

A DOCTOR'S ADVICE for Stubborn Bowels

"Drink at least six glasses of water daily—preferably before meals. Eat bulkier foods, such as vegetables, fruits and coarse breads. Use a mild laxative as needed."

That is Dr. Caldwell's advice to people with stubborn bowels. He specializes on the bowels; treated thousands for constipation and its ills. The prescription he used over and over in his practice has become the world's most popular laxative! "Syrup Pepsin," as it is now called, was tested by more than 47 years of practice.

Today you can get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore in America. It is always the same; made exactly according to the original prescription, from laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other valuable ingredients. Nothing in it to harm even a baby. It does not grip, sicken or cause any discomfort. But it moves the bowels; it gets rid of all the souring waste which clogs the system; makes you bilious, headachy, gassy, bloated, weak, half-sick. A doctor should know what is best for the bowels. Syrup Pepsin is a famous doctor's choice of a safe, pleasant, effective laxative for men, women, older folks, babies and children.

Rooster "Firebug"

A Brunswick (Maine) farmer has a firebug on his farm in the form of a rooster. He reports that while on the way to the barn he smoked a cigarette and placed the lighted end on a well curb before entering the barn. A moment later the rooster entered the barn with the cigarette, still burning, in his beak. The farmer shouted and as the rooster turned and ran it dropped the cigarette into chaff, which burst into flames. The blaze was stamped out before it had spread far.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

by Mary Graham Bonner

THE NIGHT FAIRIES

"I think," said old Mr. Moon, "that I will take a rest tonight. I'd like to go back of the clouds and have a chat with some of my friends."

"I do believe I won't do any shining at all."

"Now, that's fine," said the bats, as they saw that the moon had gone behind a dark cloud.

"What a black, black night it is," said the earth people, but the little bats flying overhead were very happy.

Sometimes they would fly near the people as they were sitting on their piazzas and porches, for it was a very warm night—warm weather had come to pay a visit ahead of time.

How the bats would laugh when the people acted afraid of them.

They wouldn't have hurt any of the people for anything, so they thought it Played Their Instruments.

was funny that the people were foolish and nervous.

"Hello, hello, hello," called out some voices.

"Hello, hello, hello," said the bats.

"May we join the fun?" asked the voices.

"Indeed yes," said the bats.

And from all around, the Night Fairies came to join the bats. They wore dark, flowing robes and black crowns on their heads.

"Oh," said the bats, "how wonderfully you do look. And you don't hurt our eyes. You are so dark."

"We can see you perfectly."

The night fairies laughed, and their laughter joined in the early warm breeze, so that the people on the earth said:

"Listen to the warm breeze singing with the trees."

Of course it was really because of the voices of the night fairies.

They were singing with the breeze and the trees.

"We knew you'd like us to wear dark robes and dark crowns," said the fairies.

"We knew then you'd see us better. And we have on our magic night glasses so we can see everything clearly, even though it is so dark."

Then the ball began. The fairies sang and they played their fairyland instruments.

The bats danced and flew about this way, and that.

Sometimes they would do silly, dangerous things, such as flying in a room where they saw a light.

Even though they hate light, still sometimes it blinds them in such a way that they cannot get out into the darkness once they have gone into the place where there is a light.

So if a bat ever comes into your room, open the windows wide and turn off the lights. Then he will fly out into the cool darkness again and be safe and happy.

Just have a little patience and the bat will always do this.

And then you can say to yourself after the bat has flown away:

"He has gone back to the ball given by the bats and the night fairies."

The Game of Volume

Here is a new kind of Blind Man's Buff for the playground.

One player is blindfolded, and the others distribute themselves about the playground. The blind man advances, feeling all around him as he comes; and when at last he touches a player that player starts clapping softly, and continues to do so until the end of the game.

The blind man tries to avoid the players who are clapping. He passes on, finding one player after another until all are clapping, and then the game is over.

If he comes very near to a player who is already clapping, that player suddenly starts clapping very loudly to warn him that he has been "found" already. If, in spite of such warning, the blind man touches him he is "out," and that player takes his place.

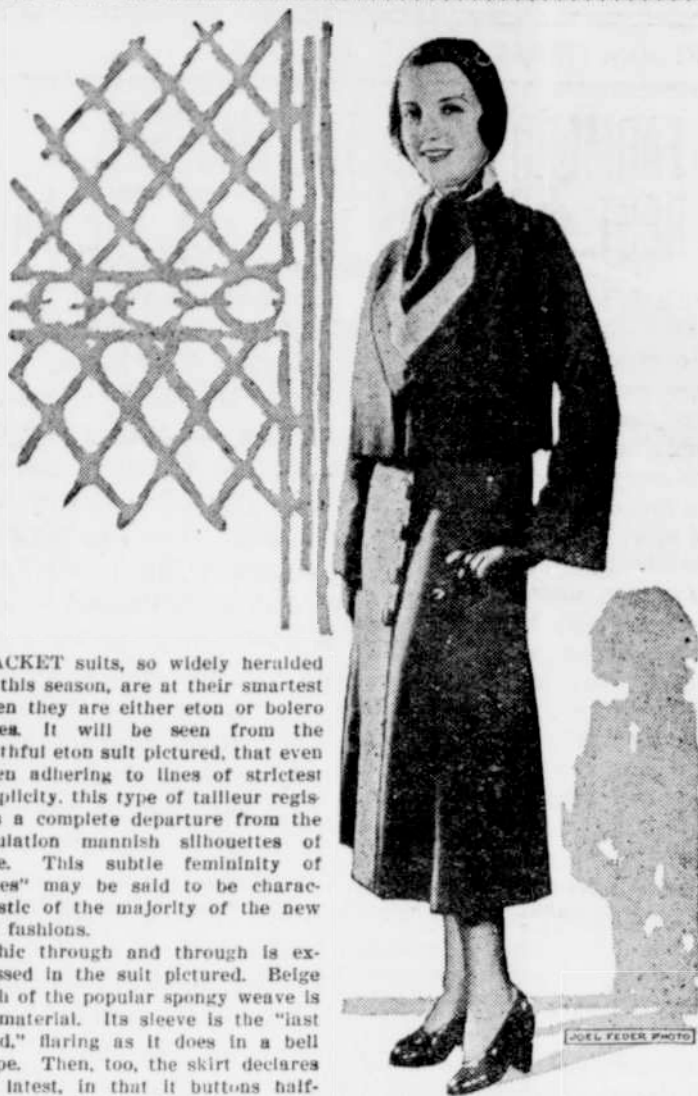

Of course, the sound of the clapping increases in volume as he keeps finding fresh players, so that by the time he touches the last one it has become quite loud. When he touches this player all the others clap very loudly; then the blind man knows that the game is finished, and removes his bandage.

Clothe the Heathen

"Daddy, do heathens wear clothes?" "Surely. What makes you ask such a question?"

"I only wondered why you put a button in the collection plate today."

ETON-JACKET SUITS OF SILK OR CLOTH SMART FOR SPRING

EXPRESSES CHIC THROUGH AND THROUGH

JACKET suits, so widely heralded this season, are at their smartest when they are either eton or bolero types. It will be seen from the youthful eton suit pictured, that even when adhering to lines of strictest simplicity, this type of tailor registers a complete departure from the regulation mannish silhouettes of yore. This subtle femininity of "lines" may be said to be characteristic of the majority of the new suit fashions.

Chic through and through is expressed in the suit pictured. Beige cloth of the popular spongy weave is its material. Its sleeve is the "last word," flaring as it does in a bell shape. Then, too, the skirt declares the latest, in that it buttons halfway down the front, featuring a snug-fitting hipline at the same time that it achieves a full hemline.

The scarf contributes a vivid splash of green which with the beige makes a striking color combination. Scarfs, by the way, are playing a most spectacular role this season, in accordance with fashion's demand. In fact, accessories in general are called upon to high-spot color to the nth degree. There's no such thing as exceeding the limit according to the color campaign which is being waged in the style realm for shoes, gloves, pocketbooks, handkerchiefs, scarfs and all the other details which complete a perfect costume.

If the gay color note is not sounded through a touch of flamboyant plaid here and there about the costume. It is perhaps because vivid stripes are flying the colors, and last but not 'y any means least on the program of fashion for this spring and summer, are the voguish tri-color effects worked through fabric manipulation or by combining three shades of ribbon, especially velvet ribbon which is so outstanding in the mode this season.

Turning again to the original theme under discussion—eton and bolero suits—there is this to say concerning them, the fact that they are classified under the caption "eton and bolero" in no way restricts the wide diversity of their styling. This is especially true in regard to the versatile bolero costume which is apt to be any type from a strictly tailor made to the soft, styled ensemble which indulges in a silhouette which involves all sorts of whimsical details such as scallops and pleating and novel sleeves and unusual necklines, not to forget fancy buttons which are made an outstanding trimming feature this season.

STRESSING CONTRAST WITH

Gay Color Season

In the world of fashion the very atmosphere is charged with gay color this season. Even the woman who has hitherto been wary of hectic hues must needs join the ranks of the color enthusiasts, if she would dress smartly.

In the separate jacket which tops the majority of costumes in the new style pageant, designers have discovered a most intriguing opportunity for exploiting color accent. The vogue takes on many phases, always with the thought of making striking contrast the outstanding theme.

One of the methods of stressing contrast is that of topping the light skirt or frock with a darker jacket. With a crepe, jersey, serge or flannel, according to the formality or informality of the occasion. Their styling varies greatly from hip-length tailored versions to boleros and etons.

Very good looking and clever 'or town and travel wear are two-piece tailors which partner a jacket of checked woolen with a skirt in a solid tone, a brown and beige check, for instance, with a brown skirt or checked navy and tan with navy skirt, not forgetting black with white.

Statue Held Symbol of Unity of Two People

Senior Daniel V. del Burgo, consul general of Chile in this country, has given a most interesting description of "The Christ of the Andes," the inspiring sculpture which stands at a mountainous elevation of 4,000 meters (13,000 feet) on the Chilean-Argentine frontier, says the newspaper La Verdad, of Caracas, Venezuela. Senior del Burgo says of this appealing figure that the suggestion for its establishment came from seeing the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor. It is seven meters high (23 feet) and weighs three tons. It can be seen for many kilometers on all the routes connecting the two republics of Argentina and Chile and is held in veneration by the peoples of both nations because it was erected, in 1902, to seal and commemorate the peaceful settlement of the final dispute between the two great South American republics. It was the women of these two countries who collected most of the funds necessary to defray the cost of the statue and its transportation and erection and whose influence was most exerted on the respective governments to provide a site and perpetual maintenance for the monument. "The Christ of the Andes" stands in a lonely and desolate spot, much the same, no doubt, as the wilderness in which "The Man of Sorrows" spent 40 days of his life in prayer and fasting. Yet the statue is not really lonely nor deserted, but visited constantly by thousands in their journeys to and fro, who call it, too, "The Christ of Amity," for the statue is the symbol of the bonds of friendship which henceforth and forever knit these two peoples together in a Christian fellowship.
