Harding's equivocal front porch utterances are stoopefying.

There is no headless party but there are some partyless heads.

The brotherhood of man might prove a success if ever given a trial.

When a man gets rich quick somebody or bodies gets poor quick.

Blood will tell. Senator Harding's pioneer grandfather had a stump for a front porch.

Sure Harding is a progressive. Isn't he trying to progress from the senate to the white house?

Will the "favorite daughter" supplant the "favorite son" in the nomination limelight in 1924?

California's problem is how to be polite to the Japanese and yet show them she does not mean it.

Jack Johnson surrenders and Villa gives himself up. What's the matter with Mexico anyway?

There are five national parties in the field—the democratic, the republican and three third parties.

The 14,000 Washington girls who kept a secret for six weeks are said to be recovering from the strain.

The Greeks claim to have captured the Turkish general staff. Maybe the Turkish army will have better luck hereafter.

How are those farmers who have joined the labor party to keep their cider from working over eight hours a day?

Young Theodore Roosevelt is going to take the stump for Harding. Wonder if the older Teddy would have done so.

Reed and Bryan say they are democrats still, but maybe Cox would prefer them to be still democrats during the campaign.

Enough liquor is being confiscated by the government to cause a considerable reduction in prices if it were all sold in the open market.

Some men love to recall when beer was 5 cent's, with a free lunch thrown in, but they never speak of the days when milk was 5 cents a quart.

Cox wants the United States to "speak in language the world can understand." Does it understand any language but the language of force?

Prof. David Starr Jordan says no important differences separate the two parties. Doesn't he regard possession of the offices as important?

The man who knows least about the history and geography of Europe is the man who talks most positively as to what will be the outcome over there.

Prince Eitel attributed his brother's suicide to "excessive dementia." We suppose "normal dementia" is the kind the other Hohenzollerns have.

HOLD MONEY MATTERS STEADY

To have control of money matters, one must have a reliable record of outgo and income and know the amount of funds at hand at all times.

Such a record is provided by the check stubs in our check books.

On each stub you should make a record of the check, carry the balance on forward from the last stub, add the deposits, deduct the amount of the check, Then you keep a steady line on finances.

Enjoy Your Porch All Winter

Change your screen porch into a delightful sun parlor that you can enjoy all winter. A very little money will do it and will add greatly to the attractiveness of your home.

Now is the time to have this work done so that you will be prepared for the glorious autumn days when it is too "nippy" to stay out in the open and too delightful to remain indoors. Look your porch over, size up its possibilities, and then let us figure the cost of making the alterations for you. Of course this service does not obligate you in any way.

Come in and talk it over with us. We will outline the necessary plans so that the actual work can be done very easily.
