Improving on History

I just finished hearing a Politician, one of the Washington Boys, talk on Abraham Lincoln. The only thing I could picture in common between him and Lincoln was that they had both been in Washington. When a Politician aint talking about himself he is talking about Lincoln. Lincoln has had more Public men speak of his good qualities, and fewer copy any of them, than any man America ever produced. His famous address was only about two hundred words long. No Politician has ever been able to even copy his briefness. In fact that is the last one of his qualities that they would try to copy. Lincoln said more in those 200 words than has been said in the entire City of Washington in the last 10 years, and here is a quality that no historian or speaker has ever brought out before. At the completion of the Gettysburg speech, he wisely refused one of Grant's Cigars, and borrowed a sack of "Bull" Durham from an Ex Southern private, rolled his own, got on his Mule and went back to Washington.

We have as yet received no satisfactory answer as to where Elijah went when he left on his memorable trip. It was thought at the time that his destination was heaven, but since then John has stated positively that no man has ever ascended to heaven except Christ, so the writer of II Kings must have been mistaken. A couple of good Methodist brethren have given us their views on the matter orally, evidently not caring to commit themselves in writing. Neither, however, was convincing. One stated that Elijah went to heaven, but that he went as a "glorified being" and not as a man, hence there is no contradiction with John's statement. This is, of course, merely a gratuitous assumption. There is nothing in the heavens above, nor in the earth beneath, nor in the waters under the earth that warrants such an explanation—except the desire to harmonize a contradiction. It is a splendid illustration of the large part which "private interpretation" plays in harmonizing the many contradictions of the Bible. The Bible distinctly states that the Scriptures are not of private interpretation, and severely condemns those who would add to or take from them, yet this is one of the most popular indoor sports of those who contend for the infallibility of the Bible. In his explanation, the good brother evidently forgets that Christ also ascended to heaven as a glorified being, yet John refers to him as a MAN when he ascended. Surely if he was a man, so was Elijah.

The other brother, who is a teacher of a Bible class, said he was not concerned as to where Elijah went so much as to where he was going. Here we have a perfect example of "begging the question." He is emulating the example of the foolish ostrich which, upon the approach of danger, sticks its head in the sand and fondly imagines it is safe. Although a teacher of the Bible, he disregards the biblical injunction to "prove all things and hold fast that which is good." If he believes the Bible is infallible he should be willing and able to give a reason for the faith that in him is. One would be justified in questioning the efficiency of a teacher who takes this attitude toward questions affecting the foundations of his faith. He would seem to be in a class with the foolish man, referred to in the Scriptures, who built his house upon the sand. His religious faith is founded largely upon his belief in the infallibility of the Scriptures, yet he refuses to discuss the question. Is it a case of the blind leading the blind?

Dispairing of getting any information regarding the question of where Elijah went we have decided to give it up, temporarily at least. We had based great hopes on our theological expert, thinking he would surely be able to throw some light on the subject, but he reported this week that he was unable to do so; in fact, he confessed that he was completely baffled. So we have decided to again take up the subject of the flood.

In Genesis 7:20 we learn that "Fifteen cubits upward did the waters prevail; AND THE MOUNTAINS WERE COVERED." That latter clause is a little bewildering. We find by turning to the table of long measure in the back of the Bible that a cubit equals a little less than two feet, hence the flood rose upward to a depth of less than 30 feet, yet the writer of Genesis states that the high mountains were all covered, including Mt. Ararat, which is several thousand feet high and is popularly believed to have been the resting place of the ark. The question bothering us is, how did the ark get to the top of Mt. Ararat if the flood only rose to a depth of 30 feet? Perhaps the Bible class can throw some light on the question.

Owyhee

The Owyhee correspondent has been sick and could not act as reporter the past few weeks.

Many changes are being made in the neighborhood, this being a community with several tenants.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott will leave to make their home in Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. DeGoede started Monday for their home in Utah.

The Evans family are planning to move to near Weiser, Idaho.

The Hite family have moved to Ontario.

Much complaining of flu is heard in the land.

Mr. Brown, who lives with his daughter, Mrs. Silas Bigelow, has been quite sick for a week.

Mrs. Tom Lowe is now happy that her finger is getting well. A horse jerked the rein through her hand, tearing the flesh and dislocating a joint. The finger was so badly swollen that her wedding ring had to be filed in two places to remove it.

The DeBords of Payette, who moved from Owyhee last spring, spent Sunday with the Klingback family.

Kenneth McDonald is living with his aunt, Mrs. DeBord, and attending school in Payette this winter.

Three cars of high school students are driven each morning to the Nyssa school from Owyhee voting precinct, two from Klingman school and one from Owyhee school.

Clarence Nesbitt of New Plymouth spent the day with the Lowes. Mr. Nesbitt attended O. A. C. and was a classmate there of Julian Lowe. They also graduated from the same class in the Payette high school.

An unusual number of people from various sections spent Sunday at the Mitchell Suite Hot Springs.

Our school is progressing nicely. The teachers are housekeeping in a small house on the Bielow lawn. The teachers are Miss Everett and Miss Stewart, graduates of Ontario high school.

Our P. T. A. Circle finds itself without a president or vice president for the coming year, both having moved away.

Later—Election of P. T. A. officers resulted as follows:
 Mrs. Fred Klingback, president.
 Mrs. Chas. Fisher, vice president.
 Mrs. Beale Ruft, secretary.
 Mrs. Flora Lowe, treasurer.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Robt. Elliott, retiring president. Hereafter the meetings will be held Thursday evenings at the homes of members.

Chas. F. F. Smith and Harry Evans are spending a few days in Weiser on business.

Rev. Bruce Farrington of Roswell took dinner at the Evans home Thursday.

Mrs. Alvia McGinnis is very sick with typhoid fever, in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith.

Mrs. Frank Fry was elected delegate to the Parent Teacher state convention in Portland October 27-30. Mrs. Kester, the state vice president, will attend in her capacity as state officer.

The month of September has been "visitor's month" at the Lowe home.

Mrs. Stewart and children, who had not visited there in 18 years, returned home after a week's pleasant visit, and the day after their departure Mrs. Lampkins arrived. Mrs. Lampkins is from Prague, Oklahoma. She and Tom Lowe were schoolmates more than 40 years ago in old "Mizoo," so this was a very pleasant surprise to the Lowes. Next to Oklahoma Mrs. Lampkins favors Malheur county.

Mrs. Lampkins' visit had not finished when Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Morris of Kansas City arrived. Mr. Morris is Mrs. Lowe's cousin. The families had not seen each other for 26 years. The Morris are on their way to Kansas City, having been traveling over the West a year. They spent last winter in the warmer part of the West.

Mrs. Kester, vice president of the state P. T. A., spent the day and night at the Lowe's Friday.

Mrs. Gruesing, president of the county P. T. A., was an all day visitor at the Lowe's Saturday.

Entirely Satisfactory
 Mr. Brown looked up from his evening paper as his wife entered triumphantly. There was a smile on her face that he knew from long experience in dictated time well spent. "Well, my dear," said he, "did you have a pleasant day?" Mrs. Brown's smile broadened. "Yes, rather," she answered. "I made three friends of enemies and three enemies of friends."

BANKERS HELP

The banks of Linn County Oregon, are showing more enthusiasm than ever this year in behalf of a county corn exhibit similar to that held last year at the Linn County Fair. Last year's exhibit was the result of a contest for a prize offered by a number of local banks. This was so successful that this year ten out of the eleven banks in the county will subscribe to the effort.

The Agricultural Committee of the Alabama Bankers Association has recommended that a scholarship fund be established for the education of worthy young men and women along agricultural and home economics lines. It is estimated that if each bank in the state were to contribute 25 cents per thousand capital, five to six thousand dollars per annum would be realized.

The Agricultural Committee of the Oklahoma Bankers Association, in its report, recommends that the bankers see that a competent agent is appointed in each county and that he has a degree from some agricultural college. They believe that the agricultural possibilities of the state should be better advertised and that each county bankers association should do some work along that line.

Searcy County Bankers Association, Arkansas, entertained as its guests recently some seventy-five farmers and business men. The result was the organization of the North Central Arkansas Agricultural Association. Its purpose will be to co-ordinate the efforts of the farmers and business men in promoting a better agriculture. Searcy County bankers are giving 100 settings of purebred eggs for distribution to the boys' and girls' clubs in the county.

H. S. Mowrer, chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the New Jersey Bankers Association, together with H. J. Baker, director of extension work in the College of Agriculture, made a complete tour of the state this spring, calling on the county agents and agricultural committees of the various county organizations to get a definite line-up on the work done and the plans for the coming year. Ways and means for furthering the program of the state committee were considered at these conferences.

Small Vexations
 All the little vexations of life have their use as a part of our moral discipline. They afford the best trial of character. Many a man who could bow with resignation, if told that he was to die, is thrown off his guard and out of temper by the slightest opposition to his opinions or his projects.

Many Already Have Them
 After all, it's a good thing that charity died out. Men might be expected to offer women their jobs.—Akron Beacon-Journal.

Superstition Explained
 The superstition that it is bad luck to take three lights from one match originated in the Russian Orthodox church, where it was customary to light three candles with one taper at funerals. This led to the practice being associated with death.
