Motive of Advice

Vanity is so frequently the apparent motive of advice that we, for the most part, summon our powers to oppose it without any very accurate inquiry whether it is right.—Samuel Johnson.

Jerusalem in History

Jerusalem exists today, but the ancient city of Jerusalem was finally destroyed in its siege and capture by Titus in 70 A. D. Modern Jerusalem was planned 60 years later, although little is known of its history before the time of Constantine the Great.

HAYNES, the Homemaker

Two Varieties

The Man With an Artistic Soul—Were all the people you met there artistic?
 Sweet Young Thing—Some of them were, but some were quite nice.

The Graver Crime

State's Attorney—Do you think we can convict him for that bank job?
 Assistant—No, but I think we can get him for running past that stop signal after the robbery.

RESULT OF A STRIKE

Autosist—"What caused the great fire?"
 Civillan—"It was the result of a strike in the match factory."

Idealization

My candidate is honest, good and true and very generous and kind.
 I seldom meet him, I confide to you I make him up from my own mind.

More Graft

"So Binks has a new money-making scheme. What is it this time?"
 "He plans getting the checking concession for hats in the political ring."

Notions for Him

Applicant—I have a world of imagination, sir, and—
 The Boss—Fine! I'll put you to work at the notions counter!

Comfort

John—Did you bathe much while you were down South?
 Mae—Yes, but when it was too hot and stuffy to put on a bathing suit we just lounged in our ordinary things.

In the Suburbs

"That's my place you see over there—the house and the garage close by."
 "Which is the garage, old man?"

SCARCELY THE SAME

She—Didn't you say her acting was just lovely?
 He—No—I said she was a lovely actress.

Not Properly Preserved

Their acquaintance ripened into love and then, alas, it got quite over-ripe; at least there came a time when it seemed all rot.

The Why of It

"What is life insurance, little Gage?"
 "It's keeping a man poor all his life so's he can die rich."

Great

First Lawyer—Our client is reaching for his pocketbook.
 Second Lawyer—Yes, that's a notion for a new trial.

We Deceive Ourselves

We escape from the bewildering multiplicity of specific phenomena into the deceptive regularity of scientific systems, from the harassing riddles of infinity into the towering symbols of the divine; and thus we constantly seek to turn away from the chaotic truth and we take flight into the deceptive solace of a world which we arrange to suit ourselves.—Arthur Schnitzler in Vanity Fair Magazine.

Ixion

According to the mythology of the Greeks, Ixion was the king of a tribe in Thessaly until he was made insane because he had murdered his father-in-law. Zeus later cured him and allowed him to live in Olympus. It was not long, however, until he fell in love with Hera, the wife of Zeus, who, finding out all about it, tied Ixion to a fiery wheel and left him spinning.
