Labor Day

Civilization was not built by the indolent or shiftless—it took hard work—consistent effort. Nature intended that all of us should work and arranged that all the great rewards of life should come through labor.

The price of life, health, happiness and success—is work.

Most men work—they earn the rewards of life—but many do not enjoy them. The finest rewards are won through THRIFT.

Ad thrift to your work and enjoy the fruits of your labor.

Today we pay tribute to the men who work. But every day we pay tribute to the men who have also saved.

Remember the Small Things.

It is easy to talk glibly of serving humanity and to forget to pass the salt to the man who sits next us at table, to think of placing our lives at a world's disposal and neglect the small attentions which mean so much to our own home.—Henry Sloane Coffin.

Added Percentages.

A 50 per cent increase for an article that costs $1 would make it cost $1.50. But for the article that has doubled in price the new price is 200 per cent of the old.

The medical profession as a whole suffers in prestige just to the extent it permits an alienist to make a monkey of it to save a millionaire murderer.
