Fame is the scentless sunflower,
With gaudy crown of gold;
But friendship is the breathing rose,
Which sweetens in every fold.

TIMELY TIPS FOR HOUSEWIFE

Of all our food, cheese is the most compact and concentrated. It contains no connective tissue, bones or other waste, so that a pound of cheese is without waste. It is highly nutritive, containing twice as much food value per pound as meat, and is much more economical to buy.

Cheese has been called hard to digest, because being rich it slips down with little mastication and being in hard lumps in the stomach does often cause distress. This same compactness which gives us such valuable food in small compass, makes it harder of digestion unless it is eaten with coarse food, such as dry crackers or vegetables which need good mastication.

Other meat substitutes which will lead variety to the diet are whole wheat, dried beans, peas and lentils, peanuts, walnuts, pecans, eggs, butter, cream, olive oil, milk, macaroni, and rice. Dried fruits as well as fresh are indispensable in a well balanced diet. These foods in various forms and in combinations with others will give a sufficient variety.

Children, when teething and suffering with swollen gums, will be greatly refreshed by cool fruit juice or scraped apple. A worrying baby is often suffering for frequent drinks of pure, cool water. It is well to remember that young children and animals cannot tell us what they need, and often suffer because of the carelessness of those who should be responsible.

Foods which must be denied children should not be placed temptingly before them—a strong reason for having the children eat alone. Their food should be palatable and attractively served. Table manners may be learned very early which will never have to be relearned.

Currents and raisins may be cleaned by rubbing them with flour, then shake it off to remove all dust.

To get the flavor of orange for tea, sauce or for any other dish, rub a cube of sugar over the rind to absorb the essential oil. One orange will furnish flavor for two or three cubes.
