TALKING HONEY

The uses of honey are so many and so varied that even a beekeeper is astonished at the size of the list. A glance through the government bulletins on the uses of honey in the home and elsewhere discloses recipes for the following, which does not at all exhaust the list.

Formulas for four kinds of cough syrup, one each for colds, tooth paste, freckles, salve, softer for the hands, honey soap, chapped hands, cold cream, polish for kid shoes, water proofing for leather. More than 100 recipes are given for honey candy and honey cookery.

For a tickling cough nothing gives quicker relief than a mixture of honey and lemon juice. Taken as often as the cough is troublesome.

Honey is beneficial in a number of diseases, also, but as I am a beekeeper and not a doctor, I am not going to try to prescribe for the sick when I don't know how.

Honey isn't a luxury. It is cheaper than good jam and preserves, not more expensive than good syrups, and is far more healthful than any kind of syrup except pure maple syrup, and ought to be found in every home, the same as milk, eggs and butter and other staple foods. Good honey, too, is well worth the slight difference in price over an inferior article which is sometimes bought because the cost is less.

Sometime when you are making layer cake try a filling made of one part granulated honey and two parts finely chopped nuts. (The proportion may be changed to suit.) Spread between the layers as you would other filling.

Nyssa Defeats Brogan

Nyssa easily defeated Brogan last Sunday by the score of 26 to 7. The boys fattened their batting average off the delivery of four Brogan pitchers, while the Brogan players got only 7 scattered hits off Rambaud and Green. Seryoss led in the hitting, with 4 hits out of 5 times at the bat, and Diven and Hoxie each collected 3 hits out of 6 times at the bat.

This leaves Nyssa and Fruitland tied for first place, with New Plymouth in second place. The next two games will decide the championship. Nyssa plays New Plymouth next Sunday at New Plymouth in what promises to be a battle. If Nyssa wins New Plymouth is definitely out of the race, but if Nyssa loses she will still have a chance by defeating Fruitland here the following Sunday, which would leave all three tied for first place, with 8 wins and two losses.

Plymouth feels confident that Grabner can set the Nyssa jugglers back, but the locals have hit him before and don't anticipate having trouble doing it again. But which ever way it goes it is bound to be a real ball game.
