Politics makes strange bed-fellows. In this issue we see R. J. Davis, a lifelong democrat, born in the south, issuing a challenge to debate against the democratic candidate for president. Political ties are weaker this campaign than ever before, probably, and politicians of both parties are "up in the air" as to how the voters are going to behave. The battle will be decided very largely on the merits of the candidates and issues and very little by party lines.

The scientific expedition under the direction of Roy Chapman Andrews has discovered the remains of an animal which it is claimed was approximately 800 feet in length. They must have made nice little playmates for the rest of the animals on board the ark and probably found their quarters rather snug.

Hal E. Hoss of Oregon City will be appointed by Gov. L. L. Paterson shortly to serve as secretary of state, filling the unexpired term of Sam A. Kozar, who is resigning to take over new duties as director of the state budget. The change in state officials is set for Monday, September 24, and Mr. Hoss will serve by appointment of the governor until January 7, 1929, the end of the time for which Mr. Kozar has been elected.

Mr. Hoss is the republican nominee for the office of secretary of state, winning in the primaries by a wide margin over H. H. Corey and Tom B. Handley. Prior to entering the race for the election as secretary of state, Mr. Hoss served as private secretary to Governor Paterson and before that was manager of the Morning Enterprise, published at Oregon City. He has been active in newspaper organization work, and has held a number of offices in publishers' associations.
