The man who's always looking back sees his finish.

The radio has effectively dispensed with "Are there any questions?"

Most of the girl's costume used to be a mystery; now it is a mist.

Racing balloons have at least one quality the comforts of home—radio.

Since 1914 very few people have had the rock the boat for excitement.

Stricken Europe is doing what it can to find compensation in the American tourist.

We will at least admit that there ought to be some age limit for the J. air bobs.

The saddest sight on earth is a one-armed man trying to tell about a fish which got away.

With those Greek cabinets resigning regularly, the loss on official stationery must be enormous.

These are ticklish times for the young lady with bare knees and a fringe on her dress.

About the only way a bridegroom can become famous is by forgetting to attend the wedding.

In some circles, slang is no longer a convenient enrichment of the language but a new dialect.

The statement that "jazz is in its infancy" is discouraging when you recall that only the good die young.

Estonia has been sending communists to prison. It appears that Trot-sky is much misunderstood in Estonia.

Work is said to be a cure for unrest, but some of the most restful persons we have ever seen avoid work most consistently.

Now comes the season when the Monday morning newspapers are chronicles of the woes of the Sunday merry-makers.

A sticky fly paper that will catch rats has been invented. Maybe it's a good thing, but if you start using it, watch your step.

The French newspapers are pouring Russian oil on the troubled waters of European diplomacy. And you know how soothing that is.

When a man has a house full of grown daughters, he generally has to bid farewell to onions, except when he dines out in company.

How the old world has changed!
Here Europe is sitting in conference and in the reports one never sees the "king" or "MY government."

A character expert lectured on "how to pick a mate," but that is one subject on which every unattached person wishes to be his own expert.

When a minister says there is no hell and his parish immediately cuts him off from the salary list, then he knows he has been mistaken.

This is the season when it is possible to size up your neighbor's general view of life by noticing whether he goes out to hunt wild flowers or greens.

That doctor who says that spring fever is a real disease may be right but the trouble is to make the man who pays your wages believe it.

Lloyd George wants an answer to his questions from the Russians "in plain language," but will he be any wiser if they reply in plain Russian?

Mars must be feeling a bit like the old-time western cowboy who lamented that "men who used to shoot at sight now just sit around and talk."

Motion pictures by radio are now

A fashion note says that earrings nine inches long have made their appearance in London. They might be handy as portable aerials for a radio set.

A Washington paper tells us that each cubic yard of air contains 300, 000,000 particles of dust. Count your air, and if it goes beyond that figure, clean up.

Jack Dempsey tells a listening world that King George and the rest of the royal family of Great Britain are "nice looking people." Always the diplomat!

When one reads of the crowds which gathered around the champion marbles shooters in that New York contest one realizes that this is not a very serious-minded world.

Dr. Brady says it may be the carbon monoxide and not the nicotine that causes most of the harm to smokers.
Why take all the joy and poetry out of humanity's little vices?

The girl who won a five hundred dollar gown by writing a prize essay telling "How I dress on fifty dollars a year" ought to take up romance making as a regular business.

The story that the soviet authorities have removed vast treasures in gold, silver and precious stones from the churches causes us to wonder how they happened to remain there so long

MALHEUR

B. G. Faust of Unity has been here the past week putting in a weir for the Eastern Oregon Land Co. at the Morfitt ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. George Eddy and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Woodcock took two loads of turkeys to Baker for the market last week.

Mrs. Mary Smith of Beulah arrived here Saturday on an extended visit with her daughter Mrs. W. C.
Morfitt and family.

R. W. Worsham and F. W. Warren were business visitors here from Hereford Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Rutherford made a business trip to Ontario the last of the week. Their children Vada and Fred who are attending school there, accompanied them home for a week's visit.

Miss Vaa Morfitt spent the week end in Baker.

Seems to Be Nature's Law.

You can't keep a dead level long. If you burn everything down flat to make it. Why, bless your soul, if all the cities of the world were reduced to ashes, you'd have a new set of hills
