TURKEY UNIT IS STARTED BY O. S. C.

With Oregon becoming more important as a turkey producing state each year, a demand from growers for research in turkey disease control and production methods has arisen which is now being partially answered by the establishment of a turkey unit on the Umatilla branch experiment station at Hermiston.

Farmers in the Hermiston reclamation district have increased their turkey production to about 15,000 to 18,000 marketable birds annually, and thus far have been rather successful with simple production methods, though problems are arising.

"The opinion is growing that we are riding to a fall with our plan of ranging turkeys freely over the farms," explained H. K. Dean, superintendent of the branch station, in telling of his new plans. The disease problem is the most important with any poultry, and sanitation is the chief factor in disease control.

"By ranging the birds unrestricted soon the entire farm will be contaminated and then any outbreaks of disease will be almost beyond control with present methods. We have started our turkey unit under a strict confinement method as an experiment."

The station this spring purchased 250 poults and placed them on alfalfa in an area some 60x150 feet. They have been moved to fresh ground about every month since, thus providing them with abundant green feed. The soil once covered is not to be used again for turkeys for three years.

Thus far the turkeys have developed well and uniformly with minor losses. The plan is being watched with interest by turkey raisers and a few have already adopted it as giving the best promise of success.

NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH

The prosecuting attorney had encountered a rather difficult witness. At length, exasperated by the man's evasive answers, he asked him whether he was acquainted with any of the jury.

"Yes, sir," replied the witness. "More than half of them."

"Are you willing to swear that you know more than half of them?" demanded the man of law.

The other thought quickly.

"If it comes to that," he replied, "I am willing to swear that I know more than all of 'em put together!"

Girl-Motorist Freak

Kidder—I think we should hasten to sign this girl motorist for our freak circus.

Knapper—Why so?

Kidder—Well, she testified she extended her arm for half a block.

Cause of Notes

Jim—I've never had so many notes from a girl in my life.

Bill—You must remember that Clara Nettie Horn is a musician's daughter, Jim.

Total Loss

Blinks—That fat old hen spends a lot of money on her clothes.

Jinks—Yes, but she is like some salads—not even the dressing improves her.

No Road Map

"Do you know where you are?" demanded the tourist's wife.

"No," he admitted, "I'm as lost as the average American is when he starts on the third verse of the national anthem."

Ring That Bell!

"I hear you rode on the cowcatcher of a locomotive once. I bet you were scared."

"You bet. I didn't know what minute I was going to be hit by an auto."

Down to Brass Tacks

Howell—All's not gold that glisters.

Powell—You seem to be getting down to brass tacks.

Definition

Incompatibility of temperament is when a man holds a different opinion from his wife.

Nature's Beauty

There is nothing so wonderful in any particular landscape as the necessity of being beautiful under which every landscape lies. Nature cannot be surprised in undress. Beauty runs everywhere.—Emerson.

Delight in Occupation

One of the desirable conditions in any walk of life is lots to do. That paraphrase of the name of Lief the Lucky, into Lief the Lucky, isn't so. There's no luck in idleness.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A New Study

Every woman should earnestly seek pleasant and profitable methods of using the extra hours placed at her command by modern household conveniences. — Woman's Home Companion.

'Tis Hard to Understand

Jud Tunkins says he has never understood why some of these authors who write great detective stories don't get kindhearted once in awhile and lend a helping hand to the police.—Washington Star.

Baseball's Beginning

Baseball began officially with the organization of the Knickerbocker club 15 September, 1845, and the first baseball match ever played took place between rival nines selected by that club at Hoboken, N. J., June 19, 1846. At the end of four innings, the leading nine had made the requisite 21 runs and were declared winners.
