of July Warning.

"Don't shoot the pianist—he's doing the best he can."

"Treat the undertaker kindly—you may be buried yourself some day."

These, together with various and sundry kindred admonitions might constitute a seemingly appropriate introduction to this pathetic narrative. It deals with the plight of certain distressed individuals at national headquarters of the American Legion. Aside from Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant, who has been swamped so often that he's getting used to it, this unfortunate had to read and answer more telegrams and letters in May than all other members of the headquarters' staff combined. And the reason is this:

Between May 1 and May 25 the following orders, among others, all for delivery by May 30, poured in like a barrage on the emblem division, of which the hero of our tale has charge: 2,158 silk markers, 108 silk United States flags, 128 wool post flags, 90 wool United States flags.

Result, some 3,200 separate and distinct "rush" orders, including almost innumerable demands for buttons, pins, badges, rings, watch-fobs, auto radiator decorations and whatnots.

So, at last in tones that moved his colleagues to tears, the martyr sent out this "S. O. S.":

"Please tell my posts and buddies," he sighed, "that they'll either have to order the stuff they want for July Fourth earlier than they did their Memorial day paraphernalia, or I'll drop dead in the midst of the rush and gum up the whole works. Please tell 'em to have a heart; decide now on what they want and write about it. This will make it possible for the factory to get the orders out on time and save the expenses of 'steep hundred telegrams.'"

False Claims.

WE hope there is no Mother who thinks she can treat her sick baby without calling in a Physician, or with remedies that she uses for herself.

Most Mothers know that Baby requires remedies especially prepared for babies, yet there are some who think that what is good enough for them is good enough for Baby, and it is to these Mothers we appeal to give nothing to their babies that is not specially prepared for babies or recommended by their Physician.

False claims may kill, but false claims can never restore your child.

Children Cry For Mothers Must Use Care.

Why do we so often call your attention to imitations of Fletcher's Castoria? Because it is a baby's medicine and imitations are always dangerous, particularly imitations of a remedy for infants.

Your druggist may not keep an imitation but they are to be found on drug-store shelves. Reliable druggists think only of the welfare of their customers. The other kind only of the greater profit to be made on imitations.

Your own judgment tells you that Fletcher's Castoria having for over thirty years at great expense held up its reputation, must jealously guard it. Then, it follows that this company must use the very best of material. Must employ experts in the selection of the herbs. Must retain skilled chemists in its manufacture.

Your same good judgment must tell you that these irresponsible imitators are trading on your credulity and the reputation built up by Mr. Fletcher, during all these years, for his Castoria.

You Can't Rub It Away; Rheumatism is in the Blood

Liniments Will Never Cure.

If you are afflicted with Rheumatism, why waste time with liniments, lotions and other local applications that never did cure Rheumatism, and never will?

Do not try to rub the pain away. Try the sensible plan of finding the cause of the pain, and go after that. Remove the cause, and you remove the pain. You will never be rid of Rheumatism until you cleanse your blood of the germs that cause the disease. S. S. S. has never had an equal as a blood purifier and scores of sufferers say that it has cleansed their blood of Rheumatism, and removed all trace of the disease from their system.

The Deceiver.

"It was simply heartrending! They were entertaining a party of friends with a cello heard sence. The control had just assured them in the most unmistakable manner that they need fear no ill, when a noise was heard in the basement, and they got a fleeting glimpse of three robbers making off with the last of their liquor. They not only suffered the material loss, but then and there they parted forever with their faith in cello boards."—Kansas City Star.
