NEWS FROM ADRIAN

Ashton Riley was talking with old friends and neighbors in Adrian and vicinity Wednesday. He reported that a big dance was being given at their home on Succor Creek Thanksgiving evening.

After a long pause, the neighboring farmers are again hauling grain for shipment.

Mrs. J. O. Bernard was shopping in Adrian Friday. She mentioned that Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johnston have christened their new daughter Marguerite Elizabeth.

A special dance was given at the park Monday evening. Music was rendered by the Marlor's Melody Synopaters, of Salt Lake City. Not as large a crowd attended as was expected. However, we hope to do better next time.

We hear many complaints about the bad, windy weather which has caused people to draw their coats a little closer about them. It had a great frolic in Pomeroy's barnyard, tipping a new hay rack over. We are very sorry to report the Come family on the sick list this week.

Mrs. Susie Pomeroy, Mrs. R. McCreary, Thelma McCreary and Clarence Elliott motored to Wilder Thanksgiving, partaking of a lovely dinner given at Mrs. Susie Pomeroy's home. After dinner they attended the moving picture "The Silver Horde", returning to the Big Bend park for the dance in the evening.

Thelma McCreary had the misfortune to lose a valuable sheep which strayed into a passing band. As they stopped for pasture in the Arena Valley, some hopes are still had that the property may be found.

Robert Wade and Web Otis spent Thanksgiving Day together. A lovely dinner was cooked by Mr. Otis.

Two bands of Mendota's woolies are feeding on some of the Greeling hay on the Greeling ranch at present.

Elsie Elliott spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents in Kingman Colony.

Mr. Van Petten and son, Paul, were looking over the lumber yard in Adrian Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Watson passed through town Monday enroute for Owyhee from points beyond Jordan Valley where they have been camping since July.

Mrs. We E. Edwards and children motored into Adrian to do some trading Monday.

Embrey Maxwell and wife were Adrian visitors one day this week.

Mrs. D. T. Holly received a telephone from her mother in Rome, Ore. that her mother was ill and wanted her to come at once. Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Holly left Tuesday morning to bring her mother, Mrs. Anderson, home with them.

Clark Inos and Len Holly took the third degree in the A. F. & A. M. in Nyssa Monday night.

Be a booster; trade at home—your home town.
