

ANNOUNCEMENT

WE wish to announce right now, just before Christmas, the greatest sweeping reduction sale of the season. We are placing the greater part of our stocks on sale, consisting of Ladies Suits, Ladies Coats and Dresses, Men's Suits, Men's Overcoats, Leather Vests and Mackinaws, many lines of Dress Goods, Flannels, Blankets and all Christmas Goods.

This is not only a readjustment and clearance sale, but also a removal sale before we move into our new quarters that we have been building the past year; which will be by far the most up to date business plant between Portland, Ore., and Boise, Ida., and not wishing to move one single piece of merchandise of broken lines, we are making these reductions.

Look for the hand bills telling of the many lines that have been cut for this special sale. Visit this sale every day until Christmas. It will save you many dollars. Remember the date and until we close Xmas eve.

FRIDAY, THE 10th

MOTORS INSTEAD OF HOMES

Although most Americans did not see it, there was one absolutely certain 100 per cent investment open to them as late as 1916. It was to buy or build a home.

The climbing cost of materials, the striking and slackening in the building trades, the spiral ascent of rents the exactions of landlords and all the other troubles of the housing shortage means nothing to the man who owns his own home. Nor has the satisfaction which is due anything purchase-prone about it. Among the unfortunates who are desperately hunting flats and besieging the legislature and courts for relief he sees multitudes who could buy him on several times, but who preferred to put their money in automobiles and mining stocks instead of a roof.

There is a nomadic streak in the American character and being foot-loose has certain advantages; but just now people are paying the piper. Out of the four million Americans who drive their own automobiles, it is a reasonable guess that not half own their homes. Surplus money has been used to buy the means to move from state to state on holiday jaunts instead of to buy the right to remain in one spot.

The first instinct of the first man was to fill his stomach. The next instinct was to have a roof of his own. The hearthstone was the primitive altar. For its own good the state's every family should have its roots in the earth. Even the nomad tribes had their own tents. Is the American fair to himself or his children when his impulse is to surround himself with every comfort and luxury except the one thing that embraces all—the four walls of a home?—New York Mail.
